GREEN PROMISES THORO SHAKEUP IN STATE POLICE

Wants a Force Built on Merit System.

Complete reorganization of the Illinois highway police was promised yesterday by Governor Elect Dwight H. Green in reply to a number of inquiries whether he will improve conditions which have existed in the force in recent years.

He told a press conference that he was not ready to pass on the question of immediate civil service for the highway policemen, but it is believed after it has been rebuilt in accordance with his ideas he may approve extension of the merit system laws to cover them. In any event, he said, he believes selection, retention, and promotion must be based on some form of merit principle.

Expects a General Exodus.

Green was asked whether he intended to remove many members of the present force.

"I understand there is to be a general exodus," he said with a smile construed to mean that the prospect was pleasing to him.

"The Illinois state police force," he said in his statement, "should be as efficient and as free from political pressure as it is possible to make it. Every man of the approximately 300 members should be selected and kept in service on the basis of his mental and physical qualifications to fill such a job.

"Policing of our highways and the protection and regulation of private and industrial motor traffic call for a fine type of men particularly fitted for such work. A state policeman should possess a high degree of intelligence.

Favors Competitive Exams.

"I advocate thoro and expert study of those duties which state policemen are called on to perform, toward the end that only men adapted to every phase of those duties on the highways will be chosen to carry them out.

"In several states policemen obtain appointments by competitive examinations with strict minimum requirements. Some such method should be worked out for Illinois so that any incompetent officers may be removed and those well qualified may be retained.

"I am not prepared at this time to discuss the desirability of legislation placing state policemen under civil service, but I am convinced that some sort of merit test should determine their selection and tenure of service.

"Merit also should determine promotions. There should be some reward for competence and experience. There is no place for dishonest men on the state police force. Every policeman should be schooled thoroly in safety regulations.

Problem of Highway Safety.

"The sacrifice of lives on the highways is one of the biggest problems of the police. I believe policemen, selected for merit and thoroly trained to increase that merit, will be of the greatest assistance to motorists.

"Thru the years of the existence of the Illinois state police force, charges of incompetence and political pressure have been made. I have had no opportunity to determine the truth of any of the charges of graft and of unfair treatment of motorists, but a strict merit system, which in itself would be an incentive to the men themselves, should make infractions of regulations easier to detect and eliminate."

Recalls Howe Scandal.

Green mentioned no specific cases of incompetence on the state police force, but his remarks recalled the scandal involving John Howe, a state policeman whose past was revealed when he was arrested on a charge of attempting to bribe a juror. It was disclosed that Howe was indicted for robbery in 1930, committed to a state hospital, escaped, and later got on the police force. Last May 24 he was sentenced to one year to life in prison on the old robbery charge.

A general investigation following the Howe scandal revealed also that another state policeman, Frank Rizzo, had once served a reformatory sentence. Rizzo resigned from the force.

The governor elect will visit Springfield on Jan. 6 to attend a gridiron dinner of the Sangamo club, but he will not remain there for the party legislative caucuses on Jan. 7 or the convening of the general assembly on Jan. 8. His inauguration will be on Jan. 13.

POLICE FIND 17 FREED FELONS ARE REPEATERS

Sullivan Hits Action of Stelle Board.

Police records revealed yesterday that 17 of the 204 convicts freed from prison just before Christmas by order of Gov. John Stelle's parole board were crime repeaters. Of the 17, it was also disclosed, 14 have been given paroles on previous occasions.

A total of 31 crime repeaters thus have been given their freedom in parole board orders announced this month. Fourteen were included in the list of 187 paroles made public on Dec. 2.

[A crime repeater is defined by the police as a convict who has served more than one prison term or who, having been paroled, has committed an act that sends him back to prison as a parole violator.]

"Parade Is On," Says Sullivan.

"The parade is on," commented Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan last night. "It looks like a bad winter for Chicago. All of these parolees will not go south for the winter. Many of them will come back to Chicago and practice their trade."

Chief Sullivan cited the parole of Bradford [Skippy] Fields, 23 years old, as a problem to be added to the crime repeaters already loosed on Chicago by the parole board. Fields was sentenced six years ago as the leader of a youthful gang which committed more than 200 robberies on the north and northwest sides. His parole becomes effective Jan. 7.

"Altho he isn't a repeater in our sense of the word, that boy was a one man crime wave," Sullivan said. "He was an alumnus of St. Charles School for Boys and used to stroll away whenever he got bored with the place. Figuring 200 robberies, Fields did about 11 days in prison for each one."

Blasts Parole Board Claims.

Chief Sullivan took issue with the claim of parole officials that approximately 98 per cent of parolees "make good." He asserted that not more than 30 per cent of persons convicted of robbery with a gun ever make good citizens and discussed the case of John Porter, colored, 28, in illustration.

Porter, ordered freed in the last parole board order, was sent to Pontiac for robbery on Nov. 28, 1928. He was paroled on June 27, 1930, and discharged from his parole on Jan. 2, 1934. Two days later he robbed a pedestrian of $13 and went to Joliet on March 21, 1934.

"This man would be considered as having made good because he completed his parole period without doing anything criminal," Sullivan said. "Yet two days after the parole period is up he performs a robbery."

The Case of Frank Bianco.

Among those released in the last parole board order is Frank Bianco, 39, who was sent to Pontiac for burglary and larceny on Jan. 10, 1917. He was paroled Oct. 31, 1918, went back to Pontiac Nov. 22, 1920, for robbery, and was reparoled Aug. 1, 1924. He went back to Pontiac for parole violation Oct. 12, 1925, and again was paroled Dec. 28, 1927. He was discharged from this parole on April 21, 1932, and went to Joliet Feb. 27, 1934, for burglary. Now Stelle's parole board again has given him his freedom.

Other cases of repeaters given paroles are:

IRVING SMITH, 37, sentenced to Pontiac on charge of grand larceny. Paroled Dec. 14, 1925. Sentenced to Joliet on robbery charge Feb. 2, 1927; four other robbery charges stricken. Paroled May 8, 1937. Returned for violation of parole, Nov. 4, 1938.

Sentenced Twice as Robber.

BERNARD WALTON, 30, colored, sentenced to Pontiac for robbery Sept. 19, 1928. Paroled July 18, 1931. Sentenced to Pontiac Jan. 12, 1932, on robbery charge.

JOSEPH DE ROW, 25, sentenced to Illinois State reformatory for burglary, Oct. 14, 1932. Paroled Nov. 16, 1933. Sentenced to Joliet, July 11, 1935, for burglary.

CHARLES LATRONICA, 28, sentenced to Joliet, Feb. 25, 1932, on charge of rape. Paroled on undisclosed date. Sentenced to Joliet Feb. 8, 1934, for larceny of an automobile.

WILBUR JOHNSON, 34, colored sentenced to Mansfield, O., reformatory, for receiving stolen property on March 31, 1924. Sentenced to Columbus, O., penitentiary June 24,

'COMMON PEOPLE' ANSWER INTERVENTIONISTS' PLEA

Sen. Wheeler Hits Group 'Urging Us Into Conflict.'

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] charged today that a petition signed by 170 interventionists and released with implied approval by the White House last night was nothing less than a demand for a declaration of war against Germany.

Senator Wheeler.

The Montana noninterventionist described as highly significant the fact that the White House gave its tacit approval to the petition of the war interventionists, but has never released petitions sent to President Roosevelt by peace groups and others urging him to keep this country out of war.

Ask Belligerent Stand.

The interventionist petition, drafted by President James B. Conant of Harvard university and Lewis W. Douglas, president of the Mutual Insurance company, urged Mr. Roosevelt to take a warlike stand in his radio address to the nation next Sunday night and "make it the settled policy of this country to do everything that may be necessary to assure the defeat of the axis powers."

Reports in authoritative quarters today indicated that Mr. Roosevelt would not disappoint the interventionists in his discussion of plans to give greater aid to Great Britain.

Closing the Door.

The administration last Saturday apparently closed the door to any consideration of the possibility of a negotiated peace in Europe. A statement issued in the name of William S. Knudsen, director of the new supercouncil of national defense, called the European contest "irreconcilable" and said it could not be terminated by any methods of "appeasement."

Since then, however, Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], Senator Wheeler, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], and others have demanded that the possibility of a negotiated peace be explored before committing this country to greater participation in the war.

Implication by Wheeler.

In his statement denouncing the petition of the war interventionists Senator Wheeler implied that President Roosevelt's scheme to purchase and mortgage or lend unlimited quantities of war materials to Great Britain might be followed by the lending and mortgaging of American boys to fight in Europe.

Senator Wheeler asserted that no one could read the petition released with the implied approval of the White House "without coming to the definite conclusion that this group wants nothing less than a declaration of war by the United States."

"This is the same old crowd," Wheeler went on, "that from the inception of the war has been urging us, step by step, to get into the war. It doesn't take any courage for a lot of college professors and bankers who are too old to go into the front line trenches to urge a war that somebody else is going to have to fight, or to urge that the youth of America be loaned or mortgaged to Great Britain to do her fighting.

"Analyze the List!"

"Analyze the list! Some of them are financially interested. Another group is composed of those who are emotionally affected by what is happening in Europe. The other group is more English than American.

"It is significant that you don't find any farm organizations or any labor organizations or any mothers' organizations or any youth organizations signing petitions to the President urging him to declare war. This crowd wants us to go to war in order to preserve democracy in the United States. Whoever heard of a group of British tories being interested in democracy?"

Midwest Responds to Iowa Editor's Radio Appeal.

The drive to keep the United States out of all foreign wars rose to crescendo yesterday as citizens in different sections of the country rallied to the cause of "America First."

1. An avalanche of telegrams and telephone calls of "common people" opposing American intervention in European quarrels poured into the central western headquarters of the No Foreign War committee at Cedar Rapids, Ia. These messages are to be transmitted to the White House in answer to the 170 "prominent persons" who, the White House announced on Thursday, had urged the President to do "everything that may be necessary to insure defeat of the axis powers."

2. Indications of a crackup of the William Allen White Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, extreme interventionist propaganda group, were revealed in reports that White, the Kansas editor, might be ousted by his own committee. White's backers were reported incensed by the Kansan's recent assertion that he would tell Europe that "the Yanks aren't coming."

3. Clarence Budington Kelland, noted Indiana born author, warned in a speech in New York that the swelling tide of "deliberately induced war hysteria" is threatening to drive the United States into the war. He urged that the nation be made safe against this "no matter what comes to Europe, Asia, or Africa."

VERNE MARSHALL'S APPEAL

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 27 [Special].—Verne Marshall, chairman of the No Foreign War committee, urged in two radio broadcasts tonight that the "common people" permit use of their names on a telegram to be forwarded to President Roosevelt before his Sunday night broadcast.

The telegram, he said, would answer the one made public at the White House yesterday in which 170 persons urged the President to do "everything that may be necessary to insure defeat of the axis powers."

Avalanche of Response.

Marshall had hardly ceased speaking before a barrage of messages descended on the office of the Cedar Rapids Gazette, of which he is editor, from persons asking that their names be included in the telegram. Telegraph offices were swamped with messages as were his telephones. Up to midnight 1,498 signatures had been authorized for use by the No Foreign War committee on the telegram. There were 1,193 names authorized by the phone and 22 received by letters and personal calls at Marshall's office.

"The common people who furnish the cannon fodder and the food when wars are fought, and who are taxed unceasingly," Marshall said in his talks, "should not pay for those wars which are forced on them by governments and men whose greed for power and authority transcends all the principles of that sort of democracy to which Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln dedicated their lives.

It's "America First."

"No one hopes for the victory of Britain in this war more than does the No Foreign War committee. But more than it hopes for anybody's victory, it hopes—and it is determined to bring its hopes to fruition—that the United States of America will not again get into Europe's everlasting economic, political, and ideological war, to which the people of America have made no contribution whatsoever, and for which they have provided no cause.

"And so it seemed to me that out here in the great middle west, where, after all, the issues of this nation ever have been finally solved wisely and well, regardless of what the eastern seaboard population may have inflicted on us—out here it's up to the common people to let the administration at Washington know that regardless of how 170 university and college presidents, scientists, editors, publishers, and politicians may feel when they sign a telegram asking the President to go all the way for Britain, the people of the great middle

Keep Ships Out of Irish Ports, Nazis Tell U. S.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—Germany tonight warned against attempts by American, Irish or other neutral ships to ignore the Nazi blockade and send more support to England via Ireland.

The German press declared that "the blockade area has been defined by Germany. International shipping is aware of this danger area. Whoever appears in it exposes himself to belligerent action."

The Boersenzeitung expressed solicitude for the neutrality of Ireland in view "of the suggestions to the United States to change the neutrality law and remove Ireland from the zones barred to American shipping, thus making it possible to send war material meant for England to Ireland in American ships. From Ireland it would be sent on to England. Whether this would be a service to the Irish people is a question which the Irish themselves must decide. Germany watches all efforts to provide England with extra shipping space most closely."

Irish Restrict Gasoline Sales.

DUBLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—The Irish government tonight announced restrictions on the distribution of gasoline "owing to unforeseen difficulties in connection with the maintenance of supply."

During the day Irish officials had accepted as a natural consequence of Britain's curtailed shipping a London prohibition against the exportation to Ireland without license of several items important to Irish economy, including cattle feed.

"We won't starve," said one Irish official, "we are an agricultural country."

British Order Restrictions.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP). — Britain placed restrictions today upon the reexport to Ireland of several vital commodities brought across the Atlantic in ships guerded by British guns. The board of trade, a government department, issued an order prohibiting exportation to Ireland without license of cattle feed, fertilizer, unmanufactured tobacco, oranges, lemons, and several classes of tools.

Under the new order, effective Jan. 1, the board of trade can start or stop the flow of these commodities at will. Ireland has no other source of supply except Britain. Many Britishers declare that Ireland, because of her refusal to provide bases for British convoys, should be deprived of the products the convoys bring from abroad.

[Ireland has declared her neutrality and refused the British the right to establish naval bases on her territory, contending her neutrality thereby would be compromised.]

Pledged "Axis Support."

The Dublin correspondent of the London Daily Mail reported tonight that the Rome radio had offered full axis support to Ireland in the event of "British aggression." This was the radio's statement, according to the correspondent:

"Should the Irish people be forced to defend themselves against British aggression they can be assured of the full and wholehearted help of the axis powers."

CUPID'S ARROWS FIND MORE VICTIMS THAN EVER SEEN IN COUNTY

A new record for the number of marriage licenses issued in Cook county in a year was established yesterday when a high school band leader from Ohio and a Chicago girl obtained a license.

They received the 43,776th license issued thus far in 1940, shattering the previous record of 43,775 established in 1936. The couple, Don Lowell Parlette, 28 years old, West Unity, O., and Miss Eleanor Pressler, 21, of 5091 Avondale avenue, were congratulated by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn.

They were married a few minutes later by Judge John J. Wallace of Calumet City, sitting in the Marriage court. The two met three weeks ago when Mrs. Parlette was directing a home talent show in West Unity.

ASK KING GEORGE TO INTERVENE IN NEWARK STRIKE

New York, Dec. 27 [Special].—King George of England today was urged to take time out to intervene personally to end a six week strike in a British owned dog food factory in Newark, N. J.

The fervent plea to "your majesty" to "terminate this industrial conflict in the American way," was contained in a message sent to the British monarch by Samuel Macri Sr., acting New Jersey regional director of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The 89 striking C.I.O. members at Spratts Patent, Ltd., demand higher wages, improved working conditions and full recognition of their union.

Britain Cuts Price of Eggs; They'll Be 82 Cents a Dozen

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—The ministry of food announced tonight the price of fresh eggs produced in Britain and Northern Ireland would be reduced three pence [about 5 cents] per dozen starting Dec. 30. The price then will be about 82 cents a dozen.

British Officer Praises Hitler; Tried; Scolded

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Lieut. Thomas Lonsdale Hilton, a royal naval volunteer reserve officer, was sentenced to be "severely reprimanded" by a disciplinary court at Great Yarmouth today for "expressing defeatist views liable to cause alarm and despondency among the public."

The chief witness, Capt. Robert Soanes, testified he got into conversation with Hilton on a bus Dec. 9. According to Soanes, Hilton said Adolf Hitler was a clever man to have invaded the Low Countries so rapidly. He also spoke of how Hitler sent troops into Norway across 120 miles of water, Soanes said, and asked, "Where was the British navy that they had not stopped them?"

Says Democracy Bad.

Hilton also allegedly declared democratic government was rotten and if Britain did not watch out she would be blockaded. He maintained, Soanes said, that Britain could not build ships fast enough to replace those already sunk.

Soanes testified that Hilton asserted South Africa was only half heartedly in the war. He quoted Hilton as saying it took the allies four and a half years to beat Germany in the last war and "goodness knows how long it will take to beat them without allies."

Wrote Down Remarks.

Soanes also informed the court that Hilton complained that the government could find plenty of money for the war, but not for old age pensioners.

The captain revealed that when he returned home he wrote down Hilton's remarks and reported them to his superior officer.

The prosecutor told the court that there could be no doubt Hilton's remarks must be regarded as of a defeatist character and therefore prejudicial to good order and naval discipline.

4 Killed as Auto Dives 1,800 Feet Into Canyon

Flagstaff, Ariz., Dec. 27 (AP).—Four persons were found dead today in Oak Creek canyon, victims of an 1,800 foot plunge in their automobile. Jack Liston, a highway patrolman, said the car left the highway on a dangerous curve, ripped off 40 feet of guard rail, and plunged to the bottom of the canyon. He identified three of the victims as Walter Witten, Salinas, Cal., and Deates Boydsten and Leroy Hines, both of Carnegie, Okla. The unidentified passenger was a woman.

west are unalterably opposed to giving away their defenses and to getting us into this war.

"We must answer to the White House tomorrow the telegram released yesterday by the White House, quoting 170 men and women, all of whom or most of whom would be too old to fight, answering them to the effect that the common people of the middle west don't agree either that this country should go to war or that its defense should be given away in 3 billion dollar bunches at their expense by their elected government."

Marshall emphasized that the No Foreign War committee is not working for a Nazi victory.

"That should be made plain," he declared, "and any who accuses any individual connected with this committee, any contributor to this committee, or any one in any way identified with the work of this committee of being an appeaser, a Nazi, a fifth columnist, or anti anything except antiwar, accuses us so dangerously that I hereby warn him to beware.

Against War Only.

"The No Foreign War committee seeks only to keep this country out of a European war that has lasted for centuries, that is only a renewal of the same old economic, ideological, and political war forced on the millions of these helpless countries by governments and men whose greed for power and trade and profits permits them to forget the principles of democracy and Christianity which we are asked this week to remember especially."

Referring to his own service as front line ambulance driver with the French army at Verdun before this country entered the world war, and his subsequent enlistment as a private in the American army, Marshall said, "I believed in democracy then. I believe in democracy now. If I thought the first line of our defense was 3,000 miles east of New York City, I would be in that first line, and I wouldn't be asking any one to go unless I went."

"Silly Old Dollar."

Marshall referred to Mr. Roosevelt's reportedly announced intention to eliminate what he called "the silly, fool old dollar sigh from consideration of help to England."

"The dollar sign may seem a silly, fool old thing to President Roosevelt," the editor exclaimed, "but reflect on what a glorious Christmas that three billion dollars of which he speaks would have been able to give the one-third of the nation which he says is ill fed, ill clothed, and ill housed."

Marshall said that in brief his committee's telegram would ask the President:

"Please, as our elected servant, keep us out of this war. Do not give away our national defense if we are so endangered as you repeatedly tell us we are. Above all, do not give away to any country 3 billion dollars worth of our defensive needs if our peril is one-third as grave as you and Bill Knudsen say it is."

INTERVENTIONIST DISCORD

New York, Dec. 27 [Special].—Signs of discord and ferment within the ranks of the country's most outspoken and extreme war interventionist group—the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies—were publicly in evidence here today.

The New York chapter of the nation-wide organization issued a statement announcing "We will not be intimidated by the word 'warmonger,'" and reaffirmed that "we hate Nazism."

Simultaneously, in another statement, four executive members announced that a meeting will be held on Monday at which a statement of policy adopted by the group last November is expected to be reaffirmed and strengthened. According to the notice, the committee stands "unqualifiedly and unalterably" by the previously formulated policy.

William Allen White, Kansas editor, who as chairman of the committee has been its chief spokesman, precipitated the discord in the committee when he announced last week that he wants to keep America out of war.

Today Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, retired wartime commander and an interventionist, tendered his tentative resignation from the committee.

In an open letter to White, Gen. O'Ryan said: "If your statement . . . published Dec. 23 is authentic, please consider this letter my resignation as a member of the White committee." He termed the present policy of the committee "pallid and ineffective."

KELLAND'S STAND

On still another front Clarence Budington Kelland, well known author, declared in a speech here that "nothing that can happen across the ocean can justify the slaughter of American boys." He added that "wholesale murder in Europe does not warrant wholesale suicide by Americans."

Kelland warned that American entrance into any foreign war will have only the result of utterly wasting American youth and dissipating resources of the United States.

He emphasized that the nation is being "worked upon adroitly by the printed word, by pictures, and by the air waves" to make way for acceptance of foreign war "when it comes." He declared this country's rôle in world affairs is "not to pull chestnuts out of the fire."

"The No Foreign War committee must place itself behind the program to make America safe, no matter what comes to Europe, Asia, or Africa," Kelland said.

SEES OUTCOME OF U. S. POLICIES AS DOUBLE WAR

Political Scientist Hits Lag in Defense.

American foreign policy underwent dissection yesterday at the opening session of the 26th annual meeting of the American Political Science association. Brooks Emeny of the Cleveland Council on Foreign Relations told the meeting that the policy of aid to Great Britain and to China "may not be carried to its logical conclusion short of war, a fact which our people have not taken into full consideration."

The political scientists began their four day session at the Palmer House as the 35th annual meeting of the American Sociological society opened in the Congress and Stevens hotels with a consideration of family problems.

Paradox of U. S. Position.

Emeny told the political scientists that the "paradox" of the current American position arises "from the fact that our desire to attain the goals achievable only thru transoceanic crusades cannot be justified unless we remain after such a war the dominant power in the regions to which we have gone to fight—a function which geography and our own peculiar political structure do not permit."

"In the past," Emeny said, "we have assumed that the mere expression of our disapproval of the policies of certain transoceanic powers and the threat of economic pressure thru embargoes against them would be sufficient either to encourage the successful resistance of other democracies nearer the scene, or force a general change in the policies of the dictatorship states.

Only One Friend Left.

"Thru the pursuit of such a course we have succeeded in alienating the friendship of every major power in the world with the exception of Great Britain, and that nation is now fighting with its back against the wall.

"It is one of the basic rules in the game of power politics that if you talk big you want to mean what you say."

The problem of American defense, Emeny continued, must also be considered in relation to the broader aspects of America's position in the world.

"In the first place," he said, "the idea of the two ocean navy is adaptable in the long run either to the demands of hemisphere defense or of transoceanic war. But since a navy of that size is not to be achieved until 1947, it appears that our naval strength for the immediate future is hardly adaptable to a major war on two fronts.

Logic of Present Policy.

"Yet such a double war is precisely the logic of our present policy of aid to Britain and China. The policy of aid to which we are committed may not be carried to its logical conclusion short of war, a fact which our people have not taken into full consideration."

Touching on another aspect of the war, Prof. Joseph S. Roucek of Hofstra college, Hempstead, N. Y., said a well organized underground revolutionary movement is under way in Czecho-Slovakia, despite efforts by the German secret police to crush it. It is led, he said, by individuals respected in their communities—generally the substantial class of business men, scholars, and political figures.

"The Czech technique of resistance," Prof. Roucek told the political scientists, "runs from one of the mildest and yet one of the most effective methods—that of grumbling, intentional gestures, and expressions of dissent halting short of disrespect—to organized resistance related to incidental or intended violence."

Problems of the Family.

In considering family problems, the sociologists heard almost a dozen papers dealing with law and the protection of the family, education as a community resource for conservation of the family, family counseling, family health, and advice on halting the stammering habit in children.

On the last subject Dr. Ralph C. Hamill, former president of the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene, said the best way to deal with a stammering child is to set an example of proper speaking, without making an attempt to correct the child. In most cases the difficulty will gradually disappear, he said.

Urge Draftees Be Allowed to Take Bar Examinations

A resolution that men of military draft age who are studying law be allowed to take their bar examinations before induction into the army was adopted yesterday at the Association of American Law Schools convention in the Edgewater Beach hotel. A copy of the resolution will be sent to President Roosevelt. More than 450 professors of law from 90 universities and colleges are attending the convention which closes tomorrow.

PAN-AMERICAN SYSTEM TO AID TEACHERS URGED

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 27 (AP).—The resolutions committee of the Pan-American conference on commercial and economic education today recommended the establishment of a system of "teacher-contacts" in western hemisphere cities to aid the studies of traveling educators.

These Pan-American committees would enable guest teachers to get in touch with the real life of the various cities and countries they visit thru the aid of fellow teachers.

A joint resolutions committee representing North and Latin America was named under the chairmanship of Mrs. Martha Raymoth of Chicago, and Miguel Ochoa of Cuba.

The education of rural women in Illinois thru the home demonstration work of the United States department of agriculture and the University of Illinois was discussed by Miss Fannie Brooks, health education specialist.

MAUGHAM SAYS BRITAIN NEEDS GOODS, NOT MEN

A British victory was predicted last night by W. Somerset Maugham, English writer, speaking in the Stevens hotel before the National Conference on Family Relations. Maugham said British morale was high, but that his country needed American planes, ships, and munitions.

"We don't need your men," he said. "However, if we lose your danger will be greater. If Germany wins your country will face a German world hegemony."

Maugham cited several instances of courage on the part of London civilians and their refusal to let the constant bombings unnerve them.

GERMAN JAILED ON CHARGE HE IS FOREIGN AGENT

U. S. Bond for Draftsman Set at $10,000.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 27 [Special].—Eugene J. Buerk, a native and subject of Germany, was bound over to the federal grand jury under $10,000 bond today on a charge of failing to register with the secretary of state as an agent of a foreign government.

Federal authorities charged that Buerk visited two Milwaukee residents in behalf of the German consulate at Chicago and that he failed to register as a German agent. He is 40 years old, a draftsman in a manufacturing firm, and lives in suburban Wauwatosa.

Buerk came to public notice two years ago when he recruited skilled mechanics for jobs in Germany. He sent more than 200 Milwaukee men and their families to Germany, pledging them to remain there at least two years. However, that activity was not involved in his present difficulties.

Unable to Raise Bond.

Agents of the federal bureau of investigation arrested him last night and took him to the county jail where he spent the night. Today he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Floyd L. Jenkins, before whom he waived preliminary hearing. Unable to raise bond immediately, he was returned to jail.

One of the men Buerk was said to have visited is a veteran of the German army and now a United States citizen who wrote to his son in Germany advising him to come to America and avoid service in the war. The other was Alan Dale, a Marquette university student who wrote to Germany for an autograph of Baron Konstantin von Neurath, then German foreign minister.

Buerk was said to have organized a branch of the German Citizens' league in Milwaukee. He asserted he could not be a member of the German-American Volksbund because he was not an American citizen.

HELPS LOCATE RELATIVES.

E. L. Baer, German consul general in Chicago, last night described Eugene J. Buerk as a German national living in Milwaukee who occasionally assisted the German consulate in locating relatives of persons living in Germany.

"Once or twice a year I would get requests from Germany to locate relatives living in Milwaukee, and I would ask Mr. Buerk to help find them," said the consul general. "I have asked pastors, postmasters, and police chiefs in other cities for the same assistance."

The consul general said that Buerk has visited the Chicago consulate several times. Buerk's services were in no way official, he added. Dr. Baer asserted that Buerk is not a member of the bund.

The consul general cleared up the Alan Dale incident. He said that Dale's request to Baron Konstantin von Neurath was forwarded to the Chicago consulate from Germany for investigation, and that Buerk interviewed Dale at the consul general's request. "I couldn't go up to Milwaukee myself to interview him," Dr. Baer said.

The consulate is not interested in the bund and German nationals are forbidden to join it, Dr. Baer said.

Flax to Grow in Canberra's Parks as Aid in War Effort

CANBERRA, Australia, Dec. 27.—Parts of Canberra's gardens and plantations will be converted to the growing of flax for war materials. A large area of park land fronting the parliament house and scores of miles along roadside plantations have been set aside for this purpose.

DIES GROUP EYES SHIFT IN SILVER SHIRT ACTIVITY

Noblesville, Ind., Dec. 27 (AP).—William Dudley Pelley, whose Silver Shirts of America was investigated by the Dies committee, says he has disbanded his organization and come to Indiana to publish books, but his publishers indicated today that the committee still was interested in his ventures.

Carl Losey, former Indiana state policeman and now president of Fellowship Press, Inc., said he learned that committee agents would be here to investigate the corporation he established to issue Pelley's books and bimonthly business men's magazine.

Losey said that his firm had obtained an old box factory here and would begin publishing within two months, using equipment purchased from Skyland Press, Inc., of Asheville, N. C., which until a month ago issued the Silver Shirt organ "Liberation."

The Indianapolis Star said today that Silver Shirt officials had told D. C. Stephenson, formerly head of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, that they would "negotiate" his release from prison if he would become their national leader, but that he had rejected the offer. Stephenson is serving a life term in Michigan City prison for the murder of Madge Oberholtzer.

FORM PHILIPPINE COMMITTEE TO BACK DE GAULLE

MANILA, Philippine Islands, Dec. 27 (AP).—A committee of Frenchmen living in the Philippines was formed today to recommend means under which "free Frenchmen" might join the De Gaulle movement. The committee was headed by Auguste Vabre, an engineer and major in the French artillery reserves. A veteran of the world war, he came to the Philippines in 1937.

Vabre termed the Franco-German armistice "shameful" and said the Vichy régime, in collaborating with Germany, "cares only for the realization of its despicable and petty political ambitions."

"Free Frenchmen" in the Philippines, he said, "are ready to help to the utmost the cause of Britain, which is the cause of France, and of all free, peace-loving countries in the world."

'ENEMY' RAIDER SHELLS BRITISH ISLE IN PACIFIC

Report Sea Prowler Flew Japanese Flag.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 27 (AP).—A mysterious sea prowler sailing under the colors of Japan carried war today to a tiny former German atoll in the western Pacific, heavily shelling the islet of Nauru at daybreak, the Australian government announced.

The islet, almost exactly on the equator and lying south of the Japanese mandated islands, is mandated to the British empire. It is 1,300 miles northeast of the Australian mainland.

Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced that buildings and a plant [perhaps a radio station] were pounded badly, but there were no casualties.

Blames "Enemy."

He laid the attack directly to the "enemy," obviously meaning Germany, said Nauru was completely undefended and "the enemy knows this fact, which removed any justification for his action."

Furthermore, he charged, the attack "is a greater crime because it was made under neutral colors. The raider attacked under a Japanese name and Japanese colors—those of a country with whom we are at peace."

[In London it was said a German raider has been operating in the western Pacific. A Manila dispatch reported three British freighters and one tanker had been sunk near Singapore by a raider in one week late in November and early in December.]

3,500 Live on Isle.

Australian officials did not attempt to explain the raider's motive in shelling Nauru, also known as Pleasant Island. This 8½ mile long, 5,400 acre guano atoll is, however, a considerable exporter of phosphates, sending out nearly 1,000,000 tons a year. Fewer than 3,500 people live there.

Germany annexed it in 1888, but the island capitulated to the Australian cruiser Melbourne during the world war.

Seek to Trap Raiders.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Evidence that the British are making strenuous efforts to catch German raiders operating in the south Pacific was seen today in an announcement that all ships heading for Fiji Island ports must call first at Suva for orders. Navy headquarters here said the new order becomes effective Jan. 1.

Shipping circles said that control of all vessels in the area would make it difficult for raiders to provision at small island ports. It also was believed that British and Dutch naval forces had mined certain areas in an attempt to trap raiders.

TWO U. S. SAILORS LOST; SHIP UNDER FLAG OF PANAMA

Reveal Standard Oil Tanker Sunk.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Capt. Eric R. Blomquist of the Standard Oil tanker Charles Pratt cabled the company's New York office tonight that only two American seamen—and not 22, as originally reported—lost their lives in the sinking of his vessel Dec. 21 off the west African coast.

Arrow shows where ship believed sunk.

The cable, which did not reveal any details of the sinking, was transmitted thru the company's London office. It read:

"Ship lost 21st. All crew rescued except Arthur Duffy, wiper [of Bayonne, N. J.], and Patrick Dougherty, ordinary seaman [of Philadelphia]."

Carried Crew of 42.

The 8,982 ton tanker carried an American crew of 42. It was owned by the Panama Transport company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil company of New Jersey, and flew the flag of Panama.

Company officials earlier announced receipt of another cable from London reporting the sinking of the tanker with the probable loss of 22 lives.

They placed the scene of the sinking as near Freetown, a British African possession. Carrying 5,000,000 gallons of fuel oil, the tanker left Aruba, the Dutch West Indies, Dec. 5, for Freetown.

The tanker was one of a group owned by Standard Oil which were transferred to foreign registry when the neutrality act banned American shipping from belligerent waters.

She was the eighth vessel flying the Panamanian flag sunk since the war started. Several were Standard Oil ships. A Standard Oil official said the Charles Pratt was the first of their former ships, which have been lost, to carry an American crew.

Why Americans Sailed Ship.

The presence of American seamen aboard the vessel was explained by the fact that the proclamation banning American nationals and ships from belligerent waters did not designate African waters, except the Mediterranean, as belligerent.

Mackay Radio picked up a distress call from the British steamer Ardanbhan which reported she had been torpedoed today. The steamer gave her position as approximately 600 miles west of Scotland.

HOLLAND BANS JAZZ ON RADIO; SEIZES STATIONS

BY PIET VAN'T VEER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Dec. 27.—Hot jazz and crooning are to be banned from the Dutch radio in the future. This was announced by Vander Vengt, the new Dutch radio chief. He said that lectures designed to promote a better understanding with Germany and the "new Europe" will be included in the programs.

It was announced that the Dutch state will take over the four Dutch radio stations which heretofore have been privately owned. One national broadcasting system will be formed to replace the independent stations under the sponsorship of Catholic, Socialist and Protestant associations.

Beginning Jan. 1 the million Dutch radio listeners will be required to pay a monthly tax of 40 cents.

U. S. OVERRULES HILLMAN ON HIS FORD PROTEST

Announces Award of New Defense Contract.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—The war department, overruling a protest by Sidney Hillman, tersely announced today that a $1,387,500 order for 1,500 midget scout cars which had been placed with the Ford Motor company would stand.

Hillman, labor member of the defense production board and a vice president of the Congress of Industrial organizations, had challenged the contract on the ground that it lacked certain labor safeguards.

"After careful consideration of the protest," said a statement by Undersecretary Robert P. Patterson, "the war department announced today that the award would be allowed to stand."

Smaller Order to Stand.

Officials said a $625,000 order for passenger cars which figured in the controversy to a lesser degree also would continue in effect. Announced Nov. 27, neither contract has been formally signed, pending agreement on details.

The statement was coupled with an announcement of a $21,965,420 contract to reimburse the Ford company for the cost of constructing a new aircraft engine plant and magnesium casting foundry at Dearborn, Mich., where the automobile company has undertaken the construction of thousands of airplane engines for the defense program.

A $122,323,020 order for Pratt & Whitney radial motors to be built by Ford was placed Nov. 6.

Change in Policy.

The rejection of Hillman's protest was tempered by official confirmation that the war department was considering a general revision of labor policy which, informed quarters predicted, might result in incorporating some of the labor demands in future defense contracts.

In placing defense orders aggregating already more than $10,000,000,000, both the war and navy departments have stipulated that contractors must conform to the Walsh-Healey act's provision for a 40 hour week with extra pay for overtime. Such a clause is required by law.

What Hillman Wants.

Hillman and other labor leaders have contended, however, that the contracts should include a stipulation that manufacturers must conform with the Wagner act. Hillman pointed out that the labor board had declared the Ford company guilty of unfair labor practices. [The company has appealed the finding.]

William S. Knudsen, defense commissioner, has emphasized that congress failed to require a Wagner act clause in contracts, in contrast with the Walsh-Healey stipulation. Other officials have contended the army and navy should avoid the rôle of enforcement agents for any labor or social legislation.

Offered Premiership, Says Finland's Agrarian Leader

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 27 (AP).—Eero Pehkonen, agrarian leader and governor of Oulu province, who has been discussed for the Finnish premiership, arrived here today and said he had been offered the task of forming a new government. The premiership was left open with the recent election of Risto Ryti as president.

Battle Fiercely Among Peaks

The principal news of the Italian-Greek warfare of yesterday is summarized in captions on the map.

ITALIANS BATTLE TO HOLD KLISURA MOUNTAIN PASS

Fierce Fight Rages on Albanian Peaks.

ATHENS, Dec. 27 (AP).—On snow-bound peaks Greeks and Italians were locked tonight in a furious battle for Klisura. The Italians fiercely defended that mountain gateway thru which the Greek right flank seeks to fight its way into Tepeleni and on to the port of Valona in a coördinated drive with the coastal left flank.

In the Tepelini area a government spokesman said the Italians had been driven from several villages in battles on the high, cold terrain. Their retreat northwestward from Chimara continued, he added, and in that sector the Greeks pressed an uninterrupted advance.

200 Prisoners Taken.

A general headquarters communique claimed the capture of more than 200 prisoners, including some officers, and "many automatic weapons and mortars" in operations on an unspecified front.

The importance of Klisura pass was emphasized by large reënforcements the Italians were reported to have concentrated there. Its capture would open the route to Tepeleni.

From there a road continues northwestward to Valona, vital Adriatic port toward which the Italians have been falling back under pressure of Greek advances along the Albanian coast.

Claims Greeks Have Edge.

"Realizing the great importance of the pass," a Greek military advice said, "the Italians concentrated as many forces as they could in their determination to frustrate at any cost the plans of the general staff.

"With each day, however, the battle is turning to our advantage."

As the fight raged on an ever-broadening scale, Greek forces to the north were reported to be threatening to cut the highway to Berat, objective in the right flank's encircling movement toward Valona.

GLORIA VANDERBILT.

New York, Dec. 27 [Special].—Gloria Laura Vanderbilt, 17 year old heiress and daughter of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, will have to worry along with $25,750 annually for the next three years for her support, maintenance, and education.

That amount, plus $250 pin money, was authorized for the attractive heiress today by Surrogate James A. Foley. Thomas B. Gilchrist, Gloria's general guardian, was also directed to pay $21,000 a year to the subdeb's mother and $3,000 to the grandmother, Mrs. Laura K. Morgan.

Gilchrist's accounting of young Gloria's property showed its net worth as $4,280,394, with an income of $137,356 for 1940.

U. S. Subtender Fulton Launched; Cost 12 Million

Expect Full U. S. Budget to Total 16 Billions.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—National defense costs will approximate 10 billion dollars in the fiscal year which is to begin July 1, it was reported in official circles today as President Roosevelt began consideration of the budget message he will send to congress on Jan. 7.

On Jan. 6 the President will make a personal appearance before congress to deliver his annual message on the state of the Union.

At his semiweekly press conference today Mr. Roosevelt gave no hint as to the size of the budget. He is still working out details. However, he has said that he wants nondefense expenditures cut to the bone, which would indicate that these expenditures are to be held within 6 billion dollars.

Together with the estimated 10 billions for defense, this would give a budget total of approximately 16 billion dollars—the largest in the nation's history except for the 18½ billion dollar budget for the last year of the world war, the 1918-'19 fiscal year.

British Aid Included.

Out of the 10 billions for defense Mr. Roosevelt would finance his scheme to lend or lease war supplies to Great Britain on the theory that such action would contribute to American defense. It is expected that Mr. Roosevelt might ask congress some time after the submission of his budget message to permit him to lend or lease about 3 billion dollars' worth of war materials purchased under the 10 billion dollar defense appropriation.

The remaining 7 billions would go for defense at home. This is not an inconsiderable item in view of the fact that when the present defense program was inaugurated the administration said it was asking the huge sum to create and arm a force of 1,200,000 men. It promised that succeeding appropriations would not be so great because all necessary material would be supplied by the current program.

Authorization a Factor.

Considerable defense spending may not be reflected immediately in the budget but may take the form of contract authorizations. Under the current program a total of 8 billion 834 million dollars was appropriated for the army, navy, and civil defense purposes and a total of 9 billion 9 million dollars of contract authorizations was allowed. These made the complete defense program one of 17 billion 843 million dollars.

It is possible that Mr. Roosevelt will not present the full defense picture in his budget measure, but may list immediate needs and announce that he will send a supplementary defense message to congress when he is in a better position to judge the international situation.

On the income side of the budget, officials estimate that total revenues may reach 8 billion dollars. This would leave a deficit of the same amount—a record even for the New Deal—unless new taxes are enacted. It is understood a new tax bill is being drawn.

833 Millions a Month.

A 10 billion dollar defense spending program would call for spending at the rate of 833 million dollars a month. At present the administration is spending about 400 millions a month and hopes to reach the rate of 750 millions a month in June.

The treasury gave notice that tenders are invited for treasury bills to the amount of 100 million dollars for defense financing. The bills will be designated national defense series, 90 day bills, and will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders at the federal reserve banks or their branches up until 2 o'clock eastern standard time Monday afternoon.

The bills will be dated Jan. 2, 1941, and mature April 2, 1941, and on the maturity date the face amount will be paid without interest. They will be issued in amounts of $1,000, $10,000, $100,000, $500,000, and $1,000,000 and will be exempt from all taxation except estate, inheritance, and gift taxes.

On Dec. 11 the treasury offered 500 million dollars of fully taxable defense notes which mature in five years and bear interest at the rate of ¾ of 1 per cent.

At his press conference Mr. Roosevelt said that the plan for utilizing the automobile industry to produce 500 planes a day, advanced by the C. I. O., is being seriously considered by the administration. He said that he had referred it to the office of production management of the new four man defense control board.

Asked about the congressional peace movement proposals, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he had no news on that today. Asked further whether the reply implied that he might have something on the subject later, he repeated that he had nothing to say today. Mr. Roosevelt also said, in response to questions whether he might discuss a peace movement in his Sunday night address, that he could not tell yet because he only had reached draft No. 2 of the address.

Truce Comment Refused.

He was told that there had been suggestions that he had arranged the Christmas air truce between Britain and Germany and was asked whether he cared to comment. He didn't care to comment. Neither would he comment on the German official spokesman's declaration that the United States foreign policy was one of "pin pricks" and that seizure of foreign flag ships in American waters for use by the British would be a "warlike" act.

Divorce Is Final

RUBY KEELER.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 27 [Special].—The thin matrimonial thread which for a year kept Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler within the legal status of husband and wife was cut today.

Miss Keeler obtained the final decree of divorce, taking the step on the first day in which it was legally possible to take it. She won the interlocutory decree on the ground of cruelty on Dec. 26, 1939.

Twice married previously and divorced, Jolson was at the top of his stage and screen career when he married Miss Keeler, likewise at the peak of her stage and screen career, in New York City on Sept. 21, 1928. He was then 45 and she 19.

At the time the interlocutory decree was granted, the court approved a property settlement agreement under which Jolson promised to pay Miss Keeler $400 a week for her support and that of their adopted son, Al Jr., now 5, as long as she remains unmarried. In the event of her remarriage, the agreement provided for payment of a $50,000 lump sum to her.

Admiral Yarnell Recalled to Active Duty, Friends Say

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 27 (AP).—Friends of Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, former commander of the Asiatic fleet, said today they understood he had been ordered to active duty at Washington, D. C., beginning Jan. 1. A native of Independence, Ia., Yarnell has been in retirement at his Newport, R. I., home since October, 1939. [In Washington, the navy department declined to comment on the report.]

NAZI PILOTS HURL 'SHORT BUT FIERCE BLOW AT LONDON

Public Shelter Is Struck; Other Areas Raided.

LONDON, Dec. 28, Saturday (AP).—The German air force delivered a short but furious blow at London last night which left no doubt that the tacit Christmas truce in this bitter air war is now only history. For some hours flares, then incendiaries, and finally heavy bombs fell in district after district. The "raiders passed" signal sounded an hour before midnight, but in the preceding hours, British sources said, the raid was equal in intensity to some of the heaviest attacks on London. It was the first sign of bombing London had seen after three quiet nights.

Some persons were killed and injured when a public shelter was hit. One woman, pinned under a gas stove with fire burning around her, joked for two hours with the rescue squad that finally got her out. She died a few minutes later.

British Bomb U-Boat Base.

Fog lay over the strait of Dover yesterday, but the sea itself was calm. The day had been quiet, save for a comparatively minor raid over the counties surrounding London, during which high explosive and fire bombs fell. There also was a two and a half hour bombardment of the Dover area by German guns firing from across the channel.

Resuming their own aerial offensive, British pilots assaulted the Nazi "invasion ports," where unusual troop movements have been reported and also bombed the submarine base at Lorient, France, and a series of airdromes in French Brittany.

It was the second successive day of daylight action by the royal air force, for on Thursday, and thru the night as well, the German held base of Bordeaux, France, and the port of Le Treport were attacked.

Claim British Ship Hit.

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—A British ship of 8,000 to 10,000 tons was hit by two German bombs today in a shipping area east of the Thames estuary, DNB, official German news agency, reported. It said the vessel's boiler room exploded.

Authorized German sources charged that the royal air force bombed Bordeaux, in Nazi occupied France, last night in a way "that had no military or practical meaning." Several French civilians were reported killed and some wounded.

NAVAL GUNS BAG 192 AXIS PLANES, ADMIRALTY SAYS

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—The admiralty tonight announced that British and allied naval antiaircraft guns had shot down 192 "enemy" planes confirmed, an additional 91 unconfirmed, and had damaged 100 from the beginning of the war to Dec. 1. In addition, the statement said, naval aircraft had shot down 52 planes confirmed, and 10 unconfirmed, and had damaged 49 during the same period. The admiralty's breakdown of casualties inflicted on German and Italian warplanes follows:

By British warships and auxiliary warships—151 confirmed, 79 unconfirmed, 67 damaged.

By armed merchant ships and fishing vessels—16 confirmed, 10 unconfirmed, 24 damaged.

By naval-manned antiaircraft guns ashore in Norway—14 confirmed, two damaged.

By Dutch warships between May 10 and 15—Six confirmed, two unconfirmed, six damaged.

By Norwegian warships—One unconfirmed.

By Polish warships—Four confirmed, one damaged.

ORDER COLORED GUARD UNIT INTO TRAINING JAN. 6

The 184th field artillery regiment (colored) of Chicago, formerly the 8th infantry, Illinois National Guard, has been ordered into federal service on Jan. 6 for a year's training at Camp Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich., it was revealed yesterday in Washington, D. C. President Roosevelt on Dec. 23 signed the order for the induction between Jan. 6 and 17 of this and several other units, an estimated total of 42,000 men. When these troops are inducted only about 54,000 more National Guardsmen will remain to be called into the federal service. Among the other units affected by the order are the 113th cavalry of Iowa to Brownwood, Tex., and the 135th medical regiment of Wisconsin to Camp Shelby, Miss., both to be inducted on Jan. 13, and the 38th division of Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia, also to Camp Shelby, to be inducted on Jan. 17.

IT'S A POLITICAL WAR, NAZI REPLY TO POPE'S TALK

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—Pope Pius' Christmas message evoked no official comment today from authorized German sources.

"This is not a Christian war but a political war and therefore we see no reason for discussing the message one way or the other," it was said.

The pope's message was addressed to individuals of certain faiths, these sources said, "and there exists no basis for discussion by us."

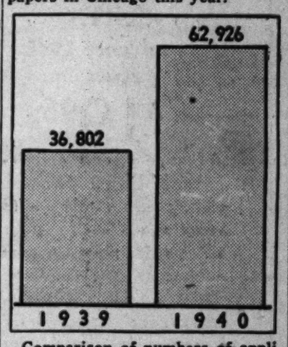
[Pope Pius said five moral victories should be the basis of a new world order after the war—victories over hatred, mistrust, the idea that "might makes right," economic maladjust-

Eden Receives Russian, Turkish, Belgian Envoys

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Russian, Turkish, and Belgian ambassadors were received this afternoon by Anthony Eden in what authoritative quarters described as "courtesy visits to the new foreign secretary."

Naturalizations Up

Numbers of leading national groups who received citizenship papers in Chicago this year.



Comparison of numbers of applicants for naturalization in 1940 and in the preceding year.

RUSH OF ALIENS FOR CITIZENSHIP SETS A RECORD

Spurred by New Law on Registration.

The Chicago district gained 31,424 newly naturalized citizens during the 12 months ending Nov. 30, according to a survey completed yesterday by Fred J. Schlotfeldt, director of immigration and naturalization in the area. The number established a record for the last 10 years.

The rush for American citizenship became heavy immediately after passage of the bill requiring all aliens to register, Schlotfeldt said. Final figures issued yesterday by Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen showed that 253,377 aliens had registered in Chicago up to the deadline Thursday midnight. On the final day 6,160 registered.

Aliens Still May Register.

The postmaster said aliens who have not yet complied with the registration law may still do so, but they will have to fill out forms explaining their delay. Penalties are provided for those who ignore the law.

The leading national groups and the number of each naturalized were, in order: Polish, 5,278; German, 4,605; Italian, 3,542; British, 3,501; Russian, 1,930; Czecho-Slovakian, 1,783; Jugo-Slavian, 1,700, and Swedish, 1,539.

Of the 31,424 persons naturalized, 15,899 were male, and 15,525 female. In addition to the naturalizations, 2,158 American born women married to aliens were repatriated. They had lost their citizenship thru marriage to aliens prior to 1922.

Expect More Next Year.

Naturalizations in 1941 probably will be even higher, it was indicated. The prediction is based on the rush of applications for final papers.

Applications for naturalization totaled 62,926 during 1940, as against 36,802 for 1939, an increase of 26,104. The effect of the alien registration law on applications is shown in the figures for the last seven months.

From June to December, inclusive, 50,046 aliens applied for final papers, as against 17,162 from June to December in 1939—an increase of 32,884.

PLAN FOR ENFORCEMENT.

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP).—Earl G. Harrison, alien registration director, asked tonight that, for the present at least, individuals and local authorities leave enforcement of the registration law to the federal government.

"At the proper time," Harrison said, "we may seek the assistance of local authorities in discovering unregistered aliens. Meanwhile, any voluntary action against aliens by citizens, organizations, or local authorities, however well intentioned, will only complicate the government's job.

GERMAN ENVOY TO WASHINGTON MADE MINISTER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—Germany's ranking diplomat in the United States, Hans Thomsen, has been promoted to minister of the first class, one grade below that of ambassador, it was disclosed tonight.

Thomsen, counselor of the German embassy, has served as chargé d'affaires since the ambassador, Hans Dieckhoff, was recalled to Berlin in November, 1938, after the United States brought back its ambassador, Hugh Wilson, from Germany.

In normal diplomatic procedure, Thomsen would have been promoted from counselor to minister of the second class. It was said in German circles that the raise of two grades was in recognition of his handling of diplomatic affairs amid tense relations of Germany and the United States.

CLING TO BARDIA OR DIE! IL DUCE ORDERS GARRISON

20,000 Italians Exhorted to Stop British.

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES OUTSIDE BARDIA, LIBYA, Dec. 27 (AP).—A "sacrifice garrison" of 20,000 Italians stubbornly held this besieged port tonight at the personal order of Premier Mussolini, while thousands of their comrades threw up additional fortifications for a stronger stand at Tobruk, 50 miles to the west.

Italians captured by the British said Mussolini's order, that they be "ready to die" rather than give up Bardia, was transmitted by Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, North African commander now at Tobruk.

Calls on Men to Rally.

Gen. Francesco Berti, Bardia commander, who is noted for his ability to exhort his men to brave deeds, thereupon called on them to rally and redeem the Italian army's prestige by blocking the British advance into Libya.

Had it not been for Il Duce's order, one officer said, Bardia would have been abandoned shortly after the fall of Sollum in Egypt on Dec. 16.

Some prisoners echoed Rome radio broadcasts that Bardia would be a "second Alcazar." This is a reference to the 10 week siege of Spain's "West Point" at Toledo by the former government forces during the Spanish civil war.

However, the Italians at Bardia removed all important military documents and some troops two weeks ago. Since then they have made no effort to reenforce the garrison except to send large air squadrons daily against the British besiegers.

Build Second Defense Line.

Moreover, the preparations at Tobruk obviously are designed to form a secondary line of defense if Bardia falls, and the strategy appears to be for the 20,000 beleagured men to fight for time to complete the task.

The British, confident of taking Bardia, prepared to renew a withering fire on the pill boxes and dugouts about the port and the town itself, while the flyers went up and roamed far to the west in attacks designed to halt the harassment by Fascist bombers.

Bomb British Submarine.

ROME, Dec. 27 (AP).—An Italian seaplane "effectively bombed an enemy submarine" in waters off the Libyan coast yesterday, the high command reported today. It added that artillery actions and patrol activity continued on the North African land front.

The Italian air force, the communique said, was "intensely active," carrying out bombardments of front line base batteries, mechanized equipment, and ships in harbor.

"Fighter planes engaged in combat with a large formation of Glosters [British warplanes]," the communique continued, "three enemy planes were shot down. One of our planes failed to return."

5,000 END STRIKE OVER ONE TAILOR WHO CUT PANTS

LONDON, Dec. 27.—The strike which threatened the Montague Burton clothing factories because one cutter, Albert Lazenby, made too many pairs of khaki trousers an hour, ended today.

About 5,000 clothing workers will return to work on Monday as a result of a settlement. They adopted a resolution to return to work "in the national interest." The resolution called on the government to place the factories on 100 per cent war work immediately in order to prevent profits from being made at the expense of the armed forces.

The resolution was voted after advice to return to work had been received from the National Union of Tailors and Garment Workers. It was feared that sympathy strikes which had already spread to two Burton factories might involve 10,000 employés of the company in Leeds.

9 Reported Killed, 61 Hurt in Mexican Storm

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27 (AP).—Belated reports from the storm stricken city of Orizaba, Vera Cruz state, tonight said at least nine persons were killed and 61 injured there yesterday. Cordoba suffered considerable damage, and unconfirmed reports said several persons were killed there. G. Nicolas J. Oleo Encinas, commander of the Orizaba army garrison, said roofs of houses sailed thru the air "like sheets of paper" and that the roof of one army building was among those lost.

Officers See Who's Quicker on Draw; 1 Shot to Death

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 27 [Canadian Press].—Lieut. R. D. Charteris White told a coroner's jury here today that he accidentally shot and killed his best friend, Lieut. John Woodburn Osborne, 23 years old, in a contest to see who was "quicker on the draw." The jury held that the shooting was "purely accidental." Osborne was killed at Chippewa barracks here the night of Dec. 22. White said both he and Osborne had believed their pistols were unloaded.

Presenting Emblem

Ruth Nicolaisen (right), presenting pin to Mrs. Dwight Green, wife of governor elect.

Mrs. Dwight H. Green, wife of the governor elect, was the first Chicagoan to receive the blue triangle pin of the National Young Women's Christian association. It was presented to her yesterday at the Green home, 3400 Lake Shore drive, by Ruth Fey of Lindblom High school, who heads the Girl Reserves Interclass council, and Ruth Nicolaisen, president of the Reserves at Bowen High school.

With the presentation of the emblem to Mrs. Green, a campaign to sell the blue triangle was launched locally. Funds raised in a nationwide sale will be used for Y. W. C. A. emergency war relief work in Great Britain and China. The first pin was sent by Clipper plane to Queen Elizabeth of England.

SPAIN SETS ASIDE MORE MONEY TO ENLARGE PORT

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 27 (AP).—The Spanish government set aside today new funds to rush enlargement of Vigo harbor and simultaneously the Falangist [Fascist] newspaper Arriba declared that Spain aspires to be a great Atlantic seapower to protect both herself and Latin America.

Arriba said the idea was to build such a "powerful" Hispano-Americanism that the present pan-Americanism [advocated by the United States] would no longer be "eulogized on the other side of the Atlantic."

When this plan is effected, the newspaper said without mentioning the United States, there will be no more "listening to the foreigner."

Chinese Red Cross Plans 1st Membership Campaign

CHUNKING, China, Dec. 28, Saturday (AP).—The Chinese Red Cross, in a move to match contributions of the American Red Cross, today announced the first membership drive in its 36 year history would begin Jan. 1. The campaign was scheduled after the American Red Cross pledged one third of the medical supplies it receives via Rangoon, Burma, to the Chinese.

BRITAIN WILL RID PUBLIC SHELTERS OF TUBERCULOSIS

Victims of Disease May Be Ordered to Hospitals.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Basing its action on recommendations made by Lord Horder's committee, the British government is launching a new public health drive in the subway shelters. Local authorities and medical officers, it was announced tonight, have been given the power to send to hospitals sufferers of "open" tuberculosis who frequent the shelters.

Another recommendation of the committee of Lord Horder, shelter director, which has been adopted is that as far as possible each tubercular family will have a private shelter.

Mobile Disinfecting Units.

The government also is taking action to deal with vermin and to set up mobile disinfecting units. Orders will be placed for large numbers of face masks which it is hoped will prevent the spread of infection.

The danger of disease was brought out in the leading editorial in this morning's London Times. "In the air raid shelters of London there is lurking an enemy even more deadly and devastating than bombs," the editorial declared. "A severe epidemic of influenza or typhoid fever might soon have a death roll far in excess of that caused by bombs from which the people were taking refuge."

Danger Period Approaches.

The dangerous epidemic period of the year, the Times declared, is approaching "and shelters require the defenses which sanitation, ventilation, warmth, proper feeding, and [by persuasion] inoculation will supply.

"These defenses the people cannot provide for themselves; indeed, the people are not really aware of the need for them. Public authorities must act and, if they are to avert a grave impending danger, must act energetically and at once."

BRITAIN HONORS SEA OFFICER WHO FOUGHT RAIDER

LONDON, Dec. 28, Saturday (AP).—Lieutenant Commander Charles Fellowes Gordon, acting commander in charge of the British armed merchant cruiser Alcantara which fought an indecisive running fight with a German sea raider last July off Brazil, today was awarded the distinguished service cross "for good services in action."

Two British seamen were killed and seven wounded in the fight July 29 and the Alcantara put into Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, for repairs.

Lieutenant Commander Gordon married Sarah R. Colyer, a cousin of President Roosevelt. The President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, visited them in Aberdeen in 1934.

ENGLAND BARES IMPERATIVE NEED FOR WAR FUNDS

Announces Two New Kinds of War Bonds.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, tonight declared that Britain's need for money for war weapons is "imperative" as he announced two new types of war securities.

The chancellor praised the "fine achievement" of raising £1,269,000,000 [about $5,126,760,000] on national war bonds and other types of public loans to the government.

"But I ask for more," he added.

Bonds to Pay 2½ Pct.

One of the two new issues, 2½ per cent national war bonds, will go on sale Jan. 2, 1941. They will be issued at par and will be repayable at par Aug. 15, 1948, or, if the government gives notice, on or after July 15, 1946.

A new security called "3 per cent savings bonds 1955-65" also will go on sale Jan. 2. These also will be issued at par and will be repaid at par on Aug. 15, 1965, or, if the government gives notice, on or after Aug. 15, 1955.

The bonds will be issued thru the Bank of England in multiples of £50 [$200] with a minimum subscription of £100 [$400]. A smaller investor may buy thru the post office and trustee savings banks with a first payment of £25 [$100].

Calls Needs For Weapons Clear.

National savings certificates, 3 per cent defense bonds, and facilities of the postoffice and trustee savings banks will continue to be available, Wood said.

Stressing the urgency of the situation, he declared:

"Our needs, particularly for the best weapons for our airmen and for all demands of modern war, are, I think, clear to all. They are, in fact, imperative."

FOOD TO EUROPE? IT'S A FRIGHTFUL QUESTION—OLAF

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—Crown Prince Olaf of Norway said today that whether the United States should send food to Europe was "a frightful question to decide" and that he could not give his opinion pending a Europe-wide study of the problem.

The crown prince added that, as far as Norway was concerned, "The Germans are living on the fat of the land."

The Norwegian legation issued a statement which said the Germans are "confiscating" about 10,000 pounds of meat in Oslo daily, making it almost impossible for Norwegian civilians to obtain meat. "Fifty thousand Christmas cakes meant for hospital patients," the statement added, "were requisitioned by the Germans."

BERLIN SILENT ON REPORT SOLDIERS ENTER BALKANS

Some Sources Deny Nazi Army Is on March.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—Reports about troop movements in southeastern Europe continued to circulate today. When queried about reports that German troops were seen passing thru Hungary, authorized sources replied that no information about military questions could be issued. Other sources denied the reports.

Rumors of alleged movements of Russian troops along the Prut river in Bessarabia were countered both by Germans and Russians with statements about the friendly relations between Germany and Russia.

Recent editorials in the German press have stressed Germany's close relations with her partners in the Rome-Berlin-Tokio pact, especially with Italy. In view of these statements, diplomatic circles are convinced that Germany is taking a greater interest than ever in what is happening to Italy in Greece, in the Dodecanese islands, and in Libya.

Report Nazis Enter Italy.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 27.—Information received by neutral foreign diplomatic circles here today confirmed reports of large movements of German troops southward thru Hungary. Well informed sources also reported that since Monday two German motorized divisions and one mountain infantry division, each fully equipped, had crossed the Brenner pass into Italy.

Britain Is Skeptical.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 27.—An authoritative source today declared there was no confirmation of rumors "about extensive German troop movements in one direction or another." He said these reports "should be treated with very great discretion."

The source attributed a story that German troops were being rushed to Rumania to an announcement that Hungarian authorities were curtailing rail traffic, the reason for which was said to be a shortage of fuel.

MEXICO TAKES OVER CONTROL OF NEWSPAPER

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27 (AP).—The government tonight announced it was taking over, effective Jan. 1, the pro-administration newspaper El Nacional of Mexico City. A presidential decree declared the newspaper would be under control of the department of interior, which also has charge of the government press bureau. The ministry, the announcement said, would "take all means necessary that this publication may fulfill its mission of informing fully the people of Mexico."

H. W. CALDWELL IS DEAD; MEMBER OF COUNTY BOARD

Succumbs at 45 After Short Illness.

H. Wallace Caldwell, member of the board of county commissioners since 1934 and a former president of the Chicago board of education, died yesterday in the Oak Park hospital after a short illness. He was 45 years old.

H. Wallace Caldwell.

Dr. John W. Tope, physician who attended Mr. Caldwell, said he went to the hospital for observation last week and left the day before Christmas. He became seriously ill yesterday morning and returned. His death, attributed to coronary embolism, occurred a few hours later.

Mr. Caldwell was born in Oak Park. He was the son of Frank C. Caldwell, who was president of the Oak Park Trust and Savings bank and of a machinery manufacturing concern. He attended schools in Oak Park and was graduated from Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., in 1917.

Served in Navy.

During the world war he served in the naval patrol force and the naval air service and was commissioned an ensign. After the war he returned to the Chicago area and became associated with his father's firm, H. W. Caldwell & Co. He also organized and was active in a real estate firm of his own.

In 1926 Mr. Caldwell entered politics as chairman of the Business Men's Republican committee. Soon afterward he was named a member of the Lincoln park board. In 1928 he was made a school board member and a few months later became president.

Sought School Reforms.

He was active in the promotion of many reforms in the school system and was an advocate of full civil service employment, holding that political control of the system should be loosened. He also aided in the negotiations in which the city leased from the school board the land on which Chicago airport is located.

His home was at 1018 Randolph street, Oak Park, and he was elected to the county board as a member from the country towns. He had been an advocate of greater economy and of betterments in the County hospital. He was a candidate for governor in 1936, but was defeated in the Republican primaries.

Mr. Caldwell was twice married. His first wife, Mrs. Lillian Stephenson Caldwell, died in 1931. His second, the Countess Olga Albani, concert singer, whom he married in 1935, died last June 3. A daughter of the first marriage survives.

COUNTY DRAFT APPEALS BOARD OPENS OFFICES

Headquarters of the eight Cook county draft appeal boards was opened yesterday on the fourth floor at 105 West Monroe street. William H. King Jr., president of the Chicago Bar association, is coördinator of the appeals boards.

The boards, each with five members, consider appeals by registrants from their draft classifications as determined by local draft boards.

Paul G. Armstrong, state draft director, announced yesterday in Springfield that conscientious objectors who are called up for army service will be sent to work camps if they are physically fit. They will be used in conservation and reforestation projects, Armstrong said he was informed.

240 GREAT LAKES MEN LEAVE FOR FORD PLANT SOON

The first contingent of sailors to attend the Ford trade school at the company's River Rouge plant near Detroit will report Jan. 11, it was announced yesterday. The group will number 240 men from Great Lakes Naval Training station, which will supply all the school's enrollment.

The men receive preliminary training at Great Lakes. At the Ford school they will get three months of intensive instruction in fire control, electricity, boilermaking, molding, metal smithing, carpentry, pattern making, shipfitting, and as machinists.

Accommodations to house 1,000 men are being built near the school, which expects to be caring for that number by April.

JUSTICE HUGHES CALLS BIGOTRY FREEDOM'S FOE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes asserted today that "rancor and bigotry, racial animosities and intolerance" are "the deadly enemies of true democracy."

He made this statement in accepting a citation from the National Conference of Christians and Jews which praised his "contribution to the improvement of human relations" and "advocacy of national unity."

The chief justice, together with the late Newton D. Baker and the late Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, organized the national conference in 1928. He was chosen to receive the citation by a group of national leaders.

Japs Report 200 Casualties in Formosan Train Crash

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Domei, Japanese news agency, reported in a wireless broadcast tonight that there were more than 200 casualties when a passenger train and a freight train collided at Kyujo, Formosa.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 27 [Special].—Jack Frye, president of Transcontinental and Western Air, and Mrs. Helen Varner Vanderbilt admitted they were having "a swell time" at a desert inn yesterday but evaded questions regarding reports they are to be married. "We haven't made the deal yet," said Frye. Mrs. Vanderbilt, who obtained a divorce recently, said "it might work out."

NAZIS HELD COOL TO PETAIN'S PLAN ON CO-OPERATION

Reveal His Proposals Given to Hitler.

VICHY, France, Dec. 27 (AP).—Informed French sources today reported Chief of State Marshal Philippe Petain's suggestions on how France and Germany could coöperate had been given to the Nazis, but that no reply had been forthcoming, apparently because of the German feeling that the "present atmosphere is unpropitious."

Petain's proposals were carried to Paris by Naval Minister Admiral Jean Darlan, who conferred with Otto Abetz, Adolf Hitler's representative, and "other high German personalities."

[Diplomatic advices reaching Berne, Switzerland, said Darlan had presented to Hitler a letter from Petain at a meeting somewhere in occupied France north of Paris. Hitler was on the French coast Thursday and Christmas day, Berlin reported. These advices said it was understood Petain's communication conveyed to Hitler both assurance of his desire to continue French-German collaboration and an explanation of his refusal to take Pierre Laval, former vice premier and foreign minister, back into his cabinet.]

Hint It's Up to France.

Informed quarters said no German reply was expected until after the New Year holiday. The German attitude was said here to be that it is up to France to do something to win back German confidence.

Abetz especially was said to have contended that certain men in Petain's government whom the Germans mistrust should be given their walking papers.

A villa belonging to the wealthy American, Frank J. Gould, was set aside by the French government today as the residence of Admiral William D. Leahy, new United States ambassador. Leahy is expected to reach France Jan. 3.

Predict 500 Million Budget.

The Vichy government ordered creation of a general organization committee to direct the rubber industry and represent it in dealings with French or foreign organizations.

Each branch of the industry will be represented by a director and consultative committee. Georges Perret was named director general.

Informed sources said the finance ministry soon would publish a budget for not less than 25,000,000,000 francs [normally about $500,000,000] for the first quarter of 1941.

No new taxes are anticipated immediately, it was said, but because the budget includes only part of the costs of the German army of occupation it was uncertain how the total figure would be met.

NAZIS CAUSE BIG DRAIN.

One of the heaviest drains on the French treasury is the cost of maintaining the German forces of occupation, involving a daily outlay of 20,000,000 marks [about $8,000,000].

For the first quarter of 1940, while France was still at war, the budget was 54,937,000,000 francs [about $1,098,740,000]. The French budget for all of 1939 was 66,388,000,000 francs [about $1,327,760,000].

REDUCED BUDGET OF $22,828,546 IS O. K.'D FOR PARKS

A budget of $22,828,546 for 1941 was approved without opposition yesterday by commissioners of the Park district. The amount is $2,006,433 less than the 1940 appropriation.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Park board, said that the reduced budget will not provide adequate funds to maintain and service the park district's facilities properly. He said the legislature will be asked to increase the district's pegged levy.

The principal reductions made in the 1941 budget were in the corporate, or operating fund, and in the bond redemption and interest fund.

SPAIN MUST ACT MORE FRIENDLY TO GET U.S. FOOD

Collaboration with Axis Holds Up Shipments.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—American food shipments to hungry Spain now depend, it was learned today, on whether the Spanish government, which has been collaborating closely with the axis powers, adopts a more friendly attitude toward the United States and Great Britain.

Ambassador Alexander Weddell. [Copyright: Harris & Ewing.]

Definite progress has been made in negotiations in Washington, London, and Madrid for the last four months, it was stated, but a final decision may not be made until Viscount Halifax, the new British ambassador, arrives here.

Informed sources disclosed that discussions about food shipments have fluctuated from favorable to unfavorable with changes in the international situation during the last four months—and still depend on the rôle Spain assumes in the Mediterranean.

Impoverished by Civil War.

Spanish officials approached Alexander Weddell, United States ambassador to Madrid, early in September seeking an arrangement by which Spain, impoverished by the long civil war, could secure American assistance in rehabilitating the country.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has stated that the question of aiding Spain involves only shipments of goods and that the United States has never considered making a cash loan.

The United States, it was learned, in pursuance of its policy of extending relief, offered to send foodstuffs immediately and discuss the question of raw materials shipments if the Spanish government would provide assurances of a more friendly policy toward Americans.

Subject Suddenly Dropped.

Just as the negotiations seemed to approach success, it was stated, Foreign Minister Serrano Suner adopted a policy of closer collaboration with Germany and Italy and Ambassador Weddell dropped the subject.

In early November, the British, interested in achieving more friendly relations with Gen. Francisco Franco's government, proposed to ship wheat from Argentina and Canada to Spain. The British were primarily interested in inducing Spain to refrain from active participation in the axis. For example, they hoped Spain would not permit German troops to march across the country and attack Gibraltar.

The British, however, are not yet satisfied with assurances from Spain, and have not made any of the proposed food shipments. Before taking any action, therefore, the United States is awaiting clarification of the situation.

Loses Bee Fight

Mrs. Gene Magnuson Cruse leaving courtroom after conviction of beekeeper she accused had been reversed.

George Gansey knows his queen bees stay at home because he carries their apartment keys, he told Judge Joseph A. Graber in Criminal court yesterday. And so, Gansey argued, it wasn't his swarming bees that stung Mrs. Gene Cruse, his next door neighbor, in her back yard at 209 South 20th avenue, Maywood. The queens weren't there, he said, and bees don't swarm unless a queen's on the job to give her royal O. K.

George Gansey. [Tribune Photos.]

Judge Graber ruled that Gansey needn't pay a $25 fine assessed in another court on Mrs. Cruse's charge that his bees were the stingeroos. The judge didn't say whether it was the story of the queens' keys or this that impressed him: Forty-nine other Maywood residents raise bees that answer the same description as Gansey's.

PARAGUAY ACTS TO SMASH PLOT AGAINST REGIME

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Dec. 27 (AP),—A high government official today said the Paraguayan cabinet headed by Gen. Higinio Morinigo had "deemed it necessary to take steps to assure internal order against those who attempt to disturb it," but said that only a "limited number of persons of secondary significance" were involved.

[Travelers returning from Asuncion to Buenos Aires reported the government, starting Christmas morning, had rounded up 180 members of the Liberal party on charges of plotting to overthrow the military régime. They were said to be awaiting transfer to concentration camp 250 miles north of Asuncion.]

The official added that several arrested under these "police precautions" already had been released.

"No business man has been troubled and the whole country is completely quiet," he said. "No one has been interned in a concentration camp, which is nonexistent in Paraguay."

WOMAN'S DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

JAP SAILORS IN INDO-CHINA RAID U. S. WAREHOUSE

Forced to Return Tires, Other Goods.

HANOI, French Indo-China, Dec. 27 (AP).—French officials reported today a detachment of Japanese sailors entered the warehouse of the American Far East Trading company at Haiphong and hauled away a quantity of automobile tires and other merchandise in an armored car but returned all the goods after a protest had been made.

Quantities of American merchandise are stored here and at Japanese-controled Haiphong, port on the gulf of Tonkin, and the refusal of Japanese authorities at the latter place to permit their reëxport has been a source of constant friction between the Japanese forces and American traders.

Shortage of Goods.

A survey of commercial circles, meanwhile, disclosed a serious shortage of badly needed foreign raw materials and manufactured goods. Following the entry of Japanese forces into parts of Indo-China, British and other foreign ships ceased to call.

There especially is a lack of gasoline. As a result, authorities here have threatened to requisition what stocks are left, with no prospect of replenishment. The scarcity of toilet goods, clothing and other necessities has forced a number of stores to close.

Japs Revise Supply Plans.

TOKIO, Dec. 27 (AP).—Revision of its material resources mobilization plan for the last quarter of the fiscal year ending next March 31 was directed by the cabinet today in order to meet the situation created by the intensified United States embargo and British pressure on trade between Japan and the crown colonies.

The revision also aims at establishment of self-sufficiency in essential materials for the greater east Asia sphere, it was stated. It calls for an additional increase in steel production, a new rice supply plan and other measures. No figures were given.

Bomb Chinese Warehouses.

HONGKONG, Dec. 27 (AP).—Indication that harbors of southwestern Kwangtung province recently abandoned by Japanese troops again have become channels for supplying war material to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies were seen in a Japanese communique today.

The communique from Japan's South China seas fleet stated that along with extension of the Japanese blockade of China on Wednesday, naval forces, including airplanes, "started operations against Chungking supply route and harbors along the southwestern coast of Kwangtung." It listed five towns where warehouses reported filled with Chinese war supplies were bombed.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, commander-in-chief of Britain's far eastern command, arrived in Hongkong today on a tour of inspection.

The 108th Quartermaster regiment, Illinois National Guard, will be presented with a new set of colors tonight by a committee of civic leaders during a ceremony in connection with the military ball sponsored by the regiment in its new armory at Kedzie and North avenues. After the presentation the regiment, commanded by Col. Richard Smykal, will pass in review. More than 5,000 friends and relatives of the officers and enlisted men are expected to attend the affair.

SET UP NEW U. S. ENGINEERS' UNIT FOR ISLE BASES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—The army engineers disclosed today that a new engineering division, with Lieut. Col. J. D. Arthur in charge, has been set up to handle all army construction at the new Atlantic bases obtained from Great Britain.

Headquarters of the new division is in Washington. It contains four districts—Newfoundland, Bermuda, Jamaica, and Trinidad.

In contrast to the 11 divisions in the continental United States, which are concerned normally only with navigation and flood control projects, the new eastern division will handle all army construction work at the new defense outposts, including airfields, barracks, and other buildings. For the present the engineers will not supervise naval work at the posts.

Arthur, whose assignment as division engineer for the new division, became effective nearly three months ago, formerly was district engineer at Huntington, W. Va.

TELLS MOUNTING COST AND DELAY OF ARMY CAMPS

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—William F. Carey, defense commission expert on cantonment construction, said today that new army camps now being built east of the Mississippi river would exceed their estimates of original cost "by millions of dollars." Moreover, he said, it would be necessary to add "a month or six weeks" to the estimated construction times of the various units.

Four factors were responsible for the increase in cost and time estimates, he explained. These, he said, were:

1. Heavy expansion of facilities after estimates were made.
2. Original estimates were made "too low, anyhow."
3. Adverse elements of weather—cold in the north and rain in the south.
4. The necessity of working under high pressure, resulting in an increase of the cost per item beyond the normal.

AN INQUIRY AMERICA SHOULD MAKE.

Senator Vandenberg proposes that the United States address the warring nations in an inquiry to find if there is not a rational basis for peace at this time. The Michigan senator is supported in this by some of the members of congress and by other Americans who properly dread the world consequences of a prolonged war.

Extremists here do not believe that anything acceptable could come of this but they are shutting a door which reason would keep open. The warring governments do not concede that there is any common ground on which negotiators could meet, but with them it is assumed, understandably, that any such concession might be interpreted as a sign of weakness.

On one side, the extremists demand the destruction of Germany. We don't know exactly what that means, altho the Versailles treaty might give an example. It endeavored to prevent Germany from regaining military strength, but the provisions were not enforced. Over a long term of years they probably could not have been.

In the earlier stages of the war, before the western front collapsed, the war aims against Germany took several lines. In all of them the complete overthrow of Hitler and the Nazi government was contemplated. On this point there was complete agreement. It was the main purpose of the war. Beyond this there were divergences of opinion. Some people thought that Germany, to be made a safe associate of its European neighbors, should be fragmented, that its old states should be restored as self-governed units and the influence of Prussia broken down. Some people would have included the German states in a general European federation, minimizing their political influence. Then there was a general vision of disarmament, some sort of economic union, and possibly a revival of such legislative and judicial instruments as the league of nations and the world court.

Most of the war aims against Germany were rather indefinite except as pertaining to Herr Hitler and his works. Germans, as well as the rest of Europe, were to be released from his persecutions, from his concentration camps, his secret police, and his destruction of individual liberties. The lesser dictator, Mussolini, was to share the same fate, but the Russian Stalin was not in that program. The Russians were to be left to their own destiny.

It has been easy for the Nazi propagandists to tell the Germans that the war is a war against them as a people. They are willing to believe that because they still regard the treaty of Versailles as a continuation of the war against them and they believe that Hitler rescued them from it. No nation will consent to the accusation that it is war guilty. It is always the other fellow who started a war, and that is true now as it was in 1914. War guilt is always on the other side. Greed and hypocrisy are always on the other side. Aggression and inhumanity are always there.

The war aims of Germany now ostensibly demand the complete destruction of Great Britain. Great Britain stands alone as the fighting opponent. All the others have been disposed of. A knockout blow against the British probably would be followed by dictated terms reducing the United Kingdom to a position of minor importance in European affairs. Such a peace might affect chiefly the United Kingdom and not the other self-governing part of the empire. Much African territory would change hands. If the Nazis could get at the British fleet they would probably demand it. The British government has said that regardless of the outcome of the war in Great Britain itself the fleet would not be surrendered but would remain the imperial navy. Total defeat, however, imposes enormous hardships, as the continental victims of Germany are learning, and they have yet to learn the real terms an ultimately victorious Nazi government might impose.

In a prolonged war one or the other of these outlined terms of a dictated peace are to be expected. We don't know now which side would be able to win. Germany for the present seems to be unconquerable on the continent. Great Britain seems to be unconquerable on the island and in its empire. If there were a decision within six months or a year it would seem inevitable that it should be against the British. If Hitler is to be overthrown and Germany is to accept dictated terms, then we must follow Mr. Churchill in his view of a war of possibly five years, with Great Britain taking the aggressive in '42 or thereabouts. Such prospects as these cause the people who seek another termination to propose and suggest that the two powerful antagonists be asked if there are no conditions upon which they could reach an agreement now without a war to a knockout. It may be impossible. It should not be impossible to try.

The United States is conscious of hovering on the edge of this war. Its steps approach the battle front. Its material flows across the water in increasing amounts. More material is needed and more is relied upon. There is an American war party which wants a declaration of war. Senator Vandenberg asks for a peace maneuver before it is too late. Germany might apprehend the risks involved in an attitude of defiance of opinion and sentiment.

The United States is in a position to ask for a showdown on intentions. What are the war aims? The question is material to the future of this country and of civilization. Much is expected of us. For what purpose is it to be used? Is there a place still for reason in the affairs of Europe? We do not know. We do know that it is at least reasonable to inquire.

Germany cannot be destroyed without destroying the countries west of it. What does Germany propose for these countries? Before we plunge further in we should know more. The pessimism which would reject a peace maneuver may be a desperate commitment to evils undreamed of. It may leave Europe, as Senator Vandenberg observed, the fodder of Stalin.

ON GETTING OUT OF THE BUGGY WHIP BUSINESS.

The Fansteel Metallurgical corporation at North Chicago is perhaps best known as the scene of a sitdown strike several years ago which caused the United States Supreme court eventually to outlaw that form of industrial violence. It has a better claim to fame. It is one of the best examples in the Chicago area of a company which, thru an intelligent program of industrial research, has come safely out of the buggy whip business.

The buggy whip business has become symbolic of those enterprises that found the market for their products suddenly destroyed by industrial change. The Fansteel corporation has seen one of its principal products become a buggy whip on three different occasions, but on each occasion its research laboratories have furnished it with a new and better product.

The company was founded in 1907 by Carl Pfanstiehl and James M. Troxel. Pfanstiehl had invented an X-ray coil and, in coöperation with Troxel, had adapted it for use in the spark coils that were an essential part of the ignition system of the infant automobile.

The spark coils required expensive platinum points for their circuit breakers. At the suggestion of Charles F. Kettering of General Motors, the manufacturers sought a cheaper metal for this purpose, and eventually found it in tungsten, which had found its first industrial use a few years before in electric light filaments.

Presently the automobile industry found better ignition systems than those based on spark coils. But the demand for metallic tungsten, which the company had begun to manufacture, was greatly increased by the world war and the company rode successfully thru its first buggy whip crisis.

During the world war the company undertook the manufacture of misch metal, a complex alloy of iron with a half dozen so-called rare earth metals—cerium, lanthanium, and other elements whose names are rarely seen outside chemistry textbooks. The metal, whose only peacetime use is for the "flints" in cigaret lighters, was in great demand for tracer bullets.

Misch metal was made under patents of an Austrian concern which had been seized on the outbreak of the war by the United States government. When they were returned to their foreign owners after peace was made with Austria, this business lapsed. But the research staff of the company was ready to fill the gap with an electro-chemical rectifier cell used for charging the storage batteries on which the radio sets of the day depended.

The Fansteel works did a booming business in the manufacture of these Balke rectifiers, named for Dr. C. W. Balke, the company's chief chemist. Then, almost overnight, the use of storage batteries in radios was discontinued and that left the concern with what amounted to another buggy whip, altho a considerable number of rectifiers are still sold for use in railroad signal systems.

One of the elements in the cell was made of another rare metallic element, tantalum, and with the decline in rectifier sales the research staff again came to the rescue with new uses for tantalum, of which the company was the sole refiner in this country. Today the concern makes tungsten, tantalum, and two other rare metals, molybdenum and columbium, all of which have important uses in the national defense program.

The practical applications which Fansteel corporation chemists have made of rare metals would not have been possible without the basic research at the University of Illinois, which has led the nation in this field of chemistry. Dr. Balke, who joined the company a quarter of a century ago, was an early associate of Prof. B. S. Hopkins, whose research in rare metals led to the discovery of the element named illinium in honor of the university, and many of his assistants were trained in the university laboratories.

THE PRICE OF A JOB.

A Tribune reporter, Mr. William Thompson, found that to get a job as a common laborer at Fort Sheridan or the Great Lakes naval station the applicant must pay a union initiation fee of $40 and $2 in dues in advance. To get work as a carpenter the corresponding charge was $122.

His experience helps answer one question and raises another. Progress in erecting the cantonments around the country has been disappointingly slow. If a shortage of labor has contributed at all to the delays the union initiation fee offers an obvious explanation. A great many men are kept in idleness for lack of the union fee. To a man out of work $42 is a lot of money.

The question that is raised is what becomes of the money? To what use is it put? Does it go into a trust fund and if so, who are the trustees and who the beneficiaries? Is an accounting of the sums collected given the union members? If so, by whom and how often?

The requirement of the initiation fee is another reminder that unions should be required periodically to submit their accounts to public scrutiny. That would discourage racketeering at the expense of workingmen and the public at large.

A NATIONAL SALUTE IS DUE.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The people of all the 47 other states will kindly stand up, look in the direction of Illinois and bow in appreciative salute. Final figures on the Presidential election show that the Prairie state led the Union in the percentage of popular participation in the balloting.

The Illinois voting record was 53.4 per cent of its population. Nevada, Indiana, and Delaware were the only other states with more than half their population going to the polls. The Missouri proportion was relatively quite high, our percentage being 48.4. From such ratios as these the percentages fell off to Alabama, with 10.4 voters out of 100 population, Georgia with 10, Mississippi with 8, and South Carolina with 5.2.

But now the salute to the state of Lincoln. It leads the Union in the participation of its people in the citizen's most important right—use of the ballot box. That is a list worth leading in a democracy.

SANTA BROUGHT A BOOK.

A place of honor on our bookshelves has been reserved for "Mind Thru the Ages," by Martin Stevers. Santa Klaus thought that this would be about enough for a fellow who is threatened with overwhelming, at any moment, under the teetering bookcases that he has recklessly piled around him; and Santa was right. This work is a library in itself, and will solve any number of problems that must be dealt with on laborious nights in the Linemaster's ivory tower.

"Mind Thru the Ages" is a detailed survey of human intelligence from the caveman to the airman. It traces thru history the progress of ideas, practical knowledge and social forms. Its scholarship is thoro; its style is clear. It is a fat volume of some 500 pages, and perhaps we shall never read it from start to finish, but we shall undoubtedly consult it hundreds of times.

Martin Stevers is a Chicago encyclopedist who has served his time among the ink stained wretches of the daily press. Congratulations, Marty. We are boasting that we knew you when!

A READING OF THE AENEID.

[Vergil, Horace, and Maecenas, 70-19 B. C.]

Three men of Roman greatness long ago
In a pleached orchard by old Tiber's side,
Sat with patrician ease and heard the flow
That lyric Latin's lofty tones provide
To penetrate the ear as far and deep
As those long galleys which the Cæsars sent
Among remote and perilous seas to reap
The treasures they brought home for wonderment.
The elder listener, for his wealth renowned,
The younger, crowned with laurel, wit and love,
Showed on their faces that their spirits found
Enchantment perfect in that classic grove.
And he whose moving words imprisoned thus
The kings of older worlds still conquers us.

The Christmas Complex.

Don't you remember? First there was Christmas eve, with snow on the ground, and sometimes in the air, altho often there were stars—great, crystal spheres, shimmering against the blue velvet sky. There was the walk to church, with friendly voices calling greetings thru the still evening, and silver sleigh bells in the distance. Then church—a blaze of lights and smiling faces—and your piece, which you always forgot. Home again, in a welter of white tissue paper, and red ribbon and secrets, with Mother a smiling goddess who knew everything and told nothing. Bed finally, after your long, thin stocking was hung, altho you knew you would never go to sleep.

But suddenly it was the cold grey dawn, and you were awake, with the glorious realization that it was Christmas. Downstairs, and the first breathtaking glimpse of the lovely tree. From then on the day was a blur of exciting packages to open, savory smells from the kitchen, incoming aunts and uncles and cousins, games, indoors and out, and finally the quiet time in the evening, with carol singing and pleasant talk around the softly lighted tree. And thus that day became a memory, blending the past and the present, so that each Christmas becomes the essence of all past Christmases, the pattern for all future ones. Helene.

The Class in American Literature.

After a class discussion of Carl Sandburg's "Chicago Poems," a student, thinking of the lines—

. . . "For I have seen your painted women under the gas lamps luring the farm boys"— remarked quite seriously, "Chicago must have been a terrible place in those days."

To which, another student, with equal gravity, replied, "Boy, I'll say so! Just imagine—gas lamps!"

She was a little thing, this Jewish child.
Small things are bravest, even in the wild,
And this small child had need, the ages knew,
Of strength of body, heart, and spirit, too.
She walked Judean pastures with quick tread
And eager eyes and high uplifted head,
Dreaming that over distant hilltops blue
Lay fairer meadows, wet with sweeter dew
In sunnier mornings, than the fields she trod;
That from the smiling sky above her, God
Stretched out a kindly hand to lay upon
The grateful earth; that every changing dawn
Was made for her, and all her eyes for it.
She trembled not before the Infinite:
The fields were fair; the mountains rose above;
And she was happy, young; and there was love
About her, all were friends on every side;
Her valley was narrow, and the world was wide.
Why should the cross' shadow darkling fall
Upon her heart, when God was over all?

When Grandpa Was a New Year's Caller.

Memory takes me back to the New Year's celebrations of the 1860s and '70s with bells, whistles, and other noisemaking devices doing their part. The custom on New Year's day among the men folk was to go calling on their friends in parties of two or more until late in the evening.

On the Sunday before THE TRIBUNE would publish a long list of hostesses "keeping open house." Large quantities of fancy eatables were prepared and in many homes wine and stronger drink were on hand, arranged on a round table generally in the back parlor. Often the drinking was overdone, and some of the young revelers wore tags on their coats which read, "When I am drunk take me home."

SOUND HEALTH IS ESTABLISHED EARLY.

THE age span between 18 and 26 is supposed to include those who have reached the peak of physical efficiency. Every one who has arrived at that period has traveled a rough road, possibly with many stumbles and falls. The reason we do not have more young men and women scoring 100 per cent, by accepted health standards, is because they have been subjected to too many childhood maladies. In other words, it is scarcely fair to contrast the body stamina of a young man who has suffered no illnesses whatsoever with the one who has experienced frequent attacks of tonsilitis, colds, or perhaps rheumatic fever.

For the most part, the ailments of early life have been thrown into the heap of forgotten things because we are able now to protect against whooping cough, scarlet fever, and many other diseases. But we fail to recall that tonsils teeming with tiny abscesses can deplete a lad's physical reserve to the point where normal development will not occur. Overexposure, or too little clothing, may sow the seeds of deepseated infection within the sinuses, and periodic colds follow as a natural sequence. How can a boy or girl—obliged to fight these episodes habitually—proceed to well rounded manhood or womanhood?

The chances are that the average American home furnishes a well balanced diet. But some may not. Unless parents give a fair amount of attention to the so-called protective foods, such as meat, vegetables, fruits, milk, eggs, etc., the thing we call "resistance" will never be built. In consequence, during adult life, breakdowns are not uncommon.

There is a growing appreciation of the meaning of emotional strain and its sequel, nerve exhaustion. The ideal setting is a happy household where, within reason, the children constitute the center of every one's interest. Quarreling, bickering, and arguments have no place in the home. Physicians every day recognize among their patients many who are victims of a warlike environment.

In this same connection, the ambitious mother who demands that her progeny excel in everything, is a menace to society. We do not know all that we shall some day about dementia precox, but we recognize that the disorder all too often occurs among those young people who have been pushed and stimulated intellectually. Some, indeed, have been unusually brilliant during their grammar or high school years.

It has been said truly that the first decade of life is the most important. While character is probably not fully developed at the age of 10 years, nevertheless certain moral attributes and habits are well established. Order, system, and a certain degree of skill can be stressed and every device designed to increase dexterity with the hands will enhance intelligence. Boys want tools and they should have them; and girls and boys both enjoy games—outdoor and indoor.

Finally, right or wrong, deal with the child gently. He can be made to feel that he is the most precious thing in the world, but, at the same time, that he has responsibilities and he must make the most of his opportunities. Yes; he must be wanted, but not to the point of pampering. If he doesn't make the highest grade in his class, he can be commended for working hard. He has the satisfaction of knowing that he will neither be despised nor scolded every time he fails to win.

SHOULDER TROUBLE.

Mrs. H. W. writes: An 18 year old boy pulled his shoulder out of place a year ago when he was playing football. Since then whenever he uses it for swimming, baseball, or boxing, the same thing happens. How should this condition be cared for?

REPLY.

Some types of dislocations establish a weakness—in other words, a pathway is created. Slight provocation only may be necessary to reproduce the deformity. The parts should be protected for several months—using a brace or firm strapping.

NERVE INJURY.

L. H. writes: What is the cause of drop foot?

REPLY.

Some injury to the nerves supplying the part. The symptom may accompany a more extensive paralysis, or arise because a poison [such as lead] has damaged the telegraph wires [the nerves].

MR. RICH ON WPA ART.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—In defense of the Illinois art project of the Works Progress administration I should like to point out some cogent facts. The series of articles published in THE TRIBUNE depict it as a nest of communists engaged in turning out "ugly" and "degrading" art which subtly poisons the minds of school children. Actually, it is no such thing, but a busy, workmanlike administration creating American art and in the process bringing artist and public into closer relationship.

I have known the whole movement since its inception in 1933 with the Public Works administration project, organized in Chicago under the able chairmanship of Walter S. Brewster. I have seen the Illinois project expand under Mrs. Increase Robinson and George G. Thorp until it became a model of efficiency, yearly discovering new Chicago talent which it put to work producing easel paintings, murals, and sculpture for our public buildings. Without its sponsorship such painters as Aaron Bohrod, Raymond Breinen, Nicola Ziroli, and Rainey Bennett [to name but a few] would not have been given opportunities for development [incidentally, works by all these painters are hanging today in New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art], nor would Chicago have been accorded the high place it now holds in the art world. One has only to visit the great Carnegie exhibition at Pittsburgh or the Corcoran biennial in Washington to find our Chicago painters—most of them at one time or another on the project—winning prizes and awards.

In the same way the public has benefited. The Illinois art project has carved delightful animated figures and sign posts for Brookfield zoo. Cook county hospital is today brighter and more cheerful because of decorations done for that institution. Many a schoolroom owns a gay water color of Illinois farm life or a city scene thru the project's aid and many a high school cafeteria proudly points to its murals—executed in the true fresco technique of the old Italian masters. The project designs and prints posters, it reproduces with amazing accuracy plates of early American furniture, needlework, glass, wood carving, etc. [The Index of American Design]. It sends exhibitions of art to small towns and communities where the only "pictures" heretofore seen were Aunt Mathilda's "Yard of Roses" or a fly specked chromo of "Custer's Last Stand." In most of this work there is youth, vitality, adequate craftsmanship, and a new American spirit, far removed from the sentimental photography of a generation ago.

If you examine the great periods of art you will find they have one thing in common: many artists at work. America has never given enough support to produce a great generation of artists. But with the broad base of this national project for the first time an opportunity exists. That is why I believe that the Illinois project deserves our careful consideration and continued support.

THE BOX OFFICE MEN.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Usually I am a comparatively brave individual, but the task of purchasing or ordering tickets at the box office has me floored. It would seem that an organization so completely dependent on the public as a dramatic or musical show [I have in mind the Chicago City Opera] would make every effort to please that public and to make it as easy as possible to buy tickets.

Instead it appears that the most unsuitable and impossible persons are chosen to dispense tickets. I realize that one of the most thankless positions in the world is to act as a sales person—forced to cater to the whims of all types of people, and for that reason I have the utmost consideration for them, because 99 out of 100 sales people perform their duties commendably.

But why ticket clerks, especially those also serving in an information-giving capacity, working via telephone, are consistently irritable, apparently always rushed for time, and obviously reluctant to give out information, is beyond my comprehension.

You neglected to mention the fact that the Coliseum also thrilled at the manner in which "God Bless America" and our national anthem were sung.

HUSBAND'S ASSETS.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband owns a store which is in his name. I have worked with him in it during our married life, or during the whole time we have had it. We have a child 10½ years old. In case of his death:

1. Would the store automatically go to me and would I be able to operate it, or
2. Would it have to go thru probate?
3. Would I be compelled to sell it and put the two-thirds in trust for my child?

What we would like to know is if my husband makes a will leaving the store and all his other possessions to me unconditionally:

4. Would it then escape probate?
5. What form of will can we use?
6. How many witnesses are necessary?
7. What wording is most appropriate?

B. A.

1. No
2. Yes.
3. This seems probable.
4. Not necessarily. The presence or absence of a will has no important bearing on the necessity for probate.
5. 6. 7. While the statue does not require the employment of an attorney, we consider such employment advisable. If you try to economize by dispensing with expert help, you are likely to make mistakes which will cost much more than an attorney would have charged to see that the job was done right in the first place. In addition, an attorney might make valuable suggestions as to the wisdom of your testamentary plan.

If, despite the above, you wish to try to handle the matter for yourself, you should obtain a printed form from a stationer and see that it is executed in strict accordance with the attestation clause which precedes the space for signature of witnesses. The services of a notary are not necessary, and it is not safe to assume that a notary will be a competent adviser.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 20.

1. Which one of the following produces the popular catkins of spring? Willow Apple Elm Pine.
2. Which one of the following should come to mind when you see the word "chirp?" Humming Bird Frog Kitten Cricket.
3. You would be most likely to find a gargoyle on a Tree Ship's Hull Locomotive Church.
4. If you lived in New York City, but decided to take a trip to Erin, would you most likely go by Train Airplane Boat Automobile.
5. If a horse trader sold you a horse that was 15 hands high, what would be its height? 3 Feet 6 Inches 4 Feet 3 Inches 5 Feet 6 Feet 3 Inches.
6. Suppose you were sailing across the Atlantic from Lisbon to Miami, Fla., when a strong north wind arose. It was so chilly that you moved to a deck chair which put you in the lee of the wind. After you had moved, would you be sitting ——In the bow of the ship?
   ——On the starboard side?
   ——In the stern of the ship?
   ——On the port side?

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—the last question counts five points.]

I WONDER WHETHER IT SUITS ME?

[Western Mail, Cardiff.]

COURT HITS NITTI GANG; REFUSES TO DISMISS CASE

Holds Receivership Suit Must Go to Finish.

The attempt of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti to continue his rule of local 278 of the bartenders' union encountered another stumbling block yesterday. Judge Robert Jerome Dunne in Circuit court ruled that 51 bartenders, who filed an intervening petition in the receivership suit against the union, be allowed to stand as co-plaintiffs and to prosecute the case to a conclusion.

Judge Dunne's action denied a motion to dismiss the suit by both the original plaintiff—George B. McLane, business agent for the union—and the defendants, who include Nitti, Murray Humphries, and other remnants of the old Capone gang. They filed a motion recently stating they had settled their controversy and wished the court to dismiss the suit.

Makes Four Demands.

After Judge Dunne had entered his order Raymond F. Hayes, attorney representing the intervening bartenders, urged the court to:

1. Hold McLane in contempt of court.
2. Order the receiver for the union to discharge McLane as business agent.
3. Rule McLane ineligible to run for reelection to his office and alter the union's rules of election to allow other candidates to run, or if necessary, postpone the forthcoming union election until other members can file their candidacies.
4. Oust James Crowley, secretary-treasurer, who reputedly is backed by Nitti and McLane for president in the election. Crowley and McLane receive $225 a week each from the union.

A. C. Lewis, representing McLane, objected to Hayes' petition and Judge Dunne continued the hearing until today.

Acts on Threat Charges.

On Hayes' charge that the Nitti gang is intimidating candidates opposing the Nitti slate and that the receiver and his employés have been threatened, the court entered a blanket order making it contempt of court for any one to interfere with the procedure of the receivership.

In asking that McLane be held in contempt Hayes alleged that McLane has aligned himself with Nitti and has entered into an unlawful conspiracy to dismiss the suit. He charged that McLane's refusal to testify in the recent criminal trial against Nitti and others, on the ground that he might incriminate himself, was a fraud on the court. In this trial Nitti and his associates were charged with conspiracy to seize control of the union.

The petition said McLane "is not a person of good moral character and is unfit to be either a member or an officer of the union and his election would work irreparable harm and injury."

Receiver Reports Deficit.

Roy D. Keehn, the receiver, filed a report yesterday showing the union had a total operating deficit of $2,505 for October and November. He repeated his refusal to pay bills tendered by the American hospital for services given persons sent there by union officials for treatment. The receiver said investigation revealed that nonmembers, including women, were sent to the hospital before the receivership, in violation of union rules.

The election of new officers is scheduled for Jan. 6. It will be held in Judge Dunne's courtroom. The judge will be present to settle disputes.

ONE DEAD, 4 HURT AS STORM RAGES ACROSS FLORIDA

Miami, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP).—One death, four injuries, residential property damage in three communities and unestimated crop damage were caused last night and early today by wind and rainstorms sweeping across the Florida peninsula from the west. Miami had 1.2 inches of rain and some telephones were out of service. The storm area tonight was enlarged to include Alabama.

The storms were caused by a disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico.

Robert L. Knight, 28, a fireman, was electrocuted at Fort Lauderdale today by a fallen power line and Homer G. Edenfield, 32, suffered shocks and burns in trying to rescue him from a heavily charged pool of water. They were both on call during a heavy rain storm that disrupted telephone and power communications.

A narrow "twister" injured three persons and damaged several buildings at Pomona Park, just north of Fort Myers in southwestern Florida.

POSTAL CLERK 27 YEARS INDICTED FOR MAIL THEFT

Claude L. Williams, 5039 Champlain avenue, has been a postoffice clerk for 27 years, with only two more years to go before retirement on pension. But yesterday Williams, who is 61 years old, colored, and the father of six sons and daughters, was indicted by the federal grand jury. The indictment contained two counts, each charging him with stealing 35 cents from the mails. If he is found guilty he faces loss of pension rights and a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and $1,000 fine, according to Assistant United States Attorney John Kiley.

Third Earthquake Felt in New Hampshire Area

YELLOW BANTAM AUTO HITS END OF FRAUD TRAIL

'Film Press Agent' Seized on Federal Charges.

A trail of bogus checks, a yellow bantam automobile on which were scrawled more than 500 autographs of movie stars, and his debonair manner yesterday led Harold Rose, a self styled Hollywood press agent, before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of using the mails to defraud. Postal Inspector M. L. Goldsmith disclosed details of a scheme by which he said Rose obtained nearly $10,000 in the last two years thru fraud.

Rose, tall, slim, and well groomed, was seized while driving in Lincoln park Christmas day in his spectacular car. Police had been advised of his possible arrival by the postal inspector after bogus checks allegedly signed by him had appeared in various cities in Kentucky and later in Indianapolis, Ind.

Uses Phony Printed Checks.

Rose's plan, according to Goldsmith, was this:

About two years ago, he had several packets of checks printed by a Hollywood bookie. They bore the headings of fictitious insurance companies.

In his travels about the country, Rose presented these checks to hotels, restaurants, and other stopping places for amounts ranging from $10 to $100. He told his victims, Goldsmith said, that the checks represented payments for damages to his automobile. Each check was signed with a fictitious name of John Foster, supposedly the credit representative of the insurance firm.

Trail of Checks Leads West.

Reports reaching the Chicago postoffice inspector's office built up a trail of checks leading westward, and police were urged to look out for Rose's garish automobile.

The car's autographs are all in bright red against the yellow background. Rose told A. Bradley Eben, assistant United States attorney, he knew hundreds of movie stars and that he had served as press agent for many of them.

Before Commissioner Walker he waived examination and was ordered held in $25,000 bond.

THREE BOYS, ALL UNDER 16, ADMIT 20 BURGLARIES

Three boys, the oldest 15 years old, confessed yesterday to Sergt. Jerome McGrath of the Chicago Lawn police that they were responsible for at least 20 recent burglaries in that and the Gresham police districts. The three turned over to juvenile authorities are Robert McGrath, 13, and his brother, John, 14 of 6822 South Oakley avenue, and Norbert Marcukitis, 15, of 6727 South Campbell avenue. The brothers are not related to Sergt. McGrath.

The sergeant and Detectives Walter Radomski and Samuel Hatfield questioned the three after two other youths told of buying revolvers from them for $1.50 each. A search of Marcukitis' home, police said, revealed another revolver, 7 or 8 stolen radios, 3 cameras, and 5 watches. About $40, and a revolver the boys had thrown away, also were recovered.

On information supplied by the boys, Mrs. Hazel Alberts, 45, of 6753 South Bell avenue, was charged with receiving stolen property. She admitted buying 2 radios, a camera, and a watch from them, police said. The complaint against her was signed by Policeman Bernard Mayer, 7207 South Talman avenue, whose home was among those burglarized.

WAITRESS GETS JURY TRIAL ON LARCENY CHARGE

Judge Leon Edelman in Felony court yesterday granted a jury trial to Miss Marion Brien, 31 years old, 4802 Sheridan road. She was charged with larceny by Bremond Oliver, 123 Scott street, Wheaton, general manager of a business counsellor firm at 30 North La Salle street.

Marion Brien.

Oliver told Judge Edelman that on Dec. 23, accompanied by a minister's daughter, he met Miss Brien in a loop tavern at 4 a. m. Shortly afterward, he charged, he missed $30 which he had carried in his pocket. He subsequently had her arrested.

Miss Brien denied the accusation and posted $1,000 bond pending the jury trial. She said she is a waitress.

JOHNNY TORRIO, IN U. S. PRISON, DENIED PAROLE

New York, Dec. 27 (AP). — United States Attorney John T. Cahill said today that the government had rejected parole pleas of Johnny Torrio, Chicago gambler now serving a federal prison term for income tax evasion.

Cahill said Torrio must serve his full term—two and one-half years, less five days off each month for good behavior—which would expire next May.

The announcement was made when Federal Judge William Bondy at Cahill's request dismissed ten indictments against Torrio which had been superseded by the tax evasion indictment to which Torrio pleaded guilty two years ago.

DISCHARGED POLICEMAN ACCUSED.

Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek yesterday ordered Andrew F. Gallagher, 35 years old, 2232 Kenmore avenue, a discharged city policeman, charged with attempted rape. The complaint was made by a nurse who charged he attacked her Christmas morning. Gallagher was dismissed from the police force in 1931 for intoxication.

3 SAVED AFTER ICE BREAKS IN PISTAKEE LAKE

Would-Be Rescuers of Woman Pulled Out.

Mrs. Helmer Ekberg, the wife of a Chicago attorney, tried to haul a sled load of groceries from the village of Fox Lake to her home on Cedar Island in Pistakee lake yesterday.

Arrow points to place of rescues.

Honeycomb ice broke beneath her before she had accomplished half of the quarter mile journey. Mrs. Ekberg, who is 45 years old, fell into six feet of water wearing her heavy winter coat.

George H. Brenig, 76 years old, her next door neighbor, had been walking with her. He plunged in to the rescue.

Onlooker Hurries to Rescue.

Gus Grimm, 55, a resident of the Park Manor hotel in Fox Lake, which is in Lake county, saw the couple struggling in the water. Seizing a plank and a pole, he hurried across the treacherous ice to their aid.

Grimm hooked Mrs. Ekberg's coat with the pole and drew her toward him. Then he slid the plank out upon the ice and helped her to climb out upon it.

He was trying to rescue Brenig in the same way when the ice broke again. Grimm fell in.

Two Other Men Rush to Aid.

Both men managed to keep afloat while two other men from Fox Lake made their way across the ice. Using Grimm's plank and pole, the Fox Lake men rescued him.

With his teeth chattering, Grimm then resumed his task of getting Brenig out. The rescuer helped Brenig up the plank after the older man had been in the water 20 minutes.

All three victims were taken to the home of neighbors. None seemed to have suffered greatly from exposure.

2 CREWS IN PORT AFTER BATTLING FOR LIVES AT SEA

Point Arena, Cal., Dec. 27 (AP).—Ten coast guardsmen, who rode out a severe storm for 48 hours in two open boats lashed together, and 22 men of the disabled lumber schooner Stanwood, were back on solid ground tonight, bruised and shaky.

Towering waves 30 and 40 feet high thwarted the guardsmen's efforts to reach the Stanwood and temporarily disabled their little rescue craft.

Chief Boatswain Mate D. M. Thomas and seven of his men set out Christmas eve to rescue the men aboard the Stanwood in one of the worst storms on the northern California coast. The other two men in the station set out in a surf boat to rescue Thomas and his companions when they sent up distress flares. All 10 men were picked up by the cutter Shawnee, which already had gone to the aid of the Stanwood.

The Stanwood's men were taken off in small boats by the crew of the cutter Shoshone. The cutter then towed the vessel to San Francisco bay.

BOYLE TOSSES 2D STRIKE HINT AT ALDERMEN

Protests 10% Pay Cut for Electrical Workers.

For the second time in less than two weeks Michael J. Boyle, boss of the electrical workers' union, local 134, threw a veiled strike threat at the city council yesterday.

Twice previously Boyle has thrown the city into darkness with electrical union strikes.

He made his threat yesterday before a special subcommittee of the council finance committee. It was his second protest against the proposed 10 per cent pay cut for all salaried city employés voted recently by the finance committee.

$334,000 Lopped Off Budget.

The cut, which was to reduce no union worker below an outside scale based on the daily rate times 254 working days, has reduced the budget approximately $334,000. The proposed budget is now before the council and will come up for passage Jan. 7. The corporate, or operating, budget totals $54,391,785, compared with $56,400,000 for 1940.

When the 10 per cent cut was approved by the finance committee two weeks ago, 50 union business agents appeared to protest. Among them was Boyle. The committee then named a subcommittee headed by Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th] to hear each protest. All have been heard. Arvey said yesterday the subcommittee will review the protests Monday.

Yesterday Boyle told the subcommittee the same thing he previously had told the finance committee: "If that cut stands the men will exercise their economic prerogative."

That statement was made to the aldermen in a closed session with Boyle and later was quoted to reporters by Ald. Arvey as spokesman for the subcommittee.

Asked if such a statement was not a strike threat, Arvey replied, "I don't like to think of it as a strike threat. We are still working on the budget, and nothing is settled."

Brings Up Bridge Issue.

Boyle also demanded a five day week for bridge tenders who now work six days. He was told that such a change would cost the city about $60,000 and knock out a saving made in the proposed appropriation ordinance by reducing the number of bridge tenders and using roving crews on little used bridges.

According to Arvey, Boyle replied: "The matter of roving crews is an administrative matter, and that's your business. But I think it's nutty."

SCHOOL BUDGET SUBMITTED

The tentative budget of the board of education for 1941, calling for appropriations totaling $72,498,067, compared with $71,443,560 in 1940, was presented to board members yesterday.

The budget is based on an anticipated increase of $3,750,000 in the pegged levy, from the present $48,000,000 to $51,750,000. This will be sought in a bill to be introduced at the opening session of the state legislature, according to President James B. McCahey of the board.

Public Hearing Scheduled.

In the meantime, the tentative budget or "work sheet" will be studied by the board in committee sessions, reviewed at a public hearing on Jan. 10, and then passed by the board before it is brought to final shape for submission to the city council.

"I can promise that the final draft won't be as high as these tentative figures indicate," McCahey said, "but we will have to get the pegged levy increase if we're to operate the schools in 1941 as we did in 1940."

McCahey explained that the levy increase was made necessary by the legislature's action in withdrawing motor fuel tax funds from the board. In 1939 when the levy was fixed for three years at 48 millions, the legislature tacitly agreed to make up part of an estimated 3½ million dollar deficiency out of the fuel tax funds. The fund was subsequently slashed, slashed again in 1940, and finally abolished for 1941.

Explains Legislature's Position.

"When we asked for a higher levy in 1939," McCahey said, "the legislature told us to come back if and when the motor fuel tax payments ceased. So they can't be surprised when we ask them for a higher levy now. We're just asking for what they've taken away from us, and I don't anticipate any trouble."

It was also explained that the increased levy of $3,750,000 actually would mean an increase of approximately 3 millions to the school board since levy collections amount to about 75 cents on the dollar.

Total levies on the taxpayers for school expenditures in 1941 would be $70,302,531, on the basis of the tentative budget, compared with $65,567,254 in 1940. Alfred Bolt, auditor for the board of education, said the increase would amount to approximately 15 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Fire on Theater Canopy Slows Up Traffic in Loop

Traffic on State street was slowed up for 10 minutes yesterday when a fire started on the roof of the Chicago theater canopy over the sidewalk at 175 North State street. A short circuit of the electric current which illuminates the sign caused the blaze. The current was shut off by an employé of the theater before the arrival of the firemen.

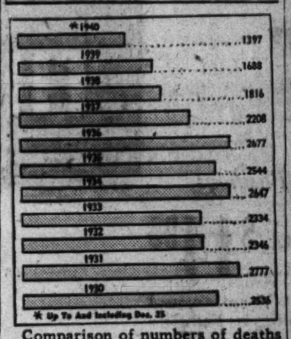
Pneumonia Toll Down



Comparison of numbers of deaths in Chicago from pneumonia annually for the last 11 years.

Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen reported yesterday there is a decrease of 248 in pneumonia deaths so far this year as compared to the same period last year. Up to yesterday there were 1,397 deaths recorded. For the same period in 1939 there were 1,645 deaths.

Health department records show the percentage of fatalities to cases of pneumonia so far this year is 20.3, compared to 24.6 per cent a year ago.

Dr. Bundesen pointed to the gradual decrease of pneumonia deaths over a period of years and said it is still too early to tell how much of the recent decrease can be attributed to the use of the new drug, sulfa-pyridine. He said the decline is general thruout the country.

TAYLOR'S WIDOW SUES TO CUT OFF OTHER WOMAN

Suit was filed in Circuit court yesterday to set aside the will of Mathew Taylor, president of the Chicago Elevator Operators and Starters' union, who died Sept. 6 after making sensational charges that gangsters were trying to muscle into his union.

His widow, Mrs. Louise Taylor, 2908 South Maple avenue, Berwyn, is the plaintiff. Under Taylor's will his estate, valued at $9,000 at his death, is left equally to Mrs. Taylor and to Mrs. Lena Jacobs, 8048 South Marshfield avenue.

Mrs. Taylor charges that her husband was of unsound mind, that Mrs. Jacobs lived with him as his wife and exercised undue influence in the drawing of the will. She values the estate at more than $25,000. The suit also makes defendants of Taylor's parents, Philip and Mary Warner, and his two brothers, Max and Henry T. Warner, on the theory that they are legal heirs. Taylor's real name was Warner.

If the will is set aside Mrs. Taylor would receive a widow's share of half, but the other half, bequeathed in the will to Mrs. Jacobs, would go to the Warners.

FREE HIGHWOOD ALDERMAN IN POLICE DISPUTE

Ald. Joseph Calzia of Highwood, who was arrested Dec. 9 and locked up overnight in his home town jail, was found not guilty of disorderly conduct yesterday. His trial was held before a jury in the court of Justice of the Peace Samuel Smith of Highland Park, to whom the case was assigned on a change of venue.

The complainant was Vincent Ghini, a Highwood policeman. He alleged that Calzia met him on the street and addressed abusive language to him. The alderman denied this and asserted he had been handled with unnecessary roughness by Ghini and another policeman.

Calzia, it was learned, has been unpopular with the town's police since he advocated a reduction in the force. He is a member of a minority faction on the Highwood council.

HIT-RUN DRIVER SENTENCED TO 30 DAYS IN JAIL

Emil Prohelki, 3634 Lowe avenue, a car washer, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and his driving privileges were suspended for 90 days for leaving the scene of an accident by Judge John V. McCormick in Safety court yesterday. Prohelki also was fined $25 for reckless driving. He was arrested Dec. 9 after driving away from an accident at 47th and Halsted streets in which a pedestrian had been hurt. Leo Urbanski, 3243 South Morgan street, was sentenced to 10 days in jail for drunken driving. His driving privileges were suspended for 30 days.

WOMAN AND GIRL KILLED BY TRUCK; TWO OTHERS HURT

Driver Blinded by Lights of Cars, He Asserts.

Two girls and their mothers, family friends, started to a motion picture show last night. They were crossing Ogden avenue at St. Louis avenue when they were struck by a 10 ton truck and trailer. One mother and the other's daughter were killed. The other two were injured.

The dead were Mrs. Sarah Horwitz, 43 years old, of 1809 South Ridgeway avenue; and Edith Saruk, 16, a Manley High school junior living at 1821 South Hamlin avenue. The injured are Edith's mother, Mrs. Zella Saruk, 41; and Anna Horwitz, 11, a pupil at William Penn grammar school. Both were treated at Mount Sinai hospital.

Lights Blind Truck Driver.

The truck was driven by Floyd Vanatta, 39, of Muscatine, Ia. He told police that he was blinded by lights of other motorists forced by a street barricade to swerve from their lane. He tried to drive over a safety island, he said, but the rear of the trailer skidded, striking the women and girls.

An unidentified pedestrian was killed last night by an automobile at Clybourn and Greenview avenues. He was 5 feet, 5 inches tall, weighed 140 pounds, and was about 55. The driver was Abraham Nechin, 42, an attorney living at 6446 Bosworth avenue.

Two young couples on their way home from a dance were killed early yesterday morning when their automobile was struck by a Michigan Central passenger train at the 9th street crossing in Michigan City. The car, with the victims inside, was carried six blocks by the train before it could be brought to a stop.

All from Michigan City.

The dead, all of Michigan City, were: Miss Irene Butler, 19 years old, 735 East Michigan street, and Miss Mary Jean Renkawitz, 17, of 311½ West 9th street, fountain clerks; Steve Levendowski, 24, of 1102 East Michigan street, a grocery clerk, and Alexander Putz Jr., 25, of 718 Tremont street, a filling station attendant.

Dr. D. G. Bernoske, Michigan City coroner, who announced an inquest to be held this morning, said that if investigation discloses the train was traveling faster than 25 miles an hour—the limit in Michigan City—he will recommend that the road be prosecuted for negligence. The train was bound from Chicago to Detroit, Mich., and the crew went on to Michigan yesterday before they could be asked about the train's speed.

Michigan City police said the crossing is equipped with safety gates but that the gatekeeper is not on duty between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m.

Dies After Three Car Crash.

Anthony Yacullo, 45, of 1900 Erie street, a laborer, died in Hines Veterans' hospital of injuries incurred Wednesday in a three car collision at Wolf and Roosevelt roads in Hillside. Samuel Fugazzotto, 26, of 1929 Erie street, also was killed in the accident.

Jack Melton, 61, colored, of 1603 Center avenue, Chicago Heights, died in St. James hospital in the suburb of injuries suffered Tuesday when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver.

Henry Schmidt, 33, of 1032 Ashland avenue, Evanston, son of a cement contractor, died in St. Francis hospital last night a few hours after being hit at Asbury avenue and Madison street in Evanston by a car driven by Vincent D. Thoma, 700 Laurel avenue, Wilmette.

John Alander, 73, of 1408 North Linder avenue, a former maintenance man, died in St. Anne's hospital early today of injuries incurred Monday in front of 5216 North avenue when he was hit by a car driven by Douglas Leckie, 25, of 923 Bristol avenue, Westchester.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 839 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 654 were killed in Chicago where 23,655 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

Gene Arnold's Wife Wins Separate Maintenance Suit

Mrs. Anna May Arnold of Muncie, Ind., was granted separate maintenance yesterday by Judge Philip Finnegan from Gene Arnold, veteran minstrel singer, composer, and radio entertainer. She charged desertion.

TELLER SOUNDS ALARM, FOILING BANK ROBBERY

A neatly dressed man slid a typewritten note into a teller's cage yesterday at the Terminal National bank, 400 Madison street.

"Hand over one package of fives," the note read. "My partner will keep you covered for three minutes after I leave. Don't try anything rash."

The teller, Harold Siegers, 9300 South Bishop street, read the note, then asked: "I don't get it; is it a joke?"

"This ain't no joke," the bandit replied, lifting his hand threateningly in his pocket. "You've only got a minute to go."

Siegers dropped to the floor of the cage and pushed an alarm button. None of the 25 or 30 patrons in the bank was aware of the attempted robbery until police, summoned by the alarm, rushed in. A man in line behind the robber said he walked hurriedly out when Siegers fell to the floor.

HORACE BRAND LOSES ANOTHER ROUND IN COURT

The Appellate court yesterday affirmed rulings of the Probate and Circuit courts ordering Horace L. Brand, former publisher of a German language newspaper, to repay $13,350 to the estate of his brother, Virgil, and $4,000 in legal fees and other expenses to another brother, Armin.

Virgil died in 1926, leaving as part of his estate one of the world's finest coin collections. At one time it was valued at $3,000,000. It was divided between Horace and Armin, but in the division and in the joint handling of administrative expenses it was later found that Horace had come out slightly ahead of Armin. The Appellate court's opinion presumably makes the brothers even.

The opinion added to Horace Brand's court troubles. He is now involved in litigation concerning how much of the coin collection and how much of his real estate should go to his ex-wife, Erna.

DEMOCRATS PICK JUDGE F. R. DOVE FOR STATE COURT

Vandalia, Ill., Dec. 27 (AP).—Franklin R. Dove, 58 years old, Shelby county Circuit judge for 19 years, was nominated by the Democratic party today for the Illinois Supreme court seat of the late Justice Norman L. Jones.

Judge Dove was nominated by delegates from the 21 counties in the second Supreme court district on the first ballot when Pike county's contingent switched its 15 votes from Circuit Judge A. Clay Williams of Pittsfield to give the veteran Shelbyville jurist a clear majority.

Dove will run in a special election Feb. 25 against a Republican candidate to be nominated Jan. 3 at Effingham. The winner will finish the Jones term which expires in June, 1942.

POLICE SAY JUST OBEY THE LAW ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

Police Commissioner Allman and Capt. David Flynn, head of the traffic division, collaborated yesterday in statements concerning New Year's eve jollification.

"Just obey the law, let your conscience be your guide, and the law will not disturb you," said the commissioner.

"If you've had too much to drink just leave your car where it is," said the captain. "Don't try to drive home. We'll waive parking tickets in such cases."

Princeton Show Outstanding on CalendarToday

BY JUDITH CASS.

EARLIER in the winter when Christmas parties and weddings were being planned many must have figured that few persons would entertain on the Saturday and Sunday between Christmas and New Year's. That they figured incorrectly is apparent when one looks at today's schedule of events. Every one of every age in social circles is going to rush madly today and tomorrow if she tries to attend even one-half of the affairs to which she is invited.

The Princeton Triangle show at the Civic Opera house is THE event of tonight for the very young subdebs and their preparatory school beaux and to old Princeton "grads" who take their grandchilddren to see the Trianglers whenever they come to Chicago. A tea-dance before the show and a ball after it will add to today's gayety.

Miss Virginia Winston and Herbert DeYoung Wed Today

The marriage of the president of the Chicago Junior league, Miss Virginia Winston, and Herbert Cornell DeYoung is another important event of today. The ceremony is to be a small one, but the reception at 5 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic club will be large. The Rev. Duncan Browne will read the service in the chapel of St. James' church in the presence of a small family circle.

Miss Laura Winston, a freshman at Vassar, will be her sister's maid of honor. The young women are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Horner Winston of Evanston. Completing the bride's quartet of attendants will be Mrs. Rogers Follansbee as matron of honor and Mrs. Herbert V. Kohler, and Mrs. Albert F. Winston as bridesmaids. Mrs. Kohler is the bridegroom's only sister, and Mrs. Winston is the sister-in-law of the bride.

Mr. Kohler, as best man, heads the masculine contingent of the bridal party. Ushering will be Edward D. Benninghoven, George W. Dixon Jr., Mr. Winston, and Fred C. Hack Jr.

Mr. DeYoung, only son of Mrs. Frederic R. DeYoung of Chicago and the late Justice DeYoung, will take his bride on a southern wedding trip.

Many Affairs Arranged for Princeton Visitors.

From the moment the Princeton boys step off their special train at 10:30 o'clock this morning, their two day stopover in Chicago will be punctuated with gay doings. From the Chicago Princeton club's luncheon at noon today at the Palmer house, they go on to the tea-dance at the Casino for Miss Barbara Warner. After a quick supper at the Casino and the performance of "Many a Slip," they'll climb out of their costumes and into full dress for Miss Evelyn Gardner's début ball at the Blackstone.

The ball, indeed, will be just reward for the young performers. One of Chicago's two début balls this season, it is the Henry A. Gardners' second party for their daughter, Evelyn. The first was a tea in September in their Winnetka home.

Tonight the ballroom of the Blackstone will be a glistening fairyland of white Christmas trees and dripping cellophane fringe. Brilliant red poinsettias will bloom from the giant cotton snowballs massed along the floor. In all this Christmasy setting, anything but a white gown would seem out of place, and the debutante has wisely chosen white tulle edged in silver lace.

Numerous Dinners to Precede the Triangle Show.

Other visitors at the ball will be the Gardners' eight house guests: Miss Flo Urban of Buffalo; Miss Katrina Mitchell of Hartford; three of the debutante's Connecticut college classmates, Miss Pat Dilworth, Miss Marilyn Keck, and Miss Janet Witte; a Harvard duo, James Fickenstadt and Wally Ford; and one from Yale, Nelson Talbot Jr.

The Triangle show, of course, is the inspiration for a number of dinner parties preceding it. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson's and Mrs. Alfred Carton's is for Miss Gardner and Miss Betty Butler; Miss Evelyn Thomas' for her niece, Miss Tannisse Twyman; and the Gardiner Van Nesses' for Miss Eleanor Norris.

Miss Merikay Howard's friends are being entertained by her cousins, John and Hubert Howard Jr. The Robert A. Gardners and their daughter, Mary, are taking 40 guests to the Pump room for dinner. Others giving parties are Mrs. Emmons Blaine, the Philip F. W. Pecks, Dr. and Mrs. Loyal Davis, and the William Clancys.

Charles C. Fitzmorris Jr. Heads Chicago Committee.

The Chicago Triangle committee is headed by Charles C. Fitzmorris Jr., assisted by William A. Cremin and Theodore S. Chapman III. Mr. Chapman's parents are here for the week-end from Greenwich, Conn., to see the show, as his brother, Robert H. Chapman III., is president of the Triangle and one of the players.

While the Seymour Wheelers' party is going on for Miss Barbara Warner, the John Eliot Warners' debutante, Miss Helen Knight, will be "coming out" in Highland Park. The Francis M. Knights and their daughter, a sophomore at Smith college, will receive family friends and young guests in their home from 4 to 7 o'clock.

The debutante will wear white chiffon girdled in silver spangles, and carry red roses. Her assistants will be Miss Josephine Lloyd, Miss Carol Jones, Miss Betty Wampler, Miss Virginia Sherwin, Miss Mary Vercoe, and Miss Catherine Margaret Jones.

James T. Aubrey, James B. McCahey, James Fentress, and J. Otis Carney will report news from Princeton at the Princeton club luncheon. It will Be Carl Zeiss' last chance to preside as new officers are to be elected today.

Friends of Miss Barbara Warner have been invited to a tea-dance at the Casino club from 3:30 o'clock to

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Mary Jane Deere Wiman, elder daughter of the Charles Deere Wimans of Chicago, Moline and Santa Barbara, made her formal bow to Chicago society at a ball at the Blackstone on Thursday night. Miss Marie-Merrill Hubbard, elder daughter of Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, made her debut at the same function. Both buds were gowned in white tulle for the occasion. The crystal ballroom of the hotel never looked more beautiful than it did in its trimmings of gilded Christmas trees and garlands.

Doubtful Status.

Office manager to typist, handing her form letters: "Fill these in with the names and addresses of our customers. For salutation fill in 'Gentlemen'—or whatever the case may be."

RECOLLECTED CHRISTMAS.

"Time was when Christmas meant to me
Some popcorn draped upon a tree,
A table bowed with wholesome eats,
A netting bag of nuts and sweets,
A pair of mittens, warm and red,
A book of stories or a sled.

So long ago, so long ago!
How could an artless youngster know
That never in the years to be
Could time repeat the ecstasy
Of simple gifts and childish joy
That Christmas brought a little boy?"

[Received and relayed by Mrs. Rufus Dawes.]

Add Dog Stories.

The two best animal stories of the week are told by George Anundsen Harper. One concerns a poodle that is not allowed in the dining room at meal time. She sneaks in once in a while, staying close to the wall and stepping softly. The family finally discovered that she kept her eyes tight shut all the way. They never have told her that she was not as invisible to them as they were to her.

The other story is about an Irish setter named Rufus and a Dalmatian, Sally, who belong to a physician in Monroe, Wis. They have taken possession of an armchair and each considers it the only place for a nap. Sally has discovered a way to get Rufus out of the chair when he gets there first. She races to the window and barks furiously. When he climbs down to see what the excitement is about she hurries back and jumps into the chair.

Sparrow Story.

Everybody you meet these last two weeks tells the story of the sparrow. It arrived in a little gathering of its kind with tail feathers missing, and a general look of having been in trouble.

"Where have you been?" chorused the other sparrows.

"Well, I was flying along and it was a nice day and I did a little swooping up and down, and the first thing I knew I found myself in a badminton game," explained the disheveled bird.

In the Morning Mail.

Dear Miss Provines:

We take issue with Eleanor Steinert's statement that the "shadows of Flagstad and Melchior haunt the backstage corridors." That shadow of Flagstad, Miss Provines, wears a bright halo and radiates a warm golden glow. And Flagstad herself will give it voice as only she can, when she sings here for Norwegian Relief on Jan. 17. We wax rhapsodic because Mme. Flagstad, perhaps remembering how bitter a Norwegian winter can be, is donating not only her services for the concert, but has insisted on paying her own traveling and hotel expenses. Her accompanist, Edwin McArthur, is making the same contribution. We hope the warmth that envelops us at the thought of her generosity will reach out to warm the hearts of a people in a stricken land.

St. Vincent's Crib Society Is Giving Benefit Tomorrow

The Crib society of St. Vincent's orphanage will have a large auxiliary committee of young hosts and hostesses to assist in receiving the guests tomorrow at a tea in the institution at 721 North La Salle street. All of the babies will be in their best bib and tucker for the festive occasion, which is to bring Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch as a special guest.

A benevolent organization, the Crib society raises funds for St. Vincent's. Active in arranging tomorrow's benefit are the president, Mrs. Frank Gerahty, Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody.

Mrs. Peabody and Mrs. McLaughlin will entertain members of the board of directors of the Crib society at a luncheon at the Racquet club tomorrow. Mrs. McLaughlin is the honorary president of the board. Mrs. Gerahty is active president. Mrs. Peabody is treasurer.

The Stage

"Here Today," the comedy starring Ruth Gordon, will end its engagement at the Selwyn theater on Saturday evening, Jan. 4. No tenant for the theater after that date has been announced.

Mount Holyoke Club Giving Luncheon Today

"Trials and Tribulations" of being a student at Mount Holyoke college will be revealed at the Christmas luncheon which the Chicago Mount Holyoke club will give at 12 o'clock today at the Lake Shore club. Undergraduates at the school will be special guests at the luncheon, and under the direction of Miss Rosamund Purdy they will present the program. The sufferers of the "trials and tribulations" under discussion include Miss Barbara White, Miss Mary Sheverick, Miss Nancy Buckley, Miss Mary Binder, and Miss Carol Hill.

Research Sets New Dates in Life of Christ

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Ancient traditions concerning the age of Christ at the time of his crucifixion face drastic revision if studies made by Prof. Albert T. Olmstead of Oriental institute, University of Chicago, should be accepted by historians. Prof. Olmstead contends that the Savior was nearly 50 years old at his death instead of 33 as most widely held thru Christian ages.

Another view announced by the Midway oriental historian for which he claims substantiation is the discovery of the exact date of the crucifixion, which, he stated, was on April 7, 30 A. D. Prof. Olmstead first made known the findings of his extensive chronological studies before a group of scholars last November in the Haskell lectures at the graduate school of theology of Oberlin college, Oberlin, O. More general public notice of his findings will appear today in the current issue of Current Religious Thought, a journal published in Oberlin.

Dr. John A. Wilson, director of Oriental institute, said yesterday that he knew of Prof. Olmstead's studies and was familiar with portions dealing with the problem of the crucifixion date. He added that while he would be pleased to credit the institute with Prof. Olmstead's chronological studies, this could not be done because the studies were undertaken under Prof. Olmstead's own initiative.

Prof. Olmstead is vacationing in New York and could not be reached last night.

Until recent years Christ's death was generally accepted as occurring in 33 A. D., and that year has been printed in the margin of all King James Bibles since 1655. Archbishop James Ussher, Anglican theologian of Armagh, Ireland, determined the King James Bible chronology. He also set the date of creation in Genesis at 4004 B. C.

Current Religious Thought quotes Prof. Olmstead as follows:

"It is generally known that after the exile, the Jews adopted the Babylonian calendar. What is not so well known is that, thanks to astronomical tablets lately discovered, we can establish a calendar for events in the late Babylonian period with rarely a probability of error of a day, and we can extend the calendar thru 45 A. D. by the repetition of cycles proven hitherto correct.

"The beginning of Jesus' ministry was in the second half of 28 A. D., not 26 A. D., as has generally been held. The birth of Jesus was much earlier than generally thought, probably between 20 B. C. and 15 B. C., thus making him nearly 50 years old at the time of his crucifixion."

Probably most scholars have set 4 B. C. as the year of Christ's birth.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 27.—Funny thing, isn't it? Most of the fan stories that come out of Hollywood are about Hedy Lamarr's beauty or Ann Sheridan's oomph or Norma Shearer never looking lovelier, and certainly nine-tenths of the still pictures that come out of Hollywood to the magazines and roto sections are leg art. Yet the 10 biggest moneymaking stars of 1940 lists eight men in the first eight. Number nine was Bette Davis, whose specialty is suffering and not sex. Number 10 was Judy Garland, who won simply by being a sweet young kid—altho now she has plenty of allure. Hollywood, apparently, is becoming a man's world. A year ago four females got into the big 10—Shirley Temple, Miss Davis, Alice Faye, and Sonja Henie. In 1938 the list included Temple, Henie, Myrna Loy, Jane Withers, and Faye. In 1937 it had Temple, Withers, Ginger Rogers, Henie, and Loy. You better get going in 1941, girls.

Pat O'Brien, who had said he was going to free lance, has signed with Columbia to do two pictures a year for five years. . . . Martha Scott will play opposite George Brent in "They Dare Not Love," and Herbert Marshall and Virginia Bruce will be the team in "Senate Page Boys." Ida Lupino will be the girl in 20th Century-Fox's "Man Hunt," an anti-Nazi story formerly called "Rogue Male." . . . The old Valentino smash, "Blood and Sand," will be restaged in Mexico City, with Tyrone Power as the guy and with Rouben Mamoulian directing 5,000 extras for the bull fight scenes. Shooting starts Jan. 2, in glorious technicolor. . . . Leone's Hollywood restaurant folded up Christmas night with a dinner for 300 waifs. W. C. Fields and Rudy Vallee had been among the steadiest customers since the opening. . . . Add New Year's resolutions: Gene Raymond will make his vow not to smoke for one year. He smokes one year, lays off it the next. Ginger Rogers says she'll practice the piano and visit as many art exhibits as possible. Tim Holt says he will help at least one struggling young player by giving him a break in a Holt western, and Robert Montgomery vows to do all he can to help the British cause.

A young lady named Minna Le Clerque sought Dorothy Lamour the other day and said she was writing a book on what must a girl do to get and hold a man, and would Lamour please say. Dorothy said, "if I knew I'd write the book myself." . . . Susanna Foster's offer to sing at Deanna Durbin's wedding next June has been accepted. The young Paramount songbird will sing "Because"—which Miss Durbin once warbled at the wedding of a friend. . . . Bing Crosby and Bob Hope have agreed that, in their next picture together, they will reverse rôles. Crosby will be the fall guy. Well, there have been many instances of comedy teams switching on the stage. Willie Howard used to be straight man for brother Gene, and, if I remember my history right, Bobby Clark once played straight for the late Paul McCullough.

Jack Moss, whose "The Biscuit Eater" got on the motion picture board of review list of 10 best films for 1940, has produced two pictures since then. One, called "D. O. A." [cops' term for dead on arrival], is being held for spring release. Moss thought it was an art study in the macabre, but people who saw it at sneaks insisted it was a fine horror flicker. For a long time Moss held out against billing his film as a shocker, but has finally given in. So it will be released as "The Monster and the Girl." His second production, "Shepherd of the Hills," will have an opening in St. Louis soon and Moss plans to round up, for a première audience as many Ozark hillbillies as can be found who have never seen a movie. . . . Because of government cantonment construction, lumber and labor costs have risen so high that many movie folk have postponed building new homes or adding to old ones.

Prior to the start of filming on Harold Lloyd's "A Girl, A Guy, and a Gob," Lucille Ball did not have a solitary superstition, strange as that might be for an actress. But after two months' association with George Murphy, Edmond O'Brien, and Lloyd she has today more superstitions than a Haitian voodoo doctor. Neither Murphy, O'Brien, nor Lloyd believes he is superstitious. Their little fetishes and eccentricities are merely idiosyncrasies to them.

Yet the fact remains that Lucille now leaves by way of the same stage door she enters. She will not ride thru tunnels except on a train. She carries a roll of "lucky money" which is strangely reminiscent of a Lloyd quirk of years' standing. There is no song before breakfast.

She will start her next picture wearing the same pair of shoes she used in the filming of "A Girl, A Guy, and a Gob." It may be for only one scene, but that is sufficient to oust any ill omen that might be hanging over the production. This smacks a bit of the Murphy touch, for he never starts a picture unless his feet are incased in the shoes in which he first won dancing fame.

The banshees and the little men have been scattered to the four winds by O'Brien thru the medium of a ring he always wears. It was given to him by a friend who obtained it in India. A Hindu priest first proclaimed it a lucky omen and O'Brien contends it has brought him no end of good breaks.

So now Miss Ball is in the market for a charm.

Power, Beauty in 'Messiah' of Apollo Chorus

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Under Edgar Nelson's direction and with the assistance of a quartet of extraordinary soloists the Apollo Musical club last night gave Handel's "Messiah" a performance which reflected something of the passionate mysticism and the sturdy faith both of the prophets and evangelists who had provided the words and of the composer who had written the music. A packed Orchestra hall hung on every word of a testament whose vitality and whose power to console and to strengthen remain almost untouched by the passage of 2,000 years.

The great oratorio stood forth last night for what it is—a hauntingly beautiful representation of the Christmas story and an expression of almost unexampled power of the hope which underlies Christianity. Indeed one must go to the closing chorus of the St. John Passion to find anything which in strength of faith and in sublime confidence in the ultimate goodness of life can excel the "Messiah's" better pages.

The power of last night's performance sprang from the sincerity of the performers. Even the men of the orchestra seemed to have caught a spark or two from Handel's white hot passion. They supported chorus and soloists with playing of the type which could not have resulted merely from the good union man's desire to fulfill his contract but which went beyond this and did some justice to the fervor of the score and the general quality of the performance.

Chorus and soloists were not content simply to mouth the words provided for them by the ancient prophets. Instead, they sang as if they meant what they said. As a result the performance approached that synthesis of truth and beauty which is an ideal older even than Christianity. This singing was beautiful because it was put forth not as art but as truth.

The soloists who contributed to this remarkable performance were Kathryn Witwer, soprano; Ruth Slater, contralto; Robert Topping, tenor, and Bruce Foote, baritone. Instrumental parts were provided by a portion of the Chicago Symphony orchestra and by Organist Robert Birch.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Cheli Scott, Norma Tredwell goes to the city to break up the romance between her libertine ex-husband, Paul Gerente, and her step-daughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment and discovers Paul murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Gerente with orders in code from the naval intelligence. On a hunch, Maclain goes to Paul's apartment and finds Cameron with the dead man. Cameron lives in the apartment below Paul's and he confesses to the murder, claiming a girl, Hilda Lestrade, witnessed it, but Maclain doubts his story. Norma longs to ask the advice of Bunny Carter, head of the aircraft works where her step-son, Gilbert, is a designing engineer, but does not dare for fear of implicating Barbara in the murder. Col. Gray, head of the New York defense plans, commissions Maclain and his partner, Spud, to investigate spy activities in connection with the murder and the bombing sight Gilbert Tredwell has designed. Maclain goes to the Tredwell home with his two seeing-eye dogs, ostensibly to solve Barbara's disappearance. He discovers Gilbert's bombing sight plans have been traced and learns from Norma that she thought Bella, the maid, was hiding behind the wardrobe and it was she who pushed it on Norma. Later Bella is found beheaded. Maclain came upon the odor of violets in Paul's apartment and finds it again about Bella. He concludes that violet perfume is a trademark in the Nazi spy system, but thinks Bella was killed because she was working for the intelligence, but pretending to work for the Nazis. Maclain questions Bunny Carter and drives with him out to the aviation plant where he hears Louis Madoc, a foreman, speak, and he realizes he is hearing the voice of the fake Paul Gerente who visited him the night of Paul's murder. A perfume ad is mailed Norma from the House of Bonnee, and Maclain pockets it, sure it is a message in code. When he finally decodes it he realizes there is a plan to kidnap him. He throws the ad out to be collected, willing to act as bait to catch the criminals, but, in the meantime, he dictates a message to Spud into an ediphone and sends it to him by his chauffeur, Cappo. It is an order to investigate the House of Bonnee and be ready to capture the gang when they try to kidnap Maclain. Spud goes to the House of Bonnee, perfume store in New York, and the salesgirl tries to sell him some black violets perfume.

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

TIGHT SPOT.

"I'm sorry." Spud reached up and pushed the bottle away. "I wouldn't care if it cost $75 a dram—it doesn't appeal to me."

"You get used to it in time." The girl stoppered the bottle and returned it to the shelf.

Spud reached into his pocket for a cigaret, took it out, and searched for a match. It was very peculiar how heavy the match seemed to be. He closed both hands tightly about it, trying to keep it from falling to the floor. With one last effort, before his hands dropped inertly beside him, he grasped the cigaret and broke it in two.

* * *

Cappo shut off the engine of the car at 9:20. He had a streak of frugality when it came to spending the Captain's money on the car. The last 30 minutes had become ones of agony at the thought of high-test gasoline being uselessly burned. Twenty minutes more dragged by lingeringly before he once more started the motor. A short distance down the block a machine moved away, leaving a vacant parking space. Cappo moved the car on down until it was nearly opposite the Tanner building and backed it in. Not until then was he able to distinguish the lettering on the windows of the House of Bonnee. Again he put out the headlights and shut off the motor.

Spud had been gone an unconscionably long time, but he had given Cappo no orders to investigate or interfere.

The man in the Protective agency uniform came back again. Cappo shivered under the warmth of his chauffeur's driving coat and turned away.

Upstairs in the Tanner building, the lights went out in the windows of the House of Bonnee.

Cold air struck in sharply at the Negro. He twisted around with relief, thinking that Spud had returned, and found the blue uniformed watchman holding open the door of the car.

"Waiting for some one?" the watchman asked.

"Yessah," said Cappo.

The man got in beside him and closed the door. "You've been here an awful long time. Who are you waiting for?

"The gentleman I drive for."

"O," said the watchman. "Who's he?"

"He's my employer," Cappo told him steadily. "The man I work for."

"You said that before. What's his name?"

"That's his business. I don't see that it means anything to you."

"Where did he go?" the watchman asked sharply. "You sound suspicious to me."

"I don't care how I sound. It's his business where he went. I don't even know."

"O, you don't?" The watchman's voice rang with quick unfriendliness. "I don't supppose you know anything about a lot of robberies that've been going on around here, either."

"Nothing," said Cappo.

"I think we'll see about that. Start your car, you're coming along with me."

"What's your authority?"

"This," said the watchman. He clicked the safety off the .45 automatic on his knee.

* * *

"You'll have to lie quiet. You've been very ill." The woman in the nurse's uniform adjusted the bed lamp so that she sat in the shadow.

Spud moved his head warily on the pillow, fighting a nausea that clutched at his stomach threateningly. His senses were numb and dull, yet beating against his brain with the rhythmic blows of a woodsman's ax was the thought that somewhere in the not so distant past he had rushed headlong into a trap with all the rash precipitation of an arrant fool.

He opened his eyes and gazed achingly at a wall. The room he was in was windowless and quiet except for the woman's breathing, and the monotonous hum of a ventilating fan heard thru a grille in one corner. Rough cloth was against his skin. He glanced down at his chest. It took him several seconds to realize that he was in a single bed clad only in a hospital nightgown.

Memory began to trickle back slowly. Cappo, 57th street, the girl with the perfume bottle, and the House of Bonnee. Then the tiny stream of thoughts rose and grew until he felt himself drowning in bitterness as he remembered Maclain.

The Captain trusted him as he trusted no other living man. He had given him a job to do, a simple job, and Spud Savage had bungled it by showing no more foresight than a 10 year old boy. The mechanism of the dictaphone seemed to be grinding against his nerves, mockingly repeating the message from Duncan Maclain.

"Be cautious, because it's dangerous as hell! I'm the quarry now. If you find anything suspicious, get in touch with Col. Gray. Tell him—to keep an eye on me."

No one knew the captain's methods better than Spud Savage. The captain was about to walk deliberately into a situation where a single slip meant death. He was pinning his faith on Spud and Col. Gray, and Spud had failed.

He tried to move his arm and found that the sheets were tucked in tightly about him. Then a stab of hope cut into the pressure of his self-recriminations bringing the painful relief of a surgeon's lance.

He had thought of Cappo. Cappo knew where he had gone, and Cappo was free. Spud relaxed with a lethargy even more foreboding than before. An organization which struck with such surety and finesse in a game played for nations would not have overlooked Cappo.

One single chance remained—a chance that he had not been unconscious too long, and could find some desperate means of getting away. Even if he failed to escape alive, he must get the captain's message to G-2.

He lay quiescent, certain that the woman's eyes were looking at him all the time. Moving the fingers of his right hand as unobtrusively as possible, he began to work the covers free. The sheet was nearly untucked at the side of the bed when a key turned in the door. Spud drew a long breath, held it a few seconds, and released it cautiously.

A powerful, thickset man in interne's white came into the room. He wore an operating mask which almost entirely hid his face. Spud watched him from under lowered lids as he carefully locked the door and pocketed the key.

"He's restless," said the woman in the nurse's uniform.

"I was afraid of that." The doctor spoke throatily. "I'd better give him an injection which will help him sleep until dawn."

Spud felt a constriction around his heart when he learned it was not yet day. There might still be time to save Maclain if he acted immediately.

The doctor came forward, stood beside the bed for some minutes looking down at Spud, then lowered the sheets a trifle and bared Spud's arm. The nurse left her chair to stand on the other side of the bed. Spud drew up his knees forming a tent of the bedclothes. At the same instant, the table lamp gleamed on a hypodermic in the doctor's hand.

Once Spud was aroused, few men living could move with such unexpected agility. The doctor took a pinch of Spud's flesh between the thumb and forefinger of his left hand and leaned over to drive the hypodermic home. As he did so, Spud's arms snaked from under the cover, reached up with simian strength to grasp the doctor's head, and smashed the masked face down with crushing force against an upraised knee.

Blood stained the surgeon's face, and the hypodermic clattered to the floor.

★ Your Stars Today ★

By WYNN

Saturday, Dec. 28.

Study plans, finances, relations with elders and superiors today; save the good ideas that drift in, write them down for future use. This can be made the best day of the week by standing up to the situation honestly with clear vision.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from anniversary today is opportunity to achieve whatever is due you from past efforts; also to start wise new things, train self further, clean up the past, make emotional decisions. Danger: Feb. 14-28; July 4-14.

Tomorrow.

Good for those who are alert and willing to plan ahead seriously.

Nancy Landis Becomes Bride This Evening

The veil which Miss Nancy Landis will wear tonight at her marriage to Burton Cedric Smith is trimmed with lace which belonged to her great-grandmother and to her grandmother. The tiny silver buckles on her shoes belong to another grandmother. The ceremony will take place at the Glencoe Union church at 8:30 o'clock with the Rev. Douglas Cornell officiating.

Miss Landis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reed G. Landis of Glencoe, and Mr. Smith is the son of the Cedric Howard Smiths of Kenilworth. A reception will be held at the Skokie Country club. After their return from a wedding trip, Mr. Smith and his bride will live in Winnetka.

Miss Susanne Landis will be her sister's maid of honor. Miss Patricia Smith, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Edith Cowles, Miss Marcia Taber, and Miss Margaret Wallace of Rye, N. Y., Miss Jean Verity of Cincinnati, Ohio, Miss Kathryn Weston, Miss Jean Husted, and Miss Patricia Austin will serve as bridesmaids.

Benjamin MacKinnon will be best man for Mr. Smith, and Keehn Landis, brother of the bride, William Stebbins, William Spinney, Charles Soule, Walter Knoop, Webb Powell, John Weese, and Arthur Cruttenden will usher.

All four of Miss Landis' grandparents, Judge Kenesaw M. Landis and Mrs. Landis, and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Keehn, will attend the ceremony. Among the out of town guests are Miss Elizabeth, Miss Katherine, Charles, and Lincoln Landis of Logansport, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Grant Keehn of New York, and Col. and Mrs. Paul Hendrickson and Miss Flora Ann and Miss Josephine Hendrickson of Washington, D. C.

When Miss Adriance Caroline Letts becomes the bride of David Draper Dayton this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Delano C. Letts of Hubbard Woods, she will be wearing an heirloom Chantilly lace veil lent to her by Mrs. Burt J. Denman of Wilmette, mother of the bridegroom. The ceremony, at which the Rev. Samuel D. Harkness will officiate, will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. After their return from a wedding trip to Phoenix, Ariz., Mr. Dayton and his bride will reside in New York while he finishes his studies at Princeton.

Mrs. Franklin Kennedy Jr. of Bronxville, N. Y., will be matron of honor for Miss Letts. Miss Ann Wood of Richmond, Va., Miss Adelaide B. Smith of Pittsburgh, Pa., Miss Dorothy Warner, and Miss Emelie Jones of Washington, D. C., cousin of the bride, will be the bridesmaids.

Leonard Dayton will be best man for his brother and two other brothers, George D. Dayton II. of Minneapolis, and Ward W. Dayton of La Crosse, Wis., Walter Despit Jr., and Bruce Dayton of Minneapolis, cousin of the bridegroom, will usher.

Miss Jane Ann Haberkorn, daughter of Mrs. Joseph C. Haberkorn of River Forest, will become the bride of Arthur J. MacBride Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. MacBride of South Orange, N. J., at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Luke's Catholic church in River Forest. The Rev. Henry Rynard will officiate at the ceremony which will be followed by a reception at the Lake Shore club. After a wedding trip to the Pocono mountains, Mr. MacBride and his bride will live in Portland, Me.

Mrs. Lyman Smith will be matron of honor for Miss Haberkorn, and Miss Martha Scheuler, Mrs. David Majonnier, Mrs. Joseph C. Haberkorn Jr., Mrs. Leslie Cassidy of Maplewood, N. J., sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Marilyn Haberkorn, sister of the bride, will be bridesmaids.

The marriage of Miss Nancy Biossat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Biossat of Bennett avenue, to Edward Donald Warde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Warde of Kansas City, Mo., will take place tonight at the Bryn Mawr Community church, with the Rev. Theodore K. Vogler officiating. After a reception at the Biossat home Mr. Warde and his bride will leave on a motor trip to Texas. They will reside in Boulder, Col.

The marriage of Miss Barbara Fulton to William Claude Hanway Jr. of Chicago is taking place today in the Arlington Street church, Boston. After the 4 o'clock ceremony, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Oram Fulton of Boston, will give a reception in the Algonquin club. After a wedding trip to Havana, the couple will reside in Evanston. Mr. Hanway is the son of Mrs. W. Claude Hanway and the late Mr. Hanway of Detroit.

Mrs. Janette Jeffries, daughter of Mrs. Ruby Jeffries of Bellevue place, will become the bride of Warren E. Klug, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Klug of Northbrook, Ill., this afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. Chrysostom's church. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Knickerbocker hotel. Mr. Klug and his bride will reside in Milwaukee.

When Miss Elly Louise von Mueller becomes the bride of Peter Olaf Peterson Jr. of Carlisle, Ark., at 8:30 o'clock tonight at St. Chrysostom's church, she will be wearing an heirloom cloisonne locket more than 300 years old. Miss Von Mueller is the daughter of Mrs. Adolph Paul Heilman of Lake Shore drive and Baron Curt von Mueller of Los Angeles, Cal. After the ceremony at which the Rev. Dudley S. Stark will officiate, a reception will be held at the home of the bride's mother. After their return from a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. Peterson and his bride will live in Little Rock, Ark.

Miss Josephine Isabella Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Louis Sullivan of Ardsley-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., will become the bride of Lieut. John Joseph Kenney Jr., son of Mrs. Kenney of Santa Fe, N. M., at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the SS. Faith, Hope, and Charity church in Winnetka. The Rev. Thomas J. Burke will officiate at the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the Indian Hill club.

Tailored Models for Girls

TAILORED JUVENILE MODES.

One of the girlish dresses pictured today is a jumper with ruffled shoulders, which makes up well in woolen combined with silk or cotton, or crêpe may be used for the skirt. The other model is a two fabric contrast dress, with shirtwaist top, slim waistline and flared skirt. Sketched is a version using plaid-and-plain for effectiveness.

Style No. 3374 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for pinafore; 1¾ yards for blouse.

Style No. 2764 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires 1¼ yards of 39 inch material for blouse; 1¼ yards for skirt. Bolero also included in pattern.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

This, I believe, is the pumpkin pie which is described by a reader as "the most delicious pumpkin pie we ever ate." It appeared in this column in October of last year, and is reprinted by request.

Honey Pumpkin Pie.

[Mild spice; rich flavor.]
2 cups pumpkin
2 cups cream
3 beaten eggs
¾ cup honey
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
¾ teaspoon salt
Pastry lined, deep pie plate

Combine ingredients, stir thoroly, and pour into pastry. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake 35-40 minutes longer, until firm.

"Will you please reprint that Johnny Cake recipe. I've lost mine," writes a Wisconsin reader. Since this reader gives no name I can't send a personal reply, as I should prefer to do. It is impossible to print more than a very few recipes which are thus requested, so I'd like to ask readers please to give names and addresses so that their letters may be answered by mail. But here is the Johnny Cake, northern version.

Johnny Cake.

1¼ cups sifted white flour
¾ cup cornmeal
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter

Mix dry ingredients, add combination of egg, milk and butter, and stir until well mixed. Pour into a greased shallow pan and bake in a 375 degree oven for about 20 minutes.

Bacon fat may be used instead of the butter, and a little finely chopped cooked bacon adds delicious flavor.

Another reader complains that cooking editors always write a great deal about Thanksgiving and Christmas menus, and then skip lightly over New Year's day. The reason for this is that New Year's dinner often is very much the same as the two previous feasts, except that roast goose is the traditional meat. Partly to remedy my own remissness on the subject of New Year food may I present this company dinner menu?

NEW YEAR'S DINNER
Chilled Peach Nectar
Roast Goose, Apple, Onion and Bread Crumb Stuffing
Buttered Brown Rice Giblet Gravy
Broccoli with Mock Hollandaise Sauce
Green Pepper Relish
Damson Plum Preserves
Butterhorn Rolls
Lettuce with Garlic French Dressing
Strawberry Parfaits, Holiday Cookies
Coffee Salted Nuts

A word about that salad. Tear the lettuce apart in fair sized pieces, and place it in a salad bowl lightly rubbed with garlic. Sprinkle olive oil over the lettuce until the leaves are lightly coated. Sprinkle vinegar in the same way. Add salt, pepper, and a pinch of sugar, and toss lightly until seasonings are blended. This is the perfect salad for a heavy meal!

Program for Patients.

Entertainers appearing in the Panther room floor show at the Hotel Sherman will give a performance at 3 p. m. today for the patients at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, Bryn Mawr avenue and Pulaski road.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

Since this is the social season and hairdresses are far less casual than at other times you might do as a smart young friend of ours did whose hair was much too limp to be arranged in any of the current fashions. She achieved a beautiful pompadour with the aid of a hair piece that matched her own locks exactly. She also invested in a hairpiece for the back, a darling little cascade of curls that looks completely natural. She tops this with a bow of velvet ribbon. The nice thing about modern hair pieces is in their blending of colors. We've seen the most difficult hair shades matched perfectly, even such problem conditions as graying hair or mousey blonde shades. And the current use of hair ornaments insures the security of these pieces. You can tuck in a clip that serves the double purpose of ornamenting as well as holding the piece fast.

There is a great deal of gray this year for evening clothes, especially the gray with a faint rosy cast. The most striking makeup we've seen for this was extremely dark lipstick, with the skin made up to look very fair but not white. Lots of eye makeup, too.

Want to make a hit with a little girl? Give her some of that bubble bath stuff. Every little girl we know is crazy about it, and mothers have told us that making small daughter tumble into the tub is no chore at all if she's allowed to glorify the water with fragrant bubbles. The preparations are quite inexpensive, too.

6:30 o'clock this afternoon which Mr. and Mrs. John Eliot Warner and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler are giving for their debutante daughter and niece. She will wear a quaint old-fashioned gown of sapphire blue taffeta with a tiny black-lace-bound apron effect on its skirt. A sapphire blue calot with a tiny red rose perching in its center will top her curls and she'll carry an old-fashioned bouquet.

Tomorrow Miss Shirley O'Brien will entertain for Miss Warner and Miss Isabelle Johnson at a sports luncheon at the Glenview club.

Miss Angeline Johnson, daughter of the C. Wallace Johnsons, and Miss Elsie Petersen, daughter of the Hugh Petersens, will be the especial guests at a breakfast which Mrs. Donald Mercer is giving today in her home in Winnetka.

Two debutantes, Miss Merikay Howard and Miss Isabelle Johnson, will be special guests at a breakfast party which Miss Bennette Freeman is giving this noon at the home of her parents, the Thomas Freemans of Winnetka.

The Percy Wilsons Having Annual at Home Today.

In response to red-printed white cards, friends of the Percy Wilsons will be flocking to the Wilson apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive from 3 to 6 o'clock this afternoon for the Wilsons' annual at home. Patricia, Ted, and Bob are joining with their parents in the entertaining and some of their friends, too, will drop in during the afternoon.

Governor-Elect and Mrs. Dwight Green will be the especial guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leigh at a supper-dance in the Ballnese room of the Blackstone hotel tonight. The Leighs have taken over the room for the evening after 10 o'clock. The Greens depart on Jan. 13 for their new home in Springfield.

Tomorrow at 1 o'clock at the Tavern club Miss Cherry Sue Orr, daughter of the Carey Orrs of Wilmette, will give a breakfast for Miss Helen Clayton, debutante daughter of the J. Paul Claytons of Winnetka.

Two Winnetka young people will share the honors at Mrs. Robert Laird's cocktail party from 5 to 7 o'clock tomorrow. The hostess, who resides in Winnetka, is entertaining for Miss Marjorie Lindsay, daughter of the Martin Lindsays, and Miss Nancy Hoffman, daughter of Mrs. Richard Hoffman.

Durand Smith has invited his friends to drop in at his Lake Forest home for mulled wine or egg-nog tomorrow at 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Mabee Lauritzen Giving Party for Son.

Mrs. Mabee Lauritzen will have about three dozen guests tomorrow afternoon at the tea-dance at Camellia house, at a party for her son, Christian Marius Lauritzen II. The party is an annual reunion of young Mr. Lauritzen's class at Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence T. MacNeille of St. Charles, formerly of Glencoe, are giving a tea-dance tomorrow at the St. Charles Country club for their daughter, Elizabeth Louise. Miss MacNeille is at home from Pine Manor Junior college for the holidays.

Tomorrow night Miss Merikay Howard, debutante daughter of the Eugene Howards, and her friends will be the guests of the junior Richard Coopers at the ice carnival. The Coopers will take their young guests on to a buffet supper at their home after the show.

New Gob Hat Will Brighten Winter Garb

BY REA SEEGER.

It's the season of smart small finds to snap up an otherwise dull winter costume. New bright colors, tricky novelties in fur, feathers and fabric, clever new blouse belts and the inevitable array of separate skirts and jackets are now displayed in all the new fashion glory right now when the coats and clothes of a wardrobe need rejuvenation.

If you have lost your heart to the clothes that flash patriotic insignia, you will like the new toppers that go with such dresses and jackets. There are two styles, one a small gob hat, the other with a wide band to accent the tam top.

Some felts of dull texture make these particularly effective for the trim tailored lines of the navy blue and black outfits with which they are to be worn. Embroidered eagles with wide-spread wings, anchors, and crests decorate these hats in gold or in red, white and blue thread. The gob hats have double streamers briefly cut of grosgrain ribbon at the back. The tam caps have the ribbon round the bands.

Dresses of thin navy blue wool have the patriotic embroidery on the sleeve. Some have the eagles embroidered on the pocket or directly in the center of the chest. The jackets likewise use the sleeve or pocket flap as decoration anchorage.

Patriotic belts are stunning. Some are of dull textured braid, some of tricolor mixups, and some in khaki color and some of leather. The clasps and buckles are strikingly handsome copies of the swanky kinds that clasp the army and navy uniform belts. Pins, clips, compacts, braid trimmed bags, and the regulation brass and gold buttons complete the lists.

With these small trifles any dated dress or costume takes on a new fashion lease. An old suit revives into something exciting smart and different with any of the many available embroidered pieces to be found in the trimming departments. . . . all ready to sew into position.

Knitted "Chubby" Sweater

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

The delightfully new rope wool, which has captured the fancy of knitters, is the type of yarn which is knitted with large wooden needles. This chubby, hand knitted sweater may be created in two days, and is the essence of simplicity with the utmost style. It may be made sleeveless or with short sleeves, depending upon the individual and the occasion. It is available in 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inch bust measurements.

For instructions in knitting the short-sleeved chubby sweater, No. X-370, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

It has often been remarked that it is easier to play against an expert than a dub. Of course, this is one of those blanket statements that really applies to a tiny percentage of deals, but never mind that. At any rate, it applies to such a situation as described below.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Double	Pass	3 diamonds
3 hearts	3 diamonds	Pass	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's single-handed bidding was vigorous, but not unduly so in a match-point game under the particular vulnerability conditions. Remarkably enough, East-West could easily have made five diamonds [West, not being able to enter his own hand, would have to lay down the diamond ace and drop South's blank king] but they could scarcely be censured for failing to reach that contract.

Against the actual three heart contract, West made a "waiting" lead, a trump. Declarer drew three rounds of trumps, then laid down the spade king. West won, and after considerable thought, cashed the diamond ace. When declarer's king fell, West continued with the diamond queen. Declarer ruffed and led a low spade toward dummy, undoubtedly praying that the jack would appear from West. Only the deuce was forthcoming, however, and now it was declarer's turn to do some huddling. Finally, he finessed dummy's ten spot. East swooped down with the jack and sent back the club jack. Declarer lost three club tricks before he could catch his breath, and the contract was down two.

Immediately, declarer delivered a long oration to his partner in an attempt to explain the spade finesse that had cost four tricks. West [he pointed out] had doubled one heart for a take-out. A good player [he went on, with a nasty look in West's direction] does not double one major suit unless he holds good support for the other major, hence "West should have held A-J-x of spades, not a measly doubleton." Declarer's obvious feeling was that he had been the innocent victim of outrageous bidding on West's part.

The fact was that declarer's fixation about West's take-out double [which, incidentally, had been West's only conceivable course] had blinded him to a far more important consideration. After the heart queen was played, dummy was entryless except in spades. Declarer, by removing said queen before attacking spades had virtually admitted that he held three spades. Thus, if West also had held three spades, elementary reasoning would have made him hold up the ace until the third round. The fact that he had accepted the first spade trick was the strongest possible evidence that the missing spades had been divided 2-2. Hence, declarer's finesse against the jack had been a terrible mistake, justly punished.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The perpetual feud which wages waggishly between those two friendly enemies, Jack Benny and Fred Allen, finds a new outlet in "Love Thy Neighbor."

I can say, without much exaggeration, that the piece is laying them in the aisles at the Chicago. For as people—and there are SO many people who do it!—climb over you, they trip over your feet and—well. . . . ? But nobody minds because everybody is just having SO much fun.

Mary Martin gets her finger in the pie as Fred Allen's niece, bent and determined on making peace between her uncle and Mr. Benny with whom she has fallen in love. . . . Verree Teasdale plays Mrs. Allen. Rochester is here and there—for after Benny has stolen the "Merry Macs" from Allen, Allen retaliates by hiring Rochester from Benny. . . .

Believing that Benny has saved his life—a feat Benny, having been unconscious at a psychological moment—can neither affirm nor deny, Allen for a brief time insists on hatchet burying rituals, with Jack—who, you will remember, has a yen for sweet Mary Allen—being in complete accord . . . The discovery of Rochester in the Allen apartment puts an end to amity and hate flourishes anew—with many a flourish. . . .

The picture is a scream as any audience will admit. The feudists were never in better form. Mary Martin is charming and when she sings about her heart belonging to daddy, everybody is very, very happy about it. Rochester and his high brown charmer get many a laugh and all fall for Mr. Menjou's handsome, exquisitely turned out, comedienne wife, Verree Teasdale, like a ton of brick. Also pleasingly present are the "Macs" and the Merriel Abbott dancers.

"Love Thy Neighbor" is, really, a honey of a blues chaser!

See you tomorrow.

Ballet Russe Offers Chicago 2 New Dances

BY CECIL SMITH.

Until the Offenbach-Massine "Gaite Parisienne" came along at the close of the program, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo made a Tschaikowsky-Balanchine evening of last night's performance in the Auditorium theater. "Serenade" and "Le Baiser de la Fée," both new to Chicago, were both choreographed by George Balanchine. Tschaikowsky's Serenade for String Orchestra provides the music for "Serenade"; in composing the score for "Le Baiser de la Fée" Igor Stravinsky intended to pay explicit tribute to Tschaikowsky, and quoted passages from the earlier composer's works.

There is no story to "Serenade." In three movements, it is something of a modernized "Les Sylphides," with a franker element of romantic love, costumes of classical influence in place of billowy tulle, and steps and patterns characterized by a typically crisp, accentuated, slightly geometric Balanchine style.

Within the individual movements, and in the work as a whole, the form of the dancing achieves an exceptionally satisfying symmetry. The relation of the dance figures to the music is marked both by a sensitive feeling for musical phraseology and by an interesting refusal to let the choreography be too greatly enslaved by the regular measurement of Tschaikowsky's music.

Mia Slavenska danced the principal feminine rôle with wonderful exactness and ease, especially in her miraculous recoveries from turns and leaps. She seems to have developed a new depth of sentiment and poetic fantasy in her movement and in her facial expressions. Her two successive partners were Frederic Franklin, who danced well if not at all interestingly, and Igor Youskevitch, whose lithe and exciting style quite dominated the stage.

"Le Basier de la Fée," tho more pictorial, is a much weaker work. With an attenuated fairy tale libretto, one of Stravinsky's most futile scores, and a sprawling choreographic design, the ballet does not develop any particular interest until it is more than half over. In the third of the four scenes Alexandra Danilova, Miss Slavenska, Nathalie Krassovska, and Andre Eglevsky all have briefly gratifying opportunities for brilliant solo and ensemble dancing. The ballet then degenerates into a final tableau seen thru a gauze curtain.

Despite the weakness of the vehicle, it would be unfair not to mention Miss Danilova's exquisite fragility, Mr. Eglevsky's newly perfected virtuosity, Miss Slavenska's lovely smoothness, and Miss Krassovska's twinkling brightness.

Efrem Kurtz conducted efficiently.

Universal Day—Don't be in a hurry to start something new before cleaning up the detail of the last week.

January—If a nine-year is rolling around for you, the coming month will make you feel like starting out on something new. You may feel restless and dissatisfied, but you can't do much about it, because this isn't going to be the year to go out on new ventures. You won't get very far, so keep close to your own little pasture for the time being. The urge to assert yourself as an individual will be strong. It will make you want to break away from the accepted pattern of your life. You may do that later in the year with a vengeance but don't let this month be too disruptive. The original ideas you might have will have a chance if you hold them in mind for a while.

SCIENTIST CALLS THE HUMAN BODY LESSON IN UNITY

Regulates Itself Better than Society, He Says.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 27.—War and democracy came under the microscope of science today as the American Association for the Advancement of Science began its 106th meeting in the city of its birth. The association was organized in this cradle of the American republic on Sept. 20, 1848, with 481 members and now has a membership of 21,000. There is an estimated attendance of 6,000.

Dr. W. B. Cannon. [Acme Photo.]

While the majority of the 2,000 papers which will be read during the six days sessions will be technical in nature, much of the program has been turned to constructive applications of science, such as the applications of chemistry to agriculture and physiology, and symposia on malaria, alcoholism, and democracy as science regards it.

Cannon Discusses Democracy.

Dr. Walter B. Cannon, retiring president of the association and professor of physiology in the Harvard medical school, discussed democracy, or our body politic, in relation to the body physiologic, seeking to find from the wisdom of the human body, which has evolved thru eons of time, some lesson for these troubled times.

Our bodies disclose a type of organization, he said, in which both stability and liberty have been achieved. Thus a social order assuring both security and freedom is the desirable goal.

Our bodies, he explained, by the evolution of a self-regulated internal economy, have become to a high degree liberated from deranging external influences. Can this sort of liberty be achieved in human society, he asked. He told how nature holds our bodies in a fit state for action, and makes them ready for special efforts in critical situations.

Prepared for Trouble.

Industry and commerce, Dr. Cannon continued, constitute the internal environment of society, and a primary condition for freedom from the operation of disturbing forces, both within and without, is a maintained constancy of the internal environment. In the body politic a disturbance such as a depression or a bank failure often starts other troubles. The organization of the physiologic body suggests that such shifts should be noticed and controled at the start.

The human body is always prepared for trouble, Dr. Cannon explained. Its oxygen goes to the right places at the right time. He drew this analogy:

"In a world where predatory nations, powerfully armed, are ready to attack, the ideal of security is not often adequately respected. Internal forces are not trained for action [as in the body]. Protective instruments of warfare are lacking.

"At a time of crisis industry is obliged to begin to construct buildings and design tools and machines to manufacture the instruments which the crisis demands. Compare this unpreparedness with the preparedness of our bodies which thru many generations of little use still retain the elaborate reactions of defense."

As bodily regulation has left the brain free to adventure, research and explore, so social regulation should leave the body politic free for higher achievement, Dr. Cannon said. He pointed out that the body physiologic is a collection of interdependent organs, and so he would have no social dictatorship.

Chicago Professor Speaks.

Speaking on scientist's conception of a democratic society, Dr. Anton J. Carlson, University of Chicago physiologist, said in part:

"Internationally, the democratic way of life would seem to embody the principle of Lincoln, 'malice toward none, charity for all.' At least, we should not dictate, directly or under cover, the form of government for other nations. This is worse than undemocratic. It is futile in the long run. The peoples of the earth must themselves arrive at a democratic way of life, by example, and by their own trial and error.

"What good did our marines do in Nicaragua, our tars before Vera Cruz, our dough boys in Mexico? The William Allen White committee, working for American aid to the British empire, in its latest declaration of principles, says: 'The future of the world is safe if the combined fleets of Great Britain and the United States dominate the seas.'

Democracy Not Dominance.

"If that dictum represents the matured judgment of the majority of our citizens I fear that the fanatical 'fuehrer' has already conquered us, that we have already lost the heritage gained by the courage and blood of the founders of this nation, that the shrine of independence and democracy a few blocks distant might more as well be draped in black. For to me, democracy in its international relation does not mean dominance either by force or guile. It means honest and fair coöperation.

"When Adolf Hitler, on the plea of self-defense attacks peaceful, industrious, and democratic neighbors, his plea has a familiar hollow sound.

Fight for Democracy.

"At the same time when Great Britain professes to fight for pure democracy, at home and abroad, I cannot help remembering that British big business has also fought for democracy in far off India and Africa for quite a spell.

"An almost unsurmountable obstacle in the path of the democratic way of life is the principle and practice of war as a national policy, persisting or recurring in some nations. For in our times, and more so in the future, war, and the preparation for war must of necessity regiment not only the soldier and the sailor, but practically every citizen. War is a confession of the failure or of the failure to apply the democratic way of life. War and violence is the very antithesis of democracy."

TEACHER GROUP WILL ASK STATE FOR MORE CASH

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 27 (AP).—The Illinois Education association voted today to ask the 62d general assembly for an increase of $4,000,000 a year in the state distributive fund, expansion of the pupil transportation system, and provision for larger teachers' retirement funds.

Delegates also voted to seek legislation setting higher qualifications for Illinois teachers, consolidating small school districts, providing a $100 minimum monthly wage for teachers, and for a "fiscally independent and responsible normal school board" whose members would hold no other elective or appointive office.

Orville T. Bright, superintendent of schools at Flossmoor, was elected president of the association, succeeding B. F. Shafer of Freeport. Vice presidents elected were Russell Malam of Harrisburg, C. E. Miller of Westmont, and Ray Graham of Springfield. Edward M. Stulliken of Chicago was named finance committee chairman and executive board member and Monroe Melton of Normal was elected a member of the state teachers' examining board.

FIREMEN EQUIP 10 NEW CARS FOR SPECIAL SERVICE

Ten new fire department squad cars to be used largely in inhalator rescue work and other special services, were inspected yesterday by Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan and his chief deputy, Anthony Mullaney, in the department's shops at 31st street and Sacramento avenue.

The new cars are being equipped by workmen under Shop Superintendent James Gleason to meet special needs and the first will be ready for service in a few days. Each car costs $4,530 completed.

The new types are streamlined. Their elaborate equipment includes a fixed turret hose gun and two side connections for pipe lines, so that they can be pressed into service as water throwers if necessary. They are considerably roomier than the old cars, with 13 more cubic feet of space inside. Moreover, the squad can ride inside.

CITY'S ILLEGAL FENCE HELD TO BE TEMPORARY

The barbed wire fence around the city's water filtration plant at 79th street and the lake was put up to keep the public away during construction of the plant, and will be removed when the job is completed.

This explanation was made yesterday by Loran D. Gayton, city engineer. The use of a barbed wire fence at the city project was brought out several days ago after police halted work on a similar fence at the plant of the Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation, 5301 South Western avenue, which is engaged in national defense work.

Robert Knight, deputy building commissioner, said the Foote company did not have a permit for a barbed wire fence. Such fences are prohibited by ordinance, altho an exception was made in the case of the filtration plant.

DE PAUL ROUTS BUTLER; LOYOLA BEATS YALE

DALLAS GREETS FORDHAM WITH A FAKE HOLDUP

Rams Check In for Duel with Aggies.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 27 (AP).—Shootin' irons blazed, sirens wailed, a snowstorm of cotton drifted from skyscraper windows, thousands yelled a Texas welcome—and Fordham university's football team came to town today.

James Crowley.

Synthetic cowboys, most of them wearing their first boots and 10 gallon hats, whooped it up as the New York team which plays the Texas Aggies in the Cotton bowl on New Year's day rumbled thru the streets on a huge hook and ladder fire truck.

Fourteen miles from Dallas, at picturesque old Mesquite, a band of city slickin' junior chamber of commerce lads masked in red bandanas "held up" the Fordham train in a volley of pistol shots, scared exactly no one, and then presented the Fordham players with boots and cowboy hats.

Crowley Opposed to Boots.

Jim Crowley, coach of Fordham, had a mild attack of apoplexy when he discovered his warriors limping around in the cowboy boots, and ordered the footwear back into trunks until after the game. He feared the Texas hospitality would develop blisters on his lads' feet.

Cold, dreary weather prevailed, but Crowley said it was almost to their liking if the rain of the last two days would depart.

Immediately Crowley started worrying about the Aggies, exclaiming:

"We all saw John Kimbrough in New York a few days ago—and we went to work a lot harder after he paid us a visit. He's a giant!"

Aggies Have Cold Weather.

The Aggies reported from College Station, where near freezing weather had driven away rain, that Marion Pugh, the boy who missed the Texas game, was brilliant in a morning scrimmage, but bemoaned the fact that bad weather had kept them inside.

The Rams raced thru a stiff practice session this afternoon on the Dallas High school field. Judge Carberry, assistant coach, was standing back of a blocking dummy, holding it in place. John Kuzman, Fordham tackle, hit the dummy and the bar on the contraption flew back, cutting off the end of Carberry's finger. It also pinned Kuzman by the neck, but he suffered only a slight scratch.

BOSTON AERIALS CLICK.

Bay St. Louis, Miss., Dec. 27 (AP).—The Boston college squad today was put thru its hardest scrimmage in preparation for the Sugar bowl game with Tennessee in New Orleans on New Year's day. With Charlie O'Rourke doing most of the passing and running the first team scored six touchdowns against the third. A half hour was spent on offense and 15 minutes on defense. Gene Goodreault, an end, got into scrimmage for the first time in six weeks and Boston stock rose as his workout showed his injured knee was improving. John Yauckoes, a tackle, who has been having an abscessed tooth treated, will have the molar extracted tomorrow.

ARIZONA STATE DRILLS.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 27 (AP).—Arizona State's football squad lost little time today in getting down to business for its meeting with Western Reserve university in the Sun bowl on New Year's day. Coach Dixie Howell rushed the squad of 32 thru welcoming festivities this morning, and this afternoon the Bulldogs went into a workout on the bowl field. In addition to the regular squad, Howell brought along a detail of 10 freshmen and ineligibles to scrimmage the varsity elevens.

DRILL IN RAIN.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP).—Georgetown and Mississippi State, which meet in the Orange bowl game here on New Year's day, worked out this afternoon on rain-soaked practice fields.

KEOGAN URGED TO CUT ACTIVITY IN CLINIC REPORT

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 27 [Special].—George E. Keogan, Notre Dame basketball coach for 17 years, may continue coaching, but he must restrict his activity, according to a report received here tonight from the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn. Keogan spent yesterday and today in the clinic undergoing an examination which confirmed earlier findings by the Notre Dame university service of a coronary disturbance.

Meanwhile Elmer F. Layden, athletic director and head football coach, returned to basketball coaching after a 15 year lapse by taking charge of drill as the squad assembled today to open preparations for Tuesday's game at Northwestern.

GRAY FAVORITE OVER BLUE IN BATTLE TODAY

Expect 17,000 at Game in Montgomery, Ala.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 27 (AP).—Dixie's All-Stars were installed today as favorites to defeat the North in the third Blue and Gray football game here tomorrow.

A capacity crowd of 17,000 was anticipated for the game that has arrayed for action some of the nation's outstanding football players. The footing in Cramton bowl will be uncertain because of recent heavy rains.

North Coaches Confident.

While the South was made the favorite—up to a touchdown—in downtown circles, co-Coaches Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern and Carl Snavely of Cornell, directors of the North squad, told a luncheon club. "We have a fine bunch of boys; the material to win with; and we think they'll do it." Just as confident were co-Coaches Jess Neely of Rice and Ray Wolf of North Carolina, concerning their Rebel outfit.

The North appeared better equipped from a standpoint of power, principally because of Colgate's Joe Hoague and Cornell's Mort Landsberg.

South's Passing Stands Out.

On the other hand, the Yankees did not appear as well equipped aerially or to be as fast as the southerners, who'll be counting on Jim Lalanne of North Carolina and Owen Goodnight, Hardin-Simmons, for their pass flinging, and on Art Jones of Richmond and Tony Gallovich of Wake Forest for speed. A combination of speed and trickery brought Dixie a 33 to 20 triumph last year.. Probable lineups:

SCHAEFER SPLITS BENEFIT MATCH WITH CHAMACO

Jake Schaefer and Joe Chamaco, who will compete in the world's three cushion billiards tournament starting Jan. 13, broke even in two blocks of a match played for the benefit of Johnny Layton in Bensinger's 131 South Wabash arena yesterday. Playing before overflow crowds, Schaefer won the night block, 50 to 42, and Chamaco won the afternoon half, 50 to 35. Receipts totaling $150 were turned over to Layton, who was seriously injured two weeks ago in an accident.

The field of 18 for the championship meet was completed yesterday with the entry of Herb Peterson of St. Louis.

COACHES GATHER TO STUDY BEARS' STYLE OF ATTACK

Stanford, Nebraska Also to See Pro Game.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 27.—An army of high school and college coaches began descending on Hollywood today, clamoring for tickets to the pro bowl game in Gilmore stadium Sunday between the world champion Chicago Bears and an All-Star team selected from the nine other clubs in the National Football league.

Out of the arroyos and down over the mountains a steady stream of automobiles brought in by pairs and carloads gentlemen of the coaching profession eager to study the spectacular man in motion offense, as practiced by its originators, the Bears. And they are even more eager to see what manner of defense the pros use against the style of attack with which Clark Shaughnessy and Stanford stunned Pacific coast football rivals last fall.

Stanford Will Be There, Too.

These coaches will not be the only spectators with more than a passive interest in the proceedings. On one side of the field, Stanford's Rose bowl representatives, surrounded by their coaching staff, will watch the Bears for whatever little items of finesse they have missed in their brief experience with the man in motion.

Over on the other side, Stanford's Rose bowl opponent, Nebraska, will get its first look at an attack that produced a championship for three of the four teams — the Bears, Stanford, and Lake Forest college—which used it last fall. Newark the fourth T formation practitioner, finished second in the American association.

Lineup Is a Question Mark.

Coach Ray Flaherty of the Washington Redskins, who has charge of the all-stars, continues to juggle his lineup and will not guess who will start in this third annual charity game. His favorite lineup the last two days, however, has had Jim Poole of New York, and Carl Mulleneaux of Green Bay at the ends; Bruiser Kinard of Brooklyn, and Jim Barber of Washington, at tackles; Doug Oldershaw of New York and Dick Bassi of Philadelphia, at guards, and the inevitable Mel Hein of New York at center.

Mulleneaux joined the squad yesterday to replace Perry Schwartz of Brooklyn. Schwartz is recovering from a throat infection in St. Vincent's hospital. Both Schwartz and Coach George Halas of the Bears were reported vastly improved today. Halas had an emergency appendectomy last Sunday.

It's Quite a Back Field.

In his starting back field, Flaherty favors Pug Manders of Brooklyn at quarter back; Sammy Baugh of Washington, and Merle Condit of Pittsburgh, at the half backs, and John Drake, the all-league line smasher from Cleveland, at full back.

The Stanford squad, blessed with perfect weather, got down to serious drills today after a brief vacation. Milt Vucinich, the No. 2 full back, continued to hobble about with a stiff knee.

Rose bowl teams and patrons received good news today. The weather man promised clear skies New Year's day.

TWO DRILLS FOR HUSKERS.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 27 (AP).—Nebraska's Cornhuskers, Rose bowl opponents of Stanford, were sent thru a double workout today. In the morning the Huskers held light practice in sweat clothes, but in the afternoon went thru scrimmages on both offensive and defensive plays.

Influenza hit the squad again when Half Back Herman Rohrig was stricken tonight and was ordered to bed with a slight temperature. Rohrig took part in both workouts today. Half Back Harry Hopp was stricken with influenza early this week, but has recovered.

White Sox Sign Three K-Men, Kennedy, Kolloway, and Kuhel

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

White Sox contract affairs took another step toward finishing business yesterday. Vice President Harry Grabiner, anxious to get started on his annual California vacation but fearful that some balky athlete may disturb the present progress, discovered three signed documents in the day's mail. They were sent in by Third Baseman Bob Kennedy; Don Kolloway, the prospective second baseman for 1941, and Joe Kuhel, the first base attendant.

Luke Appling did the unusual in signing early this fall, so Manager James Dykes now has his entire infield eligible for transportation to the Pasadena, Cal., training camp in February. Two of the regular fly chasers, Mike Kreevich and Taft Wright, also are enrolled on the list of contented employés. The third outfielder, Julius Solters, and Larry Rosenthal, the extra patrolman, have filed neither complaints nor their signed papers.

Kolloway's on His Own.

Altho Dykes already has named Kolloway as his regular at second base, the Sox manager admits it will be in the nature of an experiment. He doesn't intend to give up quickly on it, partly, because the rookie is in the unusual class and partly because there is a scarcity of men for the post.

Kolloway was with the Sox last spring and Dykes' first intention was to keep him around all season. On second thought he decided the lad would learn more about second base play if regularly engaged, so he was shipped off to Oklahoma City, where he had the benefit of instruction from a fielding past master in the person of Rogers Hornsby. The latter thinks Kolloway can make the grade.

At Oklahoma City Kolloway batted .281 in 127 games and drove in 87 runs. In this latter respect he was excelled by only two other men in the Texas league.

Fourteen Are Lined Up.

Fourteen out of the 34 on the Sox roster now are set on their wages for next season. This doesn't include Dykes, who remains on the active list but hopes it will not be necessary for him to arise from his rocking chair at any time during the season. Included in the 14, however, is Pitcher Orville Jorgens, who as a free agent was signed at the end of last season and overlooked in the subsequent contract rush. Jorgens, formerly with the Phillies, retired because of an arm ailment which Dr. Ad Schacht, the Sox trainer, thinks has been corrected.

Another announcement from Eddie Munzel, the Sox public relations expert, yesterday had to do with a training trip date. The afternoon of March 14 was open when the original chart of 30 exhibitions was announced. The vacancy has been erased by booking a game that day in San Fernando, Cal., with the Seattle team, which will train there.

Engaged

Dorothy Comiskey.

John Rigney.

A two year romance culminated yesterday in announcement of the engagement of Dorothy Comiskey of the White Sox Comiskeys to John Rigney, member of the team's pitching corps and a resident of River Forest. The marriage, according to present plans, will take place next fall.

Yale Snaps Minnesota's Hockey String at 20, 5-2

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 27 (AP).—Yale broke the University of Minnesota's string of 20 straight hockey victories tonight, winning 5 to 2. Minnesota led in the third period, but then Eggleton, Capt. Paul Pierson, and Jig Carton counted for the easterners.

ALABAMA'S WAY ISN'T BIG NINE'S, SAYS GRIFFITH

The statement, "What's happening at my alma mater is only typical of all sections of the country," made by Walter B. Hule, in a magazine article explaining the football recruiting setup at the University of Alabama last night brought a reply from Maj. John L. Griffith, Western conference commissioner.

"In the Southeastern conference it's legitimate to give scholarships consisting of board, room, tuition, and railroad fare," Maj. Griffith explained. "That's their business—and they're perfectly honorable people. We operate on a different basis, have a system that's worked out for the last 19 years, and think it's a good one."

The Big Nine, he pointed out, has some 300 coaches, athletic directors, trainers and others on the alert for their opponents' observance of conference rules of recruiting and subsidizing.

"If they can't detect violations, it's hard to understand how a fellow down south is going to know about them," Maj. Griffith said.

He explained that each school reports to his office on the number of scholarships, loans and campus jobs given to athletes and that the report of each school is signed by its president. Last year's reports, he added, showed 5 to 6 per cent of the male students in the conference schools were athletes and received a little more than 5 per cent of the aid granted.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Loyola and De Paul universities, Chicago's double header basketball twins, last night joined in a holiday celebration by winning their mutual battles with Yale and Butler, two teams which had come onto the Coliseum floor with the nicknames of Bulldogs and snappy records.

Both sets of Bulldogs were sent away losers, the Yale variety by Loyola, 34 to 31, and the Butler style by De Paul, 53 to 32. It was Loyola's fifth victory in seven games this season, their first in history on the Coliseum floor, and De Paul's seventh straight in as many appearances.

Rottner Leads Loyola.

Mickey Rottner, Loyola's red haired Jewish forward, came thru with his customary quota of 10 points or better—hitting on four baskets and two free throws, but the strategic contribution of the evening was contained in the four baskets made by Danny Cahill, not to mention the pair made by Ed Lee. Bert Ingley led Yale with five baskets, Chuck Seelbach coming thru with nine points.

The De Paul kids strengthened their right to a ranking as one of the great teams of the country by their conquest of Butler. Mr. Elmer Gainer should cause no harm to the Demons this season, pitching in seven baskets and four free throws. And Sophomore Carter O'Rourke should be useful also, as long as he continues to collect nine points and turn in ball handling demonstration such as he gave last night.

Loyola Overcomes Lead.

Yale and Loyola started out as the bent on a low scoring tie, for only three points were registered in the first six minutes. The Ramblers drove into a 14 to 8 advantage in the closing minutes of the first half, but Anderson's followup shot on Zilly's free throw failure and Seelbach's charity toss and field goal brought the Elis within one point at the intermission, 13 to 14.

The second half of the battle between the Ramblers and the Elis was in strict contrast, for the Chicagoans came from behind to match a drive by the easterners. Three baskets by Bert Ingley more than offset Wenskus' long shot, giving the visitors a 19 to 16 lead. Double's close-up shot reduced this, but Anderson and Seelbach came thru with the field goals that made it look as tho Yale were going to run away with the game.

Cahill Ties Score.

Here it was that Rottner drove in for a push shot, then added a free throw that left the Ramblers trailing by only two shots. Seelbach missed a pair of free throws on Wenskus' penalty, and then Cahill dribbled down the side to push in the field goal that tied the score. Wenskus' free throw on Zilly's fourth personal and Ed Lee's one handed side basket gave Loyola a lead to which it held during the Bull Dog's valiant finishing drive.

The Demons' accomplishment of their No. 7 victory was consummated with no particular difficulty after they began to feed the ball to Gainer, who ran up four field goals and as many free throws in the first half. De Paul came out of the first half with a 23 to 15 margin. Lineups:

THERE'S A SHOCK FOR WARY CROW IN SUPER-SHELL

Copperized Shot Cover Target at 80 Yards.

BY BOB BECKER.

For years experienced crow hunters have realized that they need a shotgun and long range shells that could produce good patterns at 60, 70, and even 75 yards because the crow is a wary bird that stays just beyond the effective range of the average shotgun shell.

In recent years American manufacturers have developed new guns and new shells of such effectiveness that now it's possible for the shooter to kill crows at 60 to 80 yards with a gun like the Winchester 12 gauge Magnum, which takes an extra heavy shell loaded with copperized shot.

Pad Absorbs Wallop.

We have just concluded a series of tests with one of these Magnum guns and of shells loaded with copperized No. 4 shot. Shells are 3 inches long, contain 1⅝ ounces of No. 4 shot and the equivalent of 4½ drams of powder.

This truly is a heavy load and we were very curious about the kick from such a shell. We found it not nearly as heavy as expected, owing to the rubber pad.

To determine the patterns made by the Magnum, large white cards with 30 inch circles were used as targets. The outline of a crow [lifesize] was sketched on each circle.

First we fired average 12 gauge shells loaded with 3¼ drams of powder and 1⅛ ounces or 153 pellets of shot [No. 4]. This is the general type of load for upland game hunting and duck shooting over decoys.

After patterning these average or medium loads new targets were set up for the Magnum shells. The patterns obtained were made under adverse conditions with snow falling and a strong, gusty wind.

The average shotgun shell at 60 yards placed only 31 shot pellets in a 30 inch circle to make what a hunter would call a very thin, ineffective pattern.

80 Pellets in Circle.

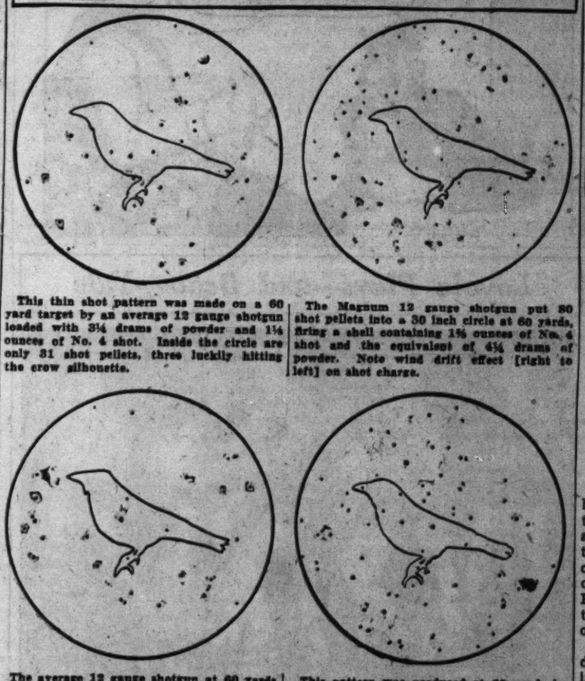
Altho the very best one obtained luckily showed several shot in the crow silhouette, the spacing is such that a crow could have slipped thru the pattern. But the big Super X Magnum shell delivered 80 shot pellets in the 30 inch circle. This is considerably below the average.

At a distance of 65 yards the pattern [27 pellets] of the average or medium 12 gauge shell is even thinner than at 60 and is unreliable because it has so many holes in it. But for the Magnum with a shell containing 215 No. 4 shot, coverage of a 65 yard target is easy. Even the poorest pattern made at 65 yards showed 69 pellets in the 30 inch circle.

A later article will explain the results of pattern tests made up to 80 yards.

THE GUMPS—A BELATED CHRISTMAS DINNER?

Progress in Long Range Warfare



This thin shot pattern was made on a 60 yard target by an average 12 gauge shotgun loaded with 3¼ drams of powder and 1⅛ ounces of No. 4 shot. Inside the circle are only 31 shot pellets, three luckily hitting the crow silhouette.

The Magnum 12 gauge shotgun put 80 shot pellets into a 30 inch circle at 60 yards, firing a shell containing 1⅝ ounces of No. 4 shot and the equivalent of 4½ drams of powder. Note wind drift effect [right to left] on shot charge.

The average 12 gauge shotgun at 60 yards produces another thin, uneven pattern, marked by many open spaces. This pattern shows 27 shot pellets inside the 30 inch circle. Note spaces with no shot in them, indicating unreliability.

This pattern was produced at 65 yards by a Magnum gun loaded with heavy shell. There are 69 shot pellets in the 30 inch circle. The pattern is even, with seven pellets in the crow silhouette. One or two No. 4 shot will kill a crow.

Followers of Chicago's high school basketball teams, who have cheered their favorites thru the preliminary and first rounds in the annual all-city tournament in the University of Chicago fieldhouse, will get some idea of championship possibilities today. Eight second round games, involving the 16 survivors of the original field of 40 teams are scheduled.

Kelvyn Park looms as a tournament dark horse as a result of its smashing 27 to 12 victory over Amundsen, a north side rival, last night. Kelvyn Park's meeting with Kelly at 8 o'clock may provide the highlight of tonight's program. Kelly furnished the thriller of the first round last night by eking out a 31 to 30 last minute victory over Hyde Park.

There will be no competition tomorrow. Quarter-final games will be played on Monday, semi-finals on Tuesday evening, and the championship and consolation games Wednesday afternoon. Lineups:

LID BLOWN OFF MONOPOLY ISSUE IN MUSIC BATTLE

U. S. Talks Prosecution of Both Sides in War.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

New York, Dec. 27.—Announcement of government plans for an antitrust prosecution of the big radio broadcasting chains and the copyright pool of song writers today blew the lid off the whole question of monopolies in the nation's music.

Government action on criminal charges arising from the last ditch struggle between the radio industry and Tin Pan alley over fees to be paid for use of copyrighted music will start in Milwaukee after the first of the year, according to orders laid down in Washington yesterday by Attorney General Robert H. Jackson.

Involved are the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, the National Broadcasting company, the Columbia Broadcasting system, and Broadcast Music, Inc. Radio broadcasters, notably the two powerful chains, formed BMI to compete with ASCAP in the scramble for control of copyrighted music.

Various Charges Listed.

Altho the government's complaint has not been drawn, Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, chief of the antitrust division, revealed it would be based on charges of illegal pooling of music, discrimination against composers who are not members of the ASCAP or BMI, price fixing, required payment for tunes under blanket licensing despite the fact they are not used on many programs, and similar monopolistic practices.

ASCAP controls an enormous reservoir of music totaling some 1,270,000 selections. This includes original numbers—many of the popular song variety—by ASCAP melodists, special copyrighted arrangements of old tunes and classics, and compositions controled thru connections with foreign performing rights societies. About 40,000 are in the "active" category.

BMI Corrals a List.

In its brief existence since last April, BMI has managed to corral about 200,000 selections. It took over catalogs of various music publishing houses, grabbed a number of Cuban rhumbas, built up its own stable of composers, and picked up all the hillbilly, cowboy, and folk tunes lying around loose. The majority of the radio stations have not yet signed ASCAP contracts for the new year and will use only BMI selections or those in the public domain which carry no copyright.

But the question of performing rights is only one phase of the music monopoly situation and the government prosecutors have as yet taken no action against other alleged monopolistic abuses uncovered during the two year investigation of radio by the Federal Communications commission.

Contract Limits Assailed.

One of the practices which the commission severely criticized was the policy of NBC and CBS in placing talent under exclusive contract. The two big networks, the commission charged, were limiting the efforts of much of the best talent in the country to network programs and arbitrarily restricting programs of independent stations, all of which it is claimed, was not to the best interests of the listening public.

Between them, the two chains control 800 of the best known artists in the broadcast and concert field. The networks receive a commission on all sums earned by the artists whether from radio, concert, night club, motion picture, or other entertainment appearances, or from literary efforts, indorsement of products, recordings, and other sources.

New Guild Organized.

It was because of the hidden, extra fees which management was extracting from their income that the top notch performers organized the American Guild of Musical Artists several years ago. Lawrence Tibbett is president of AGMA.

In the concert field Columbia has a subsidiary called Columbia Concerts corporation. This branch has 130 musical attractions which it books for recitals, opera, and appearances with symphony orchestras. NBC has a concert division performing a similar function for 75 artists.

These two bureaus, important to the chains because of the powerful influence they wield over the whole music field as well as the revenue they produce, handle 80 per cent of the nation's concert business.

Chains Deny Charges.

NBC and CBS officials have denied charges they have entered into any territorial restrictions or agreements so one chain will not invade the community dominated by the other.

On the other hand, the chain officials have admitted they have practiced block booking. This is an arbitrary arrangement whereby they will refuse to supply a famous opera diva for a town concert unless it is agreed that an unknown pianist will perform in the concert series, for example.

In addition, the two networks control their own electrical transcription companies, and their own recording companies, and dominate the programming of hundreds of individual radio stations.

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.

[Central Standard Time.]

At 1:15 p. m. today W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system will carry a play by play report of the traditional Blue-Gray football classic at Montgomery, Ala., between stars of the north and the south. Bill Terry, Mutual sportscaster, will describe the game.

Uncle Harry Hosford. [Youngberg Photo.]

Radio's Voice, with Guy Savage, usually heard at 3 p. m., today only will be presented immediately after the football broadcast at about 4 p. m.

Sigmund Romberg's operetta, "The New Moon," will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N and Mutual from 9 to 10 p. m.

The Green Hornet, the thrilling series featuring dramatizations exposing crime and rackets, returns to W-G-N and Mutual at 7 p. m.

The Boys' Parade, presented by Harry Everingham, master of ceremonies, and members of the Chicago Federated Boys' Clubs, is scheduled on W-G-N at 9 p. m. Highlighting this morning's broadcast will be a song by a guest vocalist, Chris Christine of Oberlin college, and a short talk by Judge Harold P. O'Connell of the Municipal court.

At 10:30 a. m. Uncle Harry Hosford and Aunt Agnes will be heard in another of their popular Saturday morning jamborees. The program offers 30 minutes of varied entertainment by boys and girls.

W-G-N PRESENTS 'THE NEW MOON' AT 9 P.M. TODAY

Romberg's Romantic Music to Be Aired.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago Theater of the Air will present a romantic musical story, Sigmund Romberg's "The New Moon," tonight. Marion Claire and Conrad Thibault will sing the leading rôles of Marianne de Beaunoir and Robert de Misson in the operetta to be presented from 9 to 10 p. m. over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. Mark Love, W-G-N basso, will singe the rôle of Bessac. Luise Barclay, Bret Morrison, and Marvin Mueller will take these respective dramatic rôles.

The setting is gay, romantic New Orleans in 1793. Robert de Misson, a French duke who has killed the king's cousin in a duel, is indentured to M. Beaunoir, a wealthy planter. He falls in love with Beaunoir's daughter, Marianne.

Excitement in the Plot.

The story from then on includes such ingredients as an escape plot by bond slaves, a pirate ship, the French revolution, the marriage of Robert and Marianne, and the setting up of a Utopian government on the Isle of Pines with Robert as governor.

More noteworthy is the fact that "The New Moon" contains some of Romberg's best music—in particular, the haunting "Lover, Come Back to Me." Other favorites are "Wanting You," "One Kiss," "Softly as in a Morning Sunrise," and the smashing "Stout Hearted Men."

This will be Baritone Thibault's third appearance this season in the W-G-N operetta series. He was starred with Miss Claire in "The Vagabond King" and "Rio Rita." Mr. Love, besides appearing regularly on W-G-N, is known widely for his opera and concert work.

Weber to Direct Music.

The W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, will present the musical background. William A. Bacher will produce the operetta. The supporting players will be Donna Reade, John Goldsworthy, Bob Jellison, Willard Waterman, Dan Sutter, Les Spears, Malcolm Meacham, Fran Carlon, and Marvin Mueller. Robert Trendler is the choral master.

One hundred apprentice seamen from the Great Lakes Naval Training station, with Lieut. Lawrence R. Schmieder, chaplain, will be among the studio guests.

OBITUARIES

Walter F. Oomens.

Services for Walter F. Oomens, an operator of an automatic phonograph company, will be held Monday at 9 a. m. from the chapel at 3653 Fullerton avenue to St. Priscilla Catholic church. Mr. Oomens, who lived at 3243 North Rutherford avenue, died Wednesday at the age of 60 in St. Anne's hospital. His widow, Adriana, and seven children survive.

Mrs. Olive Swonguer.

The Order of Eastern Star will conduct funeral services tomorrow in Marengo, McHenry county, for Mrs. Olive Swonguer, who died Thursday night, 10 days after becoming worthy matron of the order. Mrs. Swonguer was 37 years old. She was the wife of Wendell T. Swonguer, Marengo undertaker.

Mrs. Sarah Gallagher.

New York, Dec. 27 [Special].—Mrs. Sarah Gallagher, long a resident here, died today at the age of 83 years. She is survived by a son, a daughter and two grandchildren, Margaret Alice and Mary Edna, 4680 West End avenue, Chicago, daughters of the late Dr. S. H. Gallagher.

Dr. William J. A. Bliss.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 27 [Special].—Dr. William Julian Albert Bliss, professor emeritus of physics at the Johns Hopkins university, died today. With Dr. Joseph S. Ames, former president of the university, he published in 1897 the "Manual of Experimental Physics."

Mrs. Fannie Kullman.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 27 (AP).—Mrs. Fannie Kullman, mother of Charles Kullman, Metropolitan Opera tenor, died today.

U. S. VOIDS LABOR BOARD'S ORDER AGAINST DU PONT

Richmond, Va., Dec. 27 (AP).—The federal court of appeals today dismissed a National Labor Relations board order against the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company, holding that the company had effectively "disestablished" the Association of Chemical Employés at the Belle, W. Va., plant.

The court's unanimous decision held that the posting of notices on 40 bulletin boards at the plant saying that employés were "absolutely free" to choose their own bargaining agent was a sufficient public expression of a "disestablishment" of the employés association.

O. W. BURGESS DIES AT WEDDING PARTY FOR SON

Oscar W. Burgess, 45 years old, 7350 Oak avenue, River Forest, owner of the Burgess Envelope company, died last night while attending a wedding reception for his son, William, 21, and his bride, the former Miss Ruth Ann McIntosh. The reception followed a wedding ceremony in the First Methodist church of Evanston, and was being held in the McIntosh home at 534 Judson avenue, Evanston.

Miss McIntosh is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth McIntosh, widow of John K. McIntosh, an investment broker, who dropped dead Dec. 31, 1937, in the room where Mr. Burgess died.

Mr. Burgess' widow, Inez, and two daughters, Kay and Lee, were present last night. Mr. Burgess was the son of H. S. Burgess, state senator and prominent in Wayne county politics.

2 CHICAGO AREA FIRMS BID FOR ENGINE ORDER

Buenos Aires to Buy 2,000 Bus Motors.

Two Chicago area engine makers are in the running for a contract to build possibly 2,000 bus motors for the city of Buenos Aires, Argentina. This was disclosed yesterday by representatives of companies who reported at the same time that United States business prospects in Latin America are improving. They said English competitors are running two to three months behind on deliveries.

The Chicago area firms which hope to get all or a part of the bus motor business are the Buda company, Harvey, Ill., and the Waukesha Motor company, Waukesha, Wis.

George H. Koons, divisional director of export sales for Buda company, manufacturer of engines and many kinds of machinery, returned to Chicago and announced that Bueos Aires is now testing, American, English, and German engines preparatory to placing a large order.

City to Build Buses.

Koons said that the city is taking over all types of transportation and plans to build a fleet of buses, which will be powered by foreign made motors. If the purchase amounts to about 2,000 engines, the cost would exceed $3,000,000 for the motors alone. The bus bodies will be built in Buenos Aires.

The city is conducting a six month service test of various engines, including three of Buda's model 468 standard 90 horsepower Diesel bus motors. It was understood also that motors built by Waukesha Motor company are being tested, along with other American, English, and German types.

According to Koons, competition from the Germans is not serious, because German manufacturers are practically limited to delivering goods already in the warehouse in Latin America.

Cites Exchange Problem.

England's tardy deliveries tend to help American competitors, Koons said, adding:

"United States companies' ability to deliver at once is helping them to get business in Latin America."

But, Koons said, the trouble is that Latin American nations cannot buy as much from us as they would like to buy, because they cannot get enough United States dollars to finance all the purchases they would like to make.

"Our country either will have to extend credits or loans, or will have to start buying more Latin American goods," Koons said.

Citing Buda's experience, Koons said the company can get many more orders in Latin America than import restrictions will permit it to fill. Import restrictions are designed to conserve foreign exchange.

Imports Are Restricted.

Recently the city of Rosario, Argentina, near Buenos Aires, bought 32 engines, including 12 from Buda and 20 from English makers, Koons said. Buda was ready to deliver immediately, but cannot do so because the Argentine government has not yet cleared the dollars necessary to permit the deal to go thru. The English manufacturers could not promise delivery sooner than eight months, but they got the bulk of the order because sterling was available.

Two Buda engines have been in a Buenos Aires customs warehouse for a year awaiting completion of a foreign exchange transaction, Koons said. That was because the engines were to be used in certain work not considered essential enough to rank the transaction high on the priority list. Engines sold for marine or agricultural purposes are licensed immediately in Argentina.

The Buda representatives reported Mexico has become increasingly optimistic since the national elections. He predicted that Mexico will be a big market for American machinery for highway and railroad building, irrigation projects, and replacement of refinery equipment.

MILLS BUY MAY WHEAT ON RISE IN FLOUR SALES

Buying of May wheat attributed to mills held that future steady on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. It was reported that bakers have placed some fairly large orders for flour with both southwestern and northwestern mills. Closing trades were unchanged to ¼ cent lower, the latter on July and September which were sold by spreaders against purchases of May.

Corn showed a firm undertone from the start and May advanced ¾ cent at one time to the highest price at which it has sold since Dec. 2. Closing sales showed gains of ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel. Oats finished unchanged to ¼ cent higher, the latter on May which was bought by cash grain interests. Soy beans advanced ⅝ to 1¼ cents.

Summation of Evidence in Hopson Trial Completed

New York, Dec. 27 [Special].—Summation of evidence was completed this evening in the trial of Howard C. Hopson, former head of the billion dollar Associated Gas and Electric system, and two co-defendants charged with mail fraud and conspiracy. Hugh A. Fulton, special assistant to the United States attorney-general, urged the jury to "regard the rights" of 700,000 investors who he said lost money in Hopson's promotions. The other two defendants are Charles M. Travis and Garrett A. Brownback, attorneys,

Chicago Area Business Up, Says Schaller

Business in the Chicago federal reserve district [seventh] is continuing to advance, with some lines reaching all time highs, George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, reported yesterday. He found that substantial progress has been made in industry, trade, credit, and finance, while agricultural prices for the most part were firm.

"Many industries which should show some decline at this season have maintained operations in good volume," Schaller stated, "and the heavy industries, particularly those affected by the defense program, are pushing production levels to maximum capacity."

Pay Rolls Rise Again.

Schaller said further that contrary to the seasonal declines which are usually expected in the seventh district during November, both employment and pay rolls in the district factories increased during the month.

A 1 per cent gain in the number of boosted these indexes to hgher levels than any reached in 1937, the year of the highest business activity in the postdepression period. As compared with November, 1939, there were gains of 12 and 19 per cent, respectively, in employment and in wage payments.

Steel Demand Is Strong.

Chicago area steel mills were reported as having their order books well filled thru the first quarter, with no important slackening in demand.

New automobile demand continued heavy. Manufacturers have maintained high operating schedules so that total fourth quarter production should set a record for the period, Schaller continued.

Contrary to the usual seasonal decline, total construction was up somewhat. This was accounted for by a gain in industrial construction as residential work showed a seasonal drop. As compared with 1939 there was a 43 per cent increase in total construction contracts.

SEARS-ROEBUCK GIVES MILLION TO PENSION FUND

Sears, Roebuck & Co. has made a special contribution of $1,000,000 to its employes' savings and profit sharing pension fund, T. J. Carney, president, announced yesterday.

In a letter to members of the fund Carney said that "this largest total contribution in the fund's history is made in face of an estimated reduction in net profits due to the fact that federal taxes have increased from less than $10,000,000 in 1939 to an estimated $20,500,000 in 1940." The special contribution is in addition to the company's regular annual contribution of 5 per cent of net profit before federal taxes.

The total contribution this year amounts to about 25 per cent more than the largest previous profit disbursement to Sears' workers, Carney said. During this year membership of the fund has increased 17 per cent, bringing the present total to 47,021 members.

Beatrice Creamery's Net Income Lower in Quarter

Beatrice Creamery company, Chicago, yesterday reported for the three months ended Nov. 30 consolidated net income of $470,938, equal to 93 cents a share on the common stock. In the corresponding 1939 period profit was $523,740, or $1.07 a share. C. H. Haskell, president, said the decline in earnings was partly accounted for by an increase of $40,000 in federal taxes.

MONEY, GOLD AND SILVER

The Canadian dollar rose 3/16 cent at New York yesterday to 86 5/16 cents in terms of United States money. The Shanghai dollar was 0.07 cent higher at 5.64 cents. The British pound was unchanged at $4.04.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—Bar silver, 34¾c per ounce, unchanged.

EXPORTS SLUMP IN NOVEMBER TO 328 MILLION

Farm Products Are Heaviest Losers.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—Value of American exports dropped to $328,000,000 in November from $344,000,000 in October.

The department of commerce said today that restrictions brought about by the European war were responsible. Altho agricultural products were the heaviest losers, many other export items dropped slightly during the month, including airplanes. Shipments of aircraft and parts, primarily to the British empire, totaled $26,738,000 in November, compared with $31,389,000 in October.

Persons in close touch with aircraft exports said a scarcity of shipping bottoms was a major explanation of the decline. They pointed to the toll of shipping taken by Nazi submarines.

Report 291 Planes Shipped.

The commerce department report gave no breakdown of figures, but other sources said that 291 planes were exported in November, aside from engines and spare parts, compared with 334 in October. Of these, 241 were destined for England and an undisclosed number for Canada. In October, 279 planes were shipped to England and Canada combined.

Other explanations advanced for the November decline included changes in some models, especially the installation of more guns; weather conditions and shortage of navigating instruments hampering trans-Atlantic flights of long range bombers.

For December, shipments to Britain were reported on the increase. By one trade estimate, December exports were expected to reach 350 planes, with about 275 destined for Britain.

American Imports Rise.

Merchandise imports increased to $223,000,000 in November compared with $207,000,000 in October, due mostly to increased purchases abroad of a number of raw materials, particularly newsprint and burlap.

Exports exceeded imports in November by $104,255,000. In the first 11 months of 1940 the export excess was $1,331,117,000, one of the largest in history. During the 11 months exports were $3,703,099,000 and imports $2,371,982,000. In the similar portion of 1939 exports amounted to $2,809,131,000, imports $2,071,274,000, and the export excess was $737,857,000.

"Altho it is to be expected under present war conditions," a department statement said, "a feature of the export trade in November, as in October, was the low proportion that agricultural products comprised of the total.

Value Under 27 Millions.

"Their value dropped to less than $27,000,000 from $33,000,000 in October and approximately $64,000,000 in November, 1939. In contrast with 22 per cent in November, 1939, exports of agricultural commodities in November, 1940, made up only 8.3 per cent of total United States exports.

"Cotton exports were unusually small, amounting to less than $8,000,000, or approximately one fourth of the value of cotton exports in November of last year.

"Unmanufactured tobacco exports were valued at $2,500,000, approximately one half the total of November a year ago. As a group, exports of foodstuffs were also substantially smaller than in November, 1939."

The statement added that cotton exports would have been negligible except for Russian purchases in recent months, which were the first substantial soviet purchases of American cotton since 1935.

Other exports, the department said, showed an increasing preponderance of weapons and other machinery and tools necessary to war.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC DIPS IN WEEK, BUT EXCEEDS 1939

Cars of revenue freight loaded in the United States during the week ended Dec. 21 totaled 700,242, a decrease of 36,090 cars, or 4.9 per cent, from the preceding week, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. The week's loadings were 48,850 cars, or 7.5 per cent, larger than a year ago, and 126,044 cars, or 22 per cent, ahead of two years ago.

All classes of freight showed a decline from the week before but followed the seasonal trend. The decrease, however, was less than usual.

NEW FINANCING IS LIGHTEST IN LAST 16 WEEKS

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Public offerings of new securities in the holiday week fell to $14,984,439, smallest in 16 weeks, Poor's Publishing company reported today. The total was less than 7 per cent of the unusually big volume of the preceding week.

Municipal offerings accounted for most of the week's financing. Corporate issues were negligible. Comparisons follow:

Steel Industry Is Aiding Fight Against Inflation, Says Girdler

Cleveland, O., Dec. 27 [Special].—By maintaining basic steel prices unchanged the steel industry is supporting the government's effort to avoid the distaster of inflation, T. M. Girdler, chairman of the board, and R. J. Wysor, president, Republic Steel corporation, said in a letter sent stockholders today.

"Prices have remained unchanged in the face of heavy demand and are likely to continue so unless costs are seriously increased," they said.

[Economists have declared that a sharp spiral of rising prices would signalize a period of inflation.]

Giving Full Coöperation.

The steel industry is coöperating with the government without reservation and is devoting itself to the defense effort without stint, they added.

R. J. Wysor (left) and T. M. Girdler declare steel industry gives full co-operation to defense program.

"There has appeared to be some confusion as to the real purpose of the defense program," the letter said. "Some regard it as a grandiose pump-priming scheme, the forerunner of a gigantic boom and the cure-all for unemployment. Others regard it as the means of further socialization of industry and of the unionization of all industrial employés. Still others look upon it as a means of multiplying the luxuries available to every home.

"But the real objective of the defense program is none of these. It has only one purpose, and that is the production of armaments. To that purpose every other consideration must be secondary."

Sacrifices to Be Made.

Warning that great industrial activity based upon deficit spending for armaments cannot produce a real or lasting prosperity, the letter declared that taxes of necessity must be extreme and business profits limited accordingly. Further it will not be possible to have all needed defense materials and all peace time advantages.

"We cannot measure at this time the sacrifices which we as a nation or as individuals may be called upon to make," the letter continued. "This does not mean that we are in danger of the deprivation and starvation suffered by many countries in the world today. It may mean that the necessities of the defense program will not leave sufficient surplus materials to provide for greatly expanded everyday needs.

"The defense effort is the joint undertaking by all the people of this country in support of the kind of government which the United States and Britain remain the two outstanding exponents."

No Price Rule in Arms Plan, Says Taitel

Martin Taitel, economic consultant of the price stabilization division of the defense commission, said yesterday that the government at present does not plan to impose price-fixing restrictions under the defense program. He spoke before the American Statistical association, a division of the Allied Social Science associations that are meeting in the Stevens hotel.

Declaring that price was considered more as a "resultant than as a prime mover in the productive process," Taitel said that the government's efforts would be directed toward controling the supply and demand of essential defense goods. This, he said, would involve the control of exports and imports, the use of substitute materials, and the setting up of priorities as situations demand.

Reports Three Purposes.

Altho definite price policies have not been determined, Taitel said that the government's approach to the price problem concerns these three points:

1. To provide a "reasonable" degree of stability of price levels.
2. To provide a flexibility of individual prices as long as such prices remain within bounds.
3. To provide a balanced price structure or relationships between prices which are conducive to balanced and expanding flows of production from and incomes to the various groups of economy.

"However, should these procedures fail of their purpose and should it seem likely that prices are about to start an upward spiral, it is quite probable that more direct procedures will be used," he said.

Trend Toward Central Buying.

Discussing trends in retail distribution, John W. Wingate, professor of merchandising at New York university school of retailing, reported that a trend toward greater central buying was noticeable in food and other industries.

Dr. Howard T. Hovde, assistant professor of marketing in the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania, was elected president of the American Marketing association.

CONTRASEASONAL GAIN REPORTED IN EMPLOYMENT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—The department of labor today made public a pay roll and employment report for November showing a contraseasonal increase of 40,000 in nonagricultural employment. The average decline in November of the preceding 11 years has been 400,000, the report said.

The department estimated that nonagricultural employment now totaled 36,535,000, a gain of 1,100,000 since November, 1939.

People and Events

Henry P. Chandler, who became the first director of the administrative office of the United States courts in 1939, will address the Union League club of Chicago at a luncheon meeting Monday. He formerly was president of the Union League club.

Lain & Son, Chicago undertaker, announced it will start an employé pension plan on Jan. 1. The company and employés will share equally in building a fund which will be used to purchase annuities. The company employs 54 men and women.

The Sam Cassel company, 833 West Randolph street, wholesale distributor of cigars and liquors, will observe its 25th anniversary with a dinner today in the Morrison hotel at which employés will be the guests.

Ernest C. Hoy has been named manager of the Chicago branch of the Sun Life Assurance company of Canada, succeeding D. J. Scott, who has retired.

QUESTIONNAIRES SENT 3,000 COMPANIES ON STATE DEFENSE WORK

So that every manufacturer in Illinois may have an opportunity to participate in the national defense program, the Illinois Manufacturers' association announced yesterday that it had sent questionnaires to 3,000 member firms to obtain information on plant facilities and their adaptability to defense production. The completed questionnaires will be turned over to the national defense commission and to the procurement branches of the military service.

The survey is a part of a national survey sponsored by the National Industrial council. An especial effort will be made to reach smaller manufacturers which constitute a large percentage of Illinois establishments and which may have been overlooked in placement of defense contracts. The association said that while these smaller companies might not be able to make fighting materials, some could manufacture parts.

MULTIPLE TRADE BAN STAYS, BUT WITH EXEMPTION

New York, Dec. 27 [Special].—After two days of conferences, the governors of the New York Stock exchange today refused to rescind the exchange's rule prohibiting its members from trading for their own account on other exchanges in stocks listed also on the New York exchange. It thereby invited a hearing on the matter by the Securities and Exchange commission, which last week demanded that the rule be rescinded.

At the same time the exchange governors announced a blanket exemption from the rule for all firms which were engaged in making markets in New York stocks on the floors of other exchanges on July 12 last, pending a final disposition of the dispute.

Officials of the Chicago Stock exchange said last night they had no statement to make concerning the action of the New York Stock exchange.

$278,061 IS PAID DEPOSITORS OF 3 CLOSED BANKS

Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, yesterday announced distributions totaling $278,061 to approximately 26,000 depositors in three closed state banks in Chicago.

The largest distribution was made to approximately 11,000 depositors of the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank, where 7½ per cent, amounting to $165,000, was paid. It was the fourth since the bank closed, bringing the total repaid to 43½ per cent.

The Cragin State bank made a 4 per cent repayment, totaling $18,485, to some 4,000 depositors, making 35½ per cent of its deposits repaid.

Approximately 11,000 depositors of the Second Northwestern State bank received a 5 per cent payment, amounting to $94,576 and bringing the total paid since the bank closed to 60 per cent.

U. S. Grants Argentina Another 50 Millions

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—The United States agreed formally today to make $50,000,000 available to Argentina to stabilize that country's currency system and promote trade between the two nations. Today's agreement brings the total of aid given Argentina in recent weeks up to $110,000,000, the Export-Import bank having recently given a credit of $60,000,000.

Giannini Settles $78,869 Income Tax Claim for $7,886

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—The tax appeals board agreed today to accept $7,886 from Amadeo P. Giannini, San Francisco banker, in settlement of a treasury claim that he was deficient $78,689 in 1935 income taxes.

FEDERAL RULE OVER INSURANCE HELD EASY STEP

No Legal Obstacles, Says Professor.

If congress decided to place the insurance business under federal regulation there would be no legal obstacles in the way, Prof. Harold C. Havighurst of the Northwestern university law school said yesterday. He spoke at the annual meeting of the American Association of University Teachers of Insurance at the Stevens hotel.

Col. Chas. B. Robbins opposes federal regulation.

Havighurst said that a Supreme court ruling that the insurance business is interstate commerce would not be a necessary step to federal regulation. He explained that congress could subject insurance companies to its control on the ground that they lend money to enterprises engaged in interstate commerce.

Declares Argument Weak.

He asserted, however, that the argument for complete federal regulation is weak and that the present system of state supervision will continue so long as it is improved and made more effective.

A suggestion by Prof. Havighurst that a federal corporation similar to the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation be established to insure life insurance was criticized by Rollin M. Clark, vice president of the Continental Casualty company.

Clark said that only a small percentage of the total insurance in force was held by policyholders whose companies failed in the depression. He said the failures were the result of faulty management and not of any breakdown of insurance principles.

Opposes Federal Regulation.

Col. Charles B. Robbins, manager of the American Life convention, spoke against federal regulation of insurance. He said that the Securities and Exchange commission attempted to build a case against the insurance companies by the introduction of isolated instances of misconduct of small companies in the hearing before the temporary national economic [monopoly] committee. He said the SEC report on life insurance has been printed but not yet made public.

"The people of the United States," he said, "have no reason to be proud of federal supervision of the various lines of endeavor which the federal government has assumed to regulate.

State's Rights Threatened.

"The constant encroachment of the federal government upon the rights of the states has increased to such an extent that unless measures are taken to stop it, the entire structure of our present union will have to be revised to the end that we will no longer be a union of sovereign states but one nation with states reduced to mere subordinate provinces."

MICHIGAN AVE. PROPERTY SOLD TO 4 CHICAGOANS

A group of four Chicagoans paid $200,000 cash yesterday for the 48½ feet of frontage and four story building at 174-176 North Michigan avenue. This is at the rate of $412.37 per front foot. According to the 1939 assessment the property's full value is $325,435. Its assessed valuation was $120,411.

The land, which has a depth of 129.4 feet, adjoins the International Harvester building on the south. It has been in the possession of the Schoellkopf family for many years. Title was conveyed by the estate of Henry Schoellkopf Sr.

Austin L. Wyman, attorney, headed the buying syndicate. The other three, he said, are wealthy Chicagoans who bought the property for investment. Negotiations are under way to lease the three upper floors, now vacant, to an eastern restaurant firm.

Canada Pegs Butter Prices at Level Recorded Dec. 12

Ottawa, Dec. 27 (AP).—Wholesale butter prices thruout Canada were pegged today at the maximum prevailing in each locality Dec. 12. The price fixing was announced by the wartime prices and trade board. The wholesale price for first grade creamery solids in Montreal on Dec. 12 was approximately 34½ cents a pound. The present price is around 37 cents.

Store Sales in 3 Weeks at High Level

Sales of Chicago department stores in the three weeks ended Dec. 21 were the best for any three week period since the predepression years, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. However, trade last week declined 0.1 per cent below the corresponding week last year.

Business of stores in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district, which includes all of Iowa and major parts of Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana, increased 4.8 per cent last week over a year ago. Trade reached the highest levels since the federal reserve started keeping weekly records in 1937.

4.7 Per Cent Above Year Ago.

Seventh district department store sales in the first three weeks of this month gained 4.7 per cent over a year ago. As in Chicago, sales during this period were the largest since prior to the depression. The bank said that November sales were the highest since 1929.

Chicago stores reported sales increased 14 per cent in the week ended Dec. 21 over a week earlier. Sales of the 7th district were 10 per cent larger than a week ago.

National Total Higher.

Nation-wide department store business increased 7 per cent last week over a year ago, the federal reserve board reported. Trade in the four weeks preceding Dec. 21 was 4 per cent ahead of last year.

With the exception of the Kansas City reserve district, where sales volume was about the same as last year, increased business for the last week was reported by all parts of the country. Widest gains were in the Richmond and Philadelphia districts.

An increase of 7 per cent in sales in November over the same month last year was reported by 2,703 wholesalers representing 36 kinds of business, the department of commerce announced today. Their sales amounted to $214,296,000, compared with $199,903,000 in November, 1939.

COMMODITIES FUTURES TRADE RISES 55 PCT.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 [Special].—The department of agriculture today reported that the volume of trading in commodity futures during the year ended last June 30 showed increases ranging from 4 to 185 per cent over the preceding year. The average gain was 55 per cent.

Only three commodities, corn, barley, and potatoes, recorded declines. Futures trading in wheat increased 52 per cent, cotton, 16 per cent, and wool tops, 185 per cent.

J. M. Mehl, chief of the commodity exchange administration, said in his annual report to the department that the estimated value of futures trading during the year in the 14 commodities supervised by the administration was $10,376,000,000, an increase of 55 per cent over the $6,715,000,000 total for 1938-'39. The 1939-'40 total, however, was only 45 per cent of the estimated annual average of $23,000,000,000 for the 10 years 1929-'38.

NORTH WESTERN NET OPERATING INCOME LOWER

Net railway operating income of the North Western road in November totaled $907,145 compared with $1,026,949 in November, 1939, the company reported yesterday. Gross revenues were slightly higher but taxes and operating expenses increased, R. L. Wiliams, chief executive officer said.

The road had a net railway operat- income of $8,525,100 for the first 11 months of this year compared with $5,437,691 in the corresponding period last year.

TWO MORE BIG ARMS PLANTS WILL BE BUILT

Ohio and Tennessee Get Awards.

The war department yesterday announced that a $11,000,000 TNT plant will be built in Sandusky, O., and a $14,000,000 ammunition loading plant will be built in Milan, Tenn. These activities were the high spots yesterday on the nation's defense front.

The Sandusky plant will be operated by the Trojan Powder company of Allentown, Pa. It is the last of three TNT plants to be built under the government's program from the $800,000,000 fund provided by congress for the building of special facilities. The others are being built at Wilmington, Ill., and Weldon Springs, Mo.

Procter to Run Plant.

The Milan plant is to be operated by the Procter and Gamble Defense corporation, Cincinnati. Both plants are to be owned by the government. Negotiations are nearing completion for their construction and operation on a cost-plus-fixed-fee basis.

Meantime it was disclosed that progress is being made on the huge armament plants at Wilmington. The army has let a contract for 2,000,000 square feet of roofing material to cost $400,000 to the J. L. Adler Roofing and Insulation company, Joliet. Work will be started about Jan. 15 on the roof, requiring about 200 men for the job.

Use Special Material.

The roofing will be of a special material strong enough to give protection against the weather, but able to give easily in the event of an explosion. It was explained that the building in the Wilmington ordnance operation are being constructed with strong sides and light roofs so that if an explosion occurs most of the force will go upward thru the roof.

Other defense activities yesterday concluded several navy awards. These included: Hamilton Standard Propellor division, United Aircraft corporation, propeller assemblies, $237,351; Lionel corporation, Irvington, N. J., compensating binnacles, $137,080; Copperweld Steel corporation, Warren, O., nickel steel, $260,500.

Issues Industry Study.

Declines in the operations of 75 industries whose production is regarded as closely linked to the nation's military requirements were shown yesterday in an analysis made public by the census bureau, covering the period from 1936 to 1939. The report disclosed declines in personnel, total wages and salaries, cost of materials, and value of manufactured products.

"The 75 selected industries employed 2,970,419 wage earners in 1939 which was 11.8 per cent less than the same industries employed in 1937," the report said. "The wages paid these employés totaled $3,842,745,210 for 1939, which was 13.5 per cent less than the wages paid employés classified in these industries for 1937.

"The salaried personnel and the salaries paid showed decreases between 1937 and 1939 of 3.5 and 3.3 per cent, respectively.

SURPLUS BOOST BY CONTINENTAL BANK EXPECTED

With additions made since the last statement was published June 29, the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company is expected to report a surplus of $40,000,000 in the year-end statement to be issued Jan. 1.

Surplus reported at midyear was $30,000,000. With the $10,000,000 of added surplus to be included in the next statement the bank will have combined capital and surplus of $90,000,000. There has been no change in the $50,000,000 of common capital.

Preliminary estimates indicate that 1940 earnings will approximate the $15,526,000 reported for 1939. The per share profit last year was $10.58. Dividends will be considered at the next meeting of directors Jan. 10. No change in the present $4 annual rate has been indicated.

Use of Ontario Roads Denied to Michigan Trucks

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 27 [Special].—A petition of Michigan truck shippers for permission to transport goods over Ontario highways from Windsor to Buffalo has been refused by the Canadian department of national revenue, it was disclosed today. The department said that problems of supervision would be too great.

STOCKS SWEPT HIGHER IN SHORT BUYING FLURRY

Volume Tops 1¼ Million Shares for Day.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—The stock market broke a week long stalemate today as the briskest trading in more than a month sent prices into a mild year-end rally.

While the flurry was relatively short lived and not all gains were completely held, the final tally showed 374 issues ahead, 268 even, and 284 down. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .1 of a point to 43.2, but there was a fair scattering of gains running to major fractions.

Transfers, amounting to 1,272,710 shares, were last exceeded Nov. 14. In the previous session turnover was only 838,362 shares.

Buy "Defense" Stocks.

The friendlier attitude of traders began today, as on Thursday, with a handful of "national defense stocks," some of them not normally very active.

As the session progressed buying spread. Brokers said the fact that year-end selling had about been completed gave the bulls a break by removing the drain of recent liquidation.

The earlier buying, which took several to new highs for a year or more, began with such specialties as Bath Iron Works, Timken-Detroit, New York Shipbuilding, Lima Locomotive, Electric Boat, and National Acme. It spread later, especially to metals and aircrafts, tho most other sections also had their representatives in the advancing column.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday was the most active since Nov. 8. Transactions involved 40,000 shares, the largest volume since the postelection spurts. Price trends on the 126 issues traded were irregular, losses predominating.

Rath Packing closed at 53½, up ½, and Signode Steel Strapping at 19, up 1½, new highs for 1940. Traders bought heavily of Commonwealth Edison, the market closing at 29, up ¼.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Year-end shifting of accounts helped to boost bond market volume today but it also brought conflicting trends thruout the list.

Rail loans and a good sized group of low yield issues advanced.

United States government obligations were pushed up as much as 13/32ds of a point.

Price changes generally were limited to fractions.

Bank Stocks.

American National shares advanced 5 points and Chicago Title a point yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Other leading issues were unchanged.

ALASKA JUNEAU CUTS DIVIDEND AS COSTS MOUNT

Increased costs and taxes caused directors of the Alaska Juneau Gold Mining company yesterday to reduce the quarterly dividend payment on the company's $10 par common stock to 12½ cents. In prior quarters the company paid 15 cents a share. The directors, in voting the reduction, said they believed strengthening of cash reserves was desirable.

The first dividend on the common stock of Conde Nast Publications since Oct. 1, 1931, was voted yesterday by its directors. Holders will receive 25 cents a share.
